'A Travesty of Justice' Charged by Commissioner

LONDON TRAIN ROBBERS BAG TREMENDOUS HAUL

LONDON (Reuters) — Train robbers are believed to have netted thousands of pounds when they raided a train bound for London from the south coast Tuesday night.

The gang bound and gagged a guard when the train halted at a light—believed to have been short-circuited by accomplices to make it red—and flung out mailbags on the track.

Police were investigating the possibility the raiders might have been the same three masked men who overpowered the guard of another south coast express train in August and got away with £9,000 and again stole thousands of pounds on the same run in September.

Rail Union Blasts Gov't On Strike Ban

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief railway union spokesman Frank H. Hall charged today that the government has taken the side of the railways in outlawing a nation-wide railway strike until May 15.

"The legislation would be less one-sided if provision had been made for some interim wage increase," Mr. Hall told a press conference.

"Will a strike next May or June, if such a course has to be followed, be more palatable to the government then than now?"

But he left the question of a possible May 16 railway work stoppage up in the air until the non-operating unions' negotiating team has met.

Mr. Hall called the government's legislation—introduced in the Commons Tuesday night after last-ditch talks failed to avert next Saturday's strike threat—"a most extraordinary measure."

"Attempt to rationalize it as they may, the fact cannot be obscured that the government has taken sides in the dispute between the railways and the unions—on the side of the railways."

SEES LOYALTY HURT

The effect of the legislation "will be to undermine the loyalty of the employees and their confidence" in the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act, which permits a strike after negotiating and conciliation fails to achieve a settlement.

"The railway operation continuation act, if enacted, will bring a legacy of disillusionment and bitterness which may never be eradicated," he said.

"It is obvious that if the railways felt confident that they would be salvaged when the chips were down, they didn't need to make a wage offer or any concession whatever."

With time running out before the Saturday deadline for the work stoppage, Labor Minister Starr introduced in the Commons a tight, seven-clause act to shunt the railway crisis ahead to May 15. Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the legislation will "prevent" the strike.

The government brought the legislation before Parliament less than four hours after last-ditch emergency negotiations between railway and union leaders collapsed without any agreement on the multi-million-dollar wage dispute.

The legislation, "an act to provide for the continuation of

Peronist Revolts Crushed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Peronist revolts flared today in the industrial city of Rosario and in two oil towns in northern Argentina, but the government declared all three were crushed.

Retired army officers who had served under ousted dictator Juan D. Peron and a band of armed civilians tried to storm an army barracks at Rosario, northwest of Buenos Aires.

An army communique said they were repulsed after killing three of the Rosario garrison and fled, leaving behind one of their dead, a retired colonel who served as aide to one of Peron's military chiefs. Other accounts put the casualties at 10 dead and 50 wounded.

The communique said 33 persons were arrested.

Shortly after the four-hour skirmish at Rosario, supporters of Peron struck at the oil field towns of Tartagal and Vespucio, in remote northern Argentina near the Bolivian frontier.

Government sources said the rebels took over the airport and a police station at Tartagal, but army troops had no trouble recapturing the positions.

At Vespucio, 20 miles south of Tartagal, the rebels were said to have occupied oil installations and offices of the state oil monopoly, but government circles said the insurgents were put down and the situation was in hand throughout the country.

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) —The army tightened its grip on Caracas today with a purge of police units in the worker's districts rocked by street rioting earlier this week.

Bus-Train Disaster Toll Stands at 17

LAMONT, Alta. (CP) — Death toll in the collision here Tuesday of a school bus and a freight train rose to 17 early today with the death in hospital of a 17-year-old girl who suffered severe brain injuries.

She was Bernadette Hayduck, 17, of Chipman.

Fifteen were killed outright, another died previously in hospital.

In a repared statement, Dr. Morley Young, administrator of the Archer Memorial Hospital, said 17 of the 25 students injured in the crash were "definitely better."

Six of these suffered only minor injuries and would be released from hospital today or Thursday. Seven remained in serious condition. Some were described as "on the brink of death."

The school bus, smashed to pieces by a fast-moving freight train, was carrying 41 students to Lamont High School from Chipman, 10 miles southeast, when it was struck broadside as it crossed the Canadian National Railways' tracks within sight of the school.

A SENTIMENTAL 86 TODAY

HIGH AND HUMBLE REMEMBER

Churchill's Birthday Hailed Around World

LONDON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill confounded his doctors today by getting up to celebrate his 86th birthday—a sentimental event that was being hailed around the world.

Announcing that his famous patient was rising from his invalid's bed, Lord Moran, one of Churchill's doctors, told reporters:

"He's getting on very well. He's getting up for lunch, but whether he stays up for the rest of the day depends on how he feels."

It was only 15 days ago that Britain's wartime leader tripped over a rug in his bedroom and fractured a small bone in his back.

JUNK MAN CALLS

Friends and admirers, the high and the humble from all over the earth sent greetings and gifts to the 86-year-old statesman.

Hyde Park Gate, the quiet little dead-end street on which he lives, was jammed with traffic.

They came from Queen Elizabeth, prime ministers, foreign rulers, potentates, old friends, little children — and even junk man Chris Shephard, who drove his horse and cart to Churchill's door to offer good wishes.

First callers at his home were three neighbors, a girl of 11, her seven-year-old sister and a boy of five. The girls gave a bunch of violets to Churchill's maid and the boy handed over a greeting card.

Over his customary breakfast-in-bed he was able to dip into an avalanche of cables and mail — including the unfailing affectionate message from Queen Elizabeth and the warm greetings of his old friend, President Eisenhower.

Crowned by a "horn of plenty," the cake virtually is Churchill's life in a panorama of icing. Almost every symbol connected with his distinguished career flows out of the enormous horn in pink and white icing. Prominent, of course, is a gigantic cigar — even to a glowing end and realistic gold band.

Haddock Tells His Story On Arena Fight

Victoria's smoldering Arena-management debate erupted once more today with a blistering, 1,600-word statement by Commissioner Courtney Haddock, charging his fellow commissioners with "completely shocking and grossly unfair" treatment of six recently-resigned employees.

The six, headed by office manager Kenneth Noakes, quit their jobs six weeks ago in protest over conduct of Arena affairs by manager Joe Dukowski, who subsequently submitted his resignation to the commission.

Mr. Haddock, who tendered his resignation last Wednesday and then asked that it be withheld on the assurance that "the separated six" would be treated fairly, made it clear in his statement today that this meant the re-hiring of Noakes and five others.

His statement today, however, did not constitute a resignation.

"Once this is cleaned up," he declared — "and I shall not give in until it is—I hope never to be involved in civic matters again, other than those which concern my own business."

(Mr. Haddock, a director of Woodward's Stores, is also president of the Royal Jubilee Hospital Board.)

COURTNEY HADDOCK

'Had No Choice But to Resign'

For the first time publicly, Mr. Haddock indicated that Dukowski had resigned because "he had no other choice," and criticized the commission for not making the resignation effective immediately, with appropriate severance pay.

"I find myself at complete odds with my fellow commissioners," Mr. Haddock stated. "(They) are, I feel, doing a grave injustice to our employees and especially to Mr. Ken Noakes, the office manager, with 11 years of good and faithful service and extremely long hours of work."

He described the "severe reprimand" to Dukowski previously announced by commission chairman Frank Mulliner, as "sheer nonsense."

His fellow commissioners Mr. Haddock described as "honorable men with faulty judgment."

After reviewing the history of emergency meetings, he said that the "gross unfairness" being meted out to the employees "offends every fibre of fairness I possess."

Mr. Haddock suggested further that, had the employees been members of a labor union, "they would never have received such treatment," and added: "I am sitting with management and I am ashamed."

Full Text of Haddock's Statement

November 28, 1960.

I feel it is now time to speak!

As an arena commissioner (incidentally, I did not seek the job), I feel one's duty is to see to the best interests of the arena, the net revenue, the customers, the physical plant, and as important as any, the welfare of our staff.

The treatment being given to six loyal and conscientious employees with years of service is, in my opinion, completely shocking and grossly unfair, to say the least.

The only sin committed by these employees is to bring to the attention of the commission, intolerable conditions of management.

I feel as one of the commissioners responsible to the city for the affairs of the arena, we should be extremely grateful to our staff for the course they have taken in bringing these to our attention. This was the only course they could take.

I have no wish to pile further coals on our arena manager. He has resigned and in my opinion rightly so, as under the circumstances he had no other choice, but I feel his resignation should be effective immediately, with three months' severance pay or more if necessary, to give an opportunity for his re-establishment elsewhere.

We should then reinstate our experienced employees who are most capable and able to carry on with a "tight ship" until a new manager is appointed.

Here I find myself at complete odds with my fellow commissioners, who are, I feel, doing grave injustice to our employees, and especially to Mr. Ken Noakes, the office manager, with 11 years of good and faithful service and extremely long hours of work.

Right from the beginning I have been urging my colleagues to call our employees in and at least listen to their problems — that, I think, is simple basic justice.

This they have stubbornly and consistently refused to do — why, I cannot for the life of me understand.

'I Had Only Heard Half the Story'

We held a meeting with the Manager for a report, after which the Commission's reaction was to accept his story en tot, cast our employees adrift without a hearing, and carry on after a severe (??) reprimand to the Manager.

This was sheer nonsense, for rather than the Chairman speaking in the strong emphatic terms required in such a situation, words were read by our City Manager in his characteristic quiet and courtly manner, which meant little or nothing to the recipient.

Here again I was forced to

NEW ATTACKS

Arena Row Election Issue?

Memorial Arena Commission today came under fire from two new sources as the controversy began shaping up into a possible civic election issue.

At the same time, commission member W. D. Osborn denied a report that he had said one of the six former arena employees would be sacrificed to save face for the commission.

The bombardment of the commission was opened by aldermanic candidates Charles Nelles and Alfred Toone.

Mr. Nelles blamed the commission for the "ugly situation" and said city council had to accept part of the responsibility.

NEED TROUBLE SHOOTER

He called for appointment of a special trouble shooter to take over the arena's administration until the situation is cleared up.

Mr. Nelles also charged it was a "bankrupt notion" to feel arena manager Joe Dukowski is irreplaceable. He said the three-month delay in Mr. Dukowski's resignation "compounds the agony."

Mr. Toone backed the stand of commissioner Courtney Haddock and called for immediate reinstatement of the six former employees.

STATEMENT DENIED

Mr. Osborn said a statement by former chief cashier Mrs. Pat Read that he had said office manager Kenneth Noakes would not be rehired to save face for the commission and that the others would be brought back only one at a time was not correct.

He denied that he had said Mr. Noakes would be sacrificed and "as I recall the conversation I said it had been my personal hope that all the employees could be taken back although not necessarily all together.

MISLEADING

"I did not say they were going to be taken back one by one."

Mr. Osborn said his conversation with Mrs. Read had been lengthy and it appeared some of his statements had been joined together resulting in a misleading impression.

Earlier, Mr. Osborn said some persons who have spoken on Mr. Noakes' behalf "have hurt his cause and have made doubly difficult the duty of the commission in assessing the merits of his being rehired."

CLARIFIES STAND

In a prepared statement to The Times, he amplified his position.

"I wish to comment on the report concerning the arena in yesterday's Times," the statement said:

"I have heard personal pleas of certain ex-employees on behalf of Mr. Noakes and on the strength of it have agreed to a review of his position before the commission.

"My remarks, in agreeing to this review, have been construed as a statement that the

'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

USC Has Helped 6,000

Leaders of the next generation in India are growing up in homes sponsored by the Unitarian Service Committee, beneficiary of the Times' "Children of India" fund.

More than 6,000 youngsters have gone through the USC Natham Children's Home in the huge sub-continent. Employers are snapping them up because their training, literacy and sense of social responsibility make them stand out in a labor market which is drastically short of trained employees.

The sick, the lame, and the hungary of India also will benefit from the Times' fund.

Donations to the fund come from all walks of life, and the most generous are not necessarily the largest.

"Please accept the enclosed small donation for the 'Children of India'," he wrote. "May your drive for funds meet with the success it deserves."

From Kathy Green, at Lake Cowichan, came a letter stating "I am enclosing one dollar for the fund to help the children of India," but in the same envelope came another donation and another letter, obviously written by an adult for a younger brother.

It read: "Here is 10 cents that I would like to give to help the children of India."

Contributions in cash or cheque form may be mailed or delivered in person to the Times offices at 1215 Broad Street or 2631 Douglas Street. Receipts will be given.

Hees Urges 'Hard Sell' On Exports

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Hees called today for an all-out sales drive by Canada's foreign task force of trade commissioners.

"We must have the greatest selling effort this country has ever seen," he told 111 trade commissioners, assembled from 49 countries in an unprecedented 2½-week export promotion conference.

Mr. Hees, in the role of a tough-talking sales manager, laid it on the line for them:

"I will be watching with interest during the months ahead the increase in sales which takes place in each of your areas. Such sales increases will have a direct bearing on your advance in the future."

The minister's speech opened the conference which, in the next three days, will see a round of private conferences between the repatriated trade commissioners and trade department officials.

Next Monday signals the start of nearly two weeks of individual conferences—more than 8,000 are scheduled—between the commissioners and businessmen from across Canada.

Mr. Hees, pointing to "severe competition" facing Canadian manufacturers in world markets, told the commissioners to give "every possible assistance" to the visiting businessmen in launching new foreign sales campaigns.

Mr. Hees referred to the current expansion of Canada's exports—up 7.6 per cent so far this year—but dropped a hint that the strong foreign demand that has made this possible may not hold up.

There are indications that economic activity in the United States is edging downward, he said, and "signs of hesitancy are also appearing in some European countries."

'Fighting for Markets Now'

On top of this, conditions on world markets had shifted from postwar shortages to a situation of more adequate supply.

"Countries which were our customers only a short time ago are today producing goods which are competitive with Canadian products. This means that Canada's exporters, rather than striving to expand production, now are fighting for markets."

Mr. Hees said Canadian exporters should find "tremendous help" in the establishment of a new export credits company by the chartered banks, announced last week. It will provide financing, up to five years, for capital goods exports.

Mr. Hees said there are some "strong sustaining influences" to support the Canadian economy in the months ahead.

But he indicated that foreign demand for Canada's exports may weaken in the future. He pointed to a pickup in housing and public investment and business expectations of an improvement in consumer spending.

Factors favoring the consumer included a rising level of labor income and higher cash returns from this year's good grain crops.

But Mr. Hees said future prospects for export sales are affected by "indications that economic activity in the United States is edging downward."

"Signs of hesitancy are also appearing in some European countries. Continuation of these tendencies would soon be felt in external markets and this, in turn, would have a deterrent effect upon conditions in Canada."

Deputy Hints at Trade Incentives

In another speech, deputy Trade Minister James A. Roberts dropped a hint of possible incentives to help push Canadian businessmen into the export field.

Mr. Roberts said many more Canadian producers must be persuaded to go after export sales in order to capture for Canada a full share of the huge markets in the six-nation European Common Market.

"We shall do this preferably by means of encouragement and persuasion. If necessary, we shall do it by providing incentives."

Mr. Roberts said the success of the Common Market and the seven - nation European Free Trade Area has raised new problems "which pose serious questions for the future of our trade with them."

Canada also faced the prospect that before long the United Kingdom "may associate herself firmly with the countries of the Common Market" with consequent erosion of Canadian Commonwealth tariff preferences in the U.K.

Turnnig to foreign ownership and control of Canadian manufacturing and resource industries, Mr. Roberts said this has reached "alarming proportions."

Caandians had to be encouraged to save more and invest more in this country's production and development.

Mr. Roberts said the huge Canadian trade deficit with the United States—$527,000,000 last year—must be reduced. He emphasized the word "must."

This could be achieved by increasing Canadian sales to the U.S. and "by producing economically in Canada a large part of the machinery and equipment we now import."

The deputy minister said the government is considering legalizing combines for the purpose of export as a means of promoting exports. He did not say whether this would involve something more than the combines law amendment to that effect passed at the last session of Parliament.

Forestry Post To Edmonton Man

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of J. D. B. Harrison, 64, of Edmonton as deputy minister of the federal government's new forestry department was announced today in the Commons by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mr. Harrison, who has been in forestry work for the federal government since 1924, has been director of the forestry branch of the department of northern affairs and national resources since 1957. This branch and others dealing with forestry have transferred from the resources and agriculture departments to the new department.

HIGH STANDARD SET BY LEGISLATIVE REPORTERS

'Alert Press' Thanked by Departing Wicks

After eight years as a Social Credit cabinet minister in Victoria, Lyle Wicks left the capital this week with kind words of praise for the press gallery at the Legislative Buildings.

The defeated labor minister, in a special statement, thanked newspaper, radio and television for "co-operation and fair treatment" during his eight years of office.

"I would like especially to commend the members of the Victoria press gallery for their consistently high standard of newspaper reporting," he said.

"In my opinion the public of British Columbia can count itself fortunate in that it is served by an alert press that appears to be dedicated to the belief that the public should be kept well informed at all times."

Mr. Wicks also thanked the electors of Dewdney, which he represented as a member of the Legislature, to his colleagues in the labor and transport departments and to persons in industry and labor who helped him in his offices.

Mr. Wicks said he has no immediate plans.

Government Beats Down Loans Bill Amendments

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—The Commons opposition kept up its running campaign Tuesday to liberalize the government's proposed legislation providing for federally-guaranteed bank loans to small businesses.

Twice, the government was forced to marshal its Commons forces to beat back attempts to change the bill, while amendments proposed by the opposition were twice ruled out of order by Deputy Speaker Jacques Flynn.

The measure — which Finance Minister Fleming said "holds promise" of tens of thousands of jobs for Canadian workers—finally cleared clause-by-clause study just before adjournment Tuesday night.

Originally, the government planned to have the Commons debate foreign affairs Tuesday but when the Liberals refused the necessary unanimous consent the House went on with the small business bill.

Under the loans bill, businesses with an estimated gross annual revenue of not more than $250,000 will be able to borrow up to $25,000 for expansion and improvements. The ceiling for all such loans guaranteed by the government would be $300,000,000.

Mr. Flynn rejected as out of order an amendment by H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) that would have extended the guarantee to loans for the purchase or construction of business enterprises. Mr. Herridge said it would assist young people wishing to enter business.

Mr. Flynn's ruling was upheld 137 to 35, with the Liberals and one New Pary member voting against the Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Fleming said the government has been informed that retail merchants plan to take out $75,000,000 in loans as soon as the measure is passed.

Mr. Fleming did not comment on the recommendations. They usually are followed when tariff changes are made in the annual budget.

Credit Unions Rejected as Lenders

Earlier, the Conservatives turned back 50 to 21—Liberals, CCF and New Party—a Liberal amendment that would have recognized credit unions as lenders for purposes of the act. The government objected on the ground that credit unions, being provincial entities, are not regulated by Parliament as to the interest they may charge.

CCF Leader Argue said the government had raised "one phoney excuse after another" to bar credit unions from making loans to small businesses.

Mr. Argue maintained the government is interested in promoting the welfare of the banks and not the credit unions. The government was operating "hand in glove" with the banks.

In an hour devoted to private members' legislation, the Commons talked out a bill sponsored by Samuel Boulanger (L—Drummond-Athabaska) that would have required all federal government cheques and bills of exchange to be printed in both English and French.

Senator John T. Haig urged the government Tuesday night to extend housing loans to both large and small universities and colleges.

The Manitoba Progressive Conservative said in the Senate that Works Minister Walker should be called before the Senate banking committee to give such assurance.

Senator Haig was one of several senators who spoke briefly on a government measure to amend the National Housing Act to encourage demand for housing.

Mr. Walker indicated in the Commons Monday that the door still is open to extending housing loans to small universities. He had given the House a list of 38 universities that would be eligible for the low-interest, long-term loans and Housing Corporation is consulting the National Conference of Canadian Universities for its views on the list.

Seized RCAF Editorial 'Not Cleared'

An editorial in the RCAF newspaper Uplands Times, which resulted in seizure of all available copies of a recent edition by air force authorities, had not been cleared with the Times' editorial board, Defence Minister Harkness said Tuesday.

In addition, he told the Commons, the editorial was prepared in the absence of the regular editor. It dealt with speculation about Canada's acquiring the U.S. F-101 Voodoo fighter to replace the obsolescent CF-100 interceptor.

"Since this decision is a government responsibility the the station commander considered the editorial was not in good taste, and ordered it withdrawn from circulation," Mr. Harkness said.

Author of the editorial was FO J. D. Hinton, associated editor, who is leaving the RCAF shortly. The editor is on leave.

So should wool coverings for billiard tables.

But Italian travel rugs are swamping the Canadian market and Canadians should either pay a higher duty on them—or buy Canadian.

These and other recommendations affecting imports of wool products were tabled in the Commons Tuesday by Finance Minister Fleming following exhaustive studies of the state of the Canadian wool manufacturing industries.

PM Needled on Byelection

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal J. W. Pickersgill found a roundabout and needling way of asking Prime Minister Diefenbaker in the Commons Tuesday whether a byelection will soon be held in Esquimalt-Saanich.

The Vancouver Island seat has been vacant since the Oct. 11 appointment of former defence minister George Pearkes as lieutenant-governor of British Columbia.

Mr. Pickersgill first asked the prime minister whether he intended to take steps immediately "to ensure that all the electors of Canada are represented in this House at the earliest possible date."

Mr. Diefenbaker made no reply.

Later, Mr. Pickersgill tried a new tack. Had the prime minister taken the necessary steps to see that an election writ is issued for Esquimalt-Saanich?

From the Conservative back benches came a voice: "The Liberals are not going to win it anyway, so quit worrying."

The Government Acts

IN INTRODUCING LEGISLATION that postpones a strike by the non-operating unions of the railroads, at least until next May, Mr. Diefenbaker has taken a bold but necessary step. Most Canadians will approve it. The unions have been assured they will suffer no prejudice to their bargaining position, and they have indicated that they will obey the legislation. Earlier they had refused to postpone their strike voluntarily until the spring.

At any time a strike that tied up Canada's transcontinental railways would be a grave event. At a time like this, with unemployment at a serious peak, a large federal budgetary deficit in prospect and many sections of the national economy in a shaky condition, a strike would be a national catastrophe.

It is not yet known what the royal commission on transportation will recommend when it makes its report next spring. Yet until the report is received the railways are prevented by law from raising their freight rates to meet any wage increase. Now the wages of non-operating employees will be similarly frozen. The railways argue, in any case, that further rate increases would not produce more revenue, since demand for rail services would decrease.

The supposition now is that Mr. Diefenbaker expects the royal commission to produce some feasible solution to the complex problem of Canada's railways, or at least a body of information which will make possible a proper judgment of wage increase demands.

That will seem a fair position to most Canadians, who in any event will bear the cost of wage increases in higher freight or passenger rates, or in government aid. There is the further possibility that the report will suggest a vast organic change in the whole railway situation of this country that could lead to a major new approach to the increasingly grave problem of the railways.

Cabinet Reshuffle

MR. BENNETT HAS TAKEN the proper course in replacing two ministers defeated in the last provincial election by representatives successful at the polls.

It is gratifying to note that he has again selected a woman for ministerial office, Mrs. Buda Brown. His choice of Mr. F. X. Richter for agriculture places at the head of that department a man whose family tradition has been identified with farming in the lower Okanagan from pioneer days.

There are, however, certain features of the cabinet reshuffle which leave much to be desired.

When the premier loads onto Mr. Leslie Peterson the additional tasks of minister of labor he is making demands too heavy for any one person. Mr. Peterson, as minister of education, is entrusted with an onerous enough job looking after a department facing serious problems, not the least that of working towards a solution of the school finance question. Moreover, labor relations in this province are such that they should occupy a competent minister on a full-time basis.

Conceivably Mr. Earle C. Westwood, a man of ability, may be able to handle both his important recreation and conservation department duties and the tasks of a minister of commercial transport, though his work will be taxing if the jobs are to be well done.

On the other hand, Mrs. Brown, who gives the cabinet its first feminine representation since the death of Mrs. Tilly Rolston, is left with no portfolio at all. If she is to be honored by elevation to the executive family, with the recognition of her talents that demonstrates, surely she should be granted a department of her own in which to exercise her administrative abilities.

By dividing responsibilities more equally, the premier could avoid unnecessary doubling up of work.

As Our Readers See It

Oak Bay Ambulance

Some weeks ago you published an editorial deploring the lack of an emergency ambulance in the City of Victoria and in the Municipalities of Saanich and Esquimalt. As the Municipality of Oak Bay already owns and operates such a vehicle and puts it to very good use, I feel that both you and your readers will be interested in the following details concerning its origin, equipment and operation:

The vehicle is an Austin with a bus type body, presented to the Municipality of Oak Bay in November, 1959 by the Kiwanis Club of Oak Bay.

Equipment is carried for almost any kind of accident or emergency and includes a stretcher, first aid equipment, oxygen, resuscitator, Porter power tools, oxygen acetylene cutting torch, and reciprocating saw.

The vehicle is operated by the Oak Bay Fire Department and covers all police accidents as well as any emergencies in the district.

During the past five months forty-four emergency calls were answered.

WHEN LISTENING IN WAS FUN

Sshhh! Quiet! Quiet! I Think I'm Getting Pittsburgh!

By B. A. TOBIN

OF all the ways in which you can be reminded of the passage of the years—especially your own years—none is more effective than the "remember when?" technique. Somebody is always saying "remember when . . . ?" and if you do remember then you are immediately dated. As time goes on you find that fewer and fewer of the people around you can match your memory of the "when?" under discussion. Your club slowly becomes more exclusive, and eventually you may turn out to be the only member — like a surviving Civil War soldier, or a man waiting for the automobile to be perfected.

Tobin

Almost unnoticed, radio has become one of the categories in which "remember when . . . ?" is now a criterion of age. For a long time there was nothing much to remember about radio. All the programs and "names" were new. Even when some of them became firmly established, it wasn't much of a feat to "remember when" they had begun.

But suddenly, before you could say thermionic valve, a lot of the radio programs had become history. People who remembered them were—well, let's face it—"getting on." And today they can definitely be classed as historical.

One fact which drives the idea home is that a whole generation has grown up which never knew a world that didn't have radio. So that anyone who can remember that world from personal experience is not far from a cave type. Even a person who can remember when almost every home had a radio aerial looping from roof to pole or tree is a veteran.

Oddly enough, it looks as though another generation is now about to grow up without knowing much about radio. It will know all about television, but its contacts with radio will be confined to the car or the pocket transistor. As indispensable living room equipment the radio will have passed into limbo.

From the Archives

Nowadays, if you ask a not-too-old person if he ever owned a crystal set, you'll probably have to explain what a crystal set is. Then he'll say, no, he never had one, and look at you as though to ask, what on earth would I want a thing like that for?

Having run into that sort of block, there will be little point in asking him if he remembers when — because he won't.

He won't remember when Amos and Andy kept most of North America glued to its Philco's and other early radio sets for a part of every evening right after supper. (He could have heard them right up to last Saturday, when their last program was broadcast; but for all practical purposes they faded from popular ken years ago.)

He won't remember when "Down Gilmore" was as common a saying as "Oh yeah?" or "So's yer old man." So there'll be no point in explaining to him that Gilmore was the circus lion for the Blue-Green Gas program and nightly did a death-defying leap to the roll of drums.

He won't remember Billy Jones and Ernie Hare, the Interwoven Pair, and the breathless chant about sox that introduced them.

He won't remember the Sheriff and his Boys, who introduced a whole generation to cowboy songs; or Lum an' Abner; or Ed Wynn the Perfect Fool.

Most of all, he won't remember the thrill of the pioneers who sat up till late at night, earphones glued to ears, to try to pick up distant stations. Why bother, you'd be asked today, it's all on the networks.

But the networks can't broadcast the surge of pride and victory that swept over you when you got a distant signal: KDKA Pittsburgh; KSL Salt Lake City; Shreveport, Louisiana; now and then a Mexican station or one from over the Rockies in Calgary or Edmonton.

You hunched up to the shiny bakelite panel of your set, twisting the little black dials with their white markings, swinging a nickeled rotor arm across a curved row of terminal studs, checking your lead-in connection and the ground-wire to the water pipe.

And the earphones brought you the thin piping of a human voice or the reedy twanging of an orchestra and you held her there until at last the announcer would break in with his station call letters while you pressed the earphones harder against your head and fiercely shushed anyone in the room who even dared to breathe loudly.

Among Your Souvenirs

And slowly you built up a log of stations, far and near, with old favorites such as "Hale Brothers and the Chronicle" (San Francisco) appearing on it like personal friends.

But of all the sounds you ever heard, and of all the stations you ever tuned in, there was none that could give you the thril you received when for the first time you hooked up a set to an aerial—a crystal set you had assembled yourself from parts bought one each week from the Fifteen Cent Store—and heard, thin but clear in your earphones, the da-da-dit of Morse code.

Your set worked! With that one crackling, unintelligible burst of dots and dashes you had entered the electronic twentieth century.

From then on, right down to today, it was merely a matter of adding improvements.

Life and Death on the Road

AT MIDNIGHT TONIGHT VICtoria joins a nationwide "Safe-Driving Week" aimed at bringing home to all motorists the necessity of making safe and sane driving their own individual responsibility.

Simultaneously the occasion will be used to impress on pedestrians the fact that they, too, have a duty to avoid hazardous practices on the street and highway.

This year emphasis will be placed on efforts to overcome public apathy. Too many of our people have come to look upon death and injury on the road as an automatic and inevitable accompaniment of modern traffic conditions. Too seldom do they realize that if every individual had shown the courtesy and care which automobile travel requires today, most of the deaths and injuries might have been avoided.

That lesson should be clearly understood in this community. Up to the present there have been 15 traffic deaths in Greater Victoria; six of them in the Colwood area, four in Victoria, two in Saanich and one each in Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Central Saanich.

These are statistics. Consider them as something else. Think of them as the mute testimony on tragedy which could have happened to almost any person in this region during the year. Involved in them were the lives of people who had fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, children, friends. There is nothing abstract about them.

Perhaps it is a commentary on our times that last year Victoria received a safety award for cities this size by recording a traffic death toll of only five. That is five too many. The total could be reduced this year.

That New Russian 'Empire'

NOTHING IS MORE OBVIOUS than the cause of Russian chagrin over Mr. David Ormsby-Gore's remarks in the United Nations.

The British delegate used the sharp point of irrefutable facts to puncture the Soviet's most popular propaganda balloon.

The Russians had sponsored a flamboyant resolution for "immediate independence" of the world's remaining "colonial" peoples.

The false tone of the Soviet note must have been caught immediately by the uncommitted countries at which it was aimed when Mr. Ormsby-Gore provided the proper sounding board.

While 500,000,000 people formerly under British rule had achieved independence—and many of them seats in the United Nations—the British delegate noted, Russia was swallowing up the "new colonies" of Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia, incorporating their 22,000,000 previously-free people into a Soviet colonial empire.

No amount of infuriated Russian desk-pounding could blunt that point.

They Are Not Rejected

THE CANADIAN MENTAL Health Association, an organization whose work for the mentally ill deserves the support of all normal Canadians, is making a special appeal at this time.

It is a request that those outside institutions caring for the disturbed add an extra gift to their Christmas list this year. The gift will be for someone within a hospital whose condition can be vastly improved by the knowledge that others outside care for him, are interested in his recovery.

Citizens who are in a position to do so, are asked to send a parcel to the White Cross Centre, 1551 Oak Bay Avenue, in this community.

The gesture is important far beyond the monetary value of the gift. It is a means of reassuring those who need reassurance that they are not forgotten, not rejected, not merely discarded. By this simple token the patients gain strength from the knowledge that they mean something, are important and have a place in human affections waiting for them when they return to society.

FROM OTTAWA

The Deficits Have Developed a Life of Their Own

By MAURICE WESTERN

IN a series of warning and challenging speeches across the country, Mr. James Coyne, the most controversial of Canadian public servants, has called attention to the dangers implicit in our growing net foreign indebtedness. Mr. Coyne, who is regarded as a modern Job by most of the politicians one meets in this capital, has noted with alarm that, year by year with rare exceptions over the past decade, we have been running deficits on merchandise account and year by year, without exception, we have been incurring increasingly heavy deficits on non-merchandise account.

Western

("Merchandise account" takes in all exports and imports of physical goods; "non-merchandise account" includes such items as tourist travel, dividend payments, freight charges, etc.)

Often a Lag

The deficits, he fears, have developed a sort of life of their own. There is often a lag between investment in Canada and the outflow of interest and dividend payments. While our bill for the latter now, amounts to about $500 millions annually, it could easily rise to $1 billion on the basis of capital already poured into this country.

In the process, what the bureau of statistics calls our "net foreign indebtedness" has risen steeply. Here a word of explanation is necessary. The DBS term does not merely cover debts in the ordinary sense—what we owe to foreigners less what they owe to us. It also includes foreign investments in Canada less Canadian holdings abroad. The resulting comparative figures are: 1949, $3.8 billions, 1959, $15.3 billions and 1960 (Mr. Coyne's estimate), $17 billions.

It is conceded, even by those who disagree with Mr. Coyne on many counts, that no nation in history with an ecoromy comparable to our own, has relied so heavily upon foreign resources.

Wrong Impression

From the record an outside observer might well conclude that Canada was an undeveloped country instead of being, as it is, a highly developed economy.

Mr. Coyne has also pointed out that we face a most formidable problem in seeking to reverse the trend of the past 10 years. Our over-all balance of international payment deficit on current account is now running at the rate of about $1.2 billions annually.

This deficit is met by borrowing (as when a provincial government floats a bond issue in the U.S.); by the selling off of capital assets by Canadians (as when stock in a Canadian company is sold outside the country); and by other forms of foreign investment.

If we are to cover the deficit without continued foreign borrowing and without accepting excessive foreign investment, we would have to increase our exports by what is for the present an unrealistically high volume.

In the speech from the throne, which is a political document, many comforting words are expended on the export surge of the present year. It is perfectly true that exports have risen; if the comparison is with last year it is most encouraging. But some high-ranking economists find little solace in this comparison.

They contrast the results with the opportunity, and find them disappointing. In their view exports were almost bound to rise in 1960 and ought to have risen a great deal more.

Imposed Demand

There was, in the first place, the windfall of the U.S. steel strike which imposed a great demand on Canadian resources. Secondly, there was an unprecedented boom in Western Europe which had reached a stage in the development of the community demanding heavy imports from other countries.

If we could not balance exports with imports in the comparatively easy days of the 1950s, how are we to do so in the period of harsher competition already closing in upon us? Mr. Fleming cannot have intended to spread "gloom and doom" when he spoke in Ste. Adele, Quebec, on Nov. 17 but he certainly dwelt at great length on the dangers to our trading position now developing in Europe.

If we cannot correct the situation to which the governor of the Bank of Canada has directed attention, three dangers will threaten Canada in years ahead.

The one that most troubles Mr. Coyne and those who share his views is the threat to Canadian independence. If we go on importing capital from abroad and running up payments deficits at the present rate, increasing our indebtedness by something like $1.5 billions annually, Canadian business will come more and more to be dominated by U.S. capital.

More and more, it is suggested, vital decisions affecting Canadian employment and Canadian trade will be taken by Americans in American cities. Our sovereignty will become less and less substantial and in the end we will be absorbed by our southern neighbor. But this clearly is not a destiny willingly embraced by the Canadian people. Never in our history have the outward manifestations been more impressive than they are today.

View Challenged

This view, as will be shown in a subsequent article, is challenged. But even Mr Coyne's critics agree that some forms of American investment in this country do have undesirable characteristics.

The same companies, for example, which control so much of our petroleum industry held enormous stakes in the Middle East. If the political situation in Arab lands becomes dangerous, they may have very strong reasons for drawing lavishly upon Middle Eastern oil while cutting back production in the secure Alberta fields.

The second danger is of a different sort. There is always the possibility that some unforeseen development might cause foreign investors to pull back from the Canadian field.

Hazardous Work

Economic forecasting is extremely hazardous. No one, it is pointed out, would have imagined a year ago that the U.S. would suddenly be confronted with a run on gold. But it happened. The experience of 1947 is also remembered in Ottawa. At that time, albeit in quite different circumstances, the Canadian government tried to borrow in the United States and found to its alarm that American capitalists had turned cool to Canadian offerings. Crisis measures became necessary to restore our situation.

In such a situation, what would happen to our provinces and municipalities who have borrowed something like $3 billions in the United States? Much of this is repayale in U.S. dollars. If the exchange rate turned against us we would have to put up more Canadian dollars to meet debts measured in American funds. The burden of our indebtedness would be greatly increased and the provinces might find themselves in such straits that they would have to heap on new taxes or else default, as happened in Alberta's case in the 1930s.

There is a third danger mentioned by Mr. Coyne. So long as we have unemployed labor and resources in this country, the inflow of foreign capital contributes to unemployment.

Exchange Rate

The exchange rate follows the market; the Bank of Canada merely operates to check day to day fluctuations. If the money pouring in is not taken up to enlarge our reserves, it must show up as a deficit in our current accounts.

It drives up the exchange rate, encouraging Canadians with their high value dollars to increase imports and making it more difficult for Canadians to market goods abroad since those goods become more expensive for the foreign purchaser. In other words the demand in the Canadian system for goods and services is met increasingly from abroad and there is a fall-off in the demand abroad for Canadian resources.

The result is to increase the very unemployment which the government is seeking by other means to bring under control.

Some high officials in Ottawa believe that Mr. Coyne has over-stated his case and dissent also from the lines of remedial action which his analysis seems to suggest. Their views will be examined in a subsequent article.

Watch That Popcorn

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Just in time to ruin my Thanksgiving dinner a booklet came from the agriculture department last week entitled "Food and Your Weight."

West

I regard the booklet as noteworthy because it spells out, in clear, unmistakable terms, the department's policy in respect to one of the heavier issues confronting the nation.

"Persons who are considerably overweight probably should reduce," the booklet says.

This is the type of crisp, pure logic that we have come to expect from our government agencies. There are some other statements in the booklet, however, which seemed to be less finely reasoned.

For instance, in discussing the relationship of food and exercise to bodily weight, it asserts that "typing uses more calories than watching television."

This would appear to imply that typing expends more energy than TV watching, which is not an assumption that I am prepared to accept. Almost nothing makes me as tired as watching television, particularly when the wrestling matches are on.

I also was astonished to read that a 12-ounce chocolate milkshake contains 405 more calories than a eight-ounce glass of beer. I don't know why that should astonish me, but it did.

So did the revelation that two large gumdrops have more calories than 10 jelly beans, that soda crackers are more fattening than saltines, and that a cup of popcorn contains more calories than five medium potato chips or 15 small pretzel sticks.

If, however, you pop the corn yourself, you can almost break even. The booklet tells us that preparing and cooking food burns up calories at the rate of 110 to 160 an hour. If the food itself is burned, I assume that the rate goes up.

Doing the dishes, dusting and ironing also are in the 110-to-160 class, but "laundering by machine" uses up 170 to 240 calories per hour. Thus a housewife who runs her washing machine all day should lose weight in a hurry.

Other activities which consume calories in the 170-to-240 bracket including making beds, mopping and scrubbing, light polishing and waxing and light gardening and carpentry work. This is about what you take in from a big helping of turkey and dressing.

Heavy scrubbing and waxing, hand laundering, hanging out clothes and stripping beds, sends the rate up to 250 to 350. Calory-wise, an hour's work of this sort entitles you to one four-inch slice of pumpkin pie.

All of this provides some food for thought for Thanksgiving. I must caution, however, that even food for thought should be taken in limited quantities.

Today's Traffic Trouble Tip

It's a Dangerous Weapon

Governor-General Vanier leads all Canadians in a battle aimed at saving lives over the next week—and the next 12 months as well, it is hoped.

"Safe Driving Week," traditionally the first week of the worst driving month of the year, starts Thursday.

As patron for the Canadian Highway Safety Council, the governor-general urges the council to teach road users "to consider vehicles as potential weapons, able to wipe out human life without warning.

"Let no one therefore say 'Such a thing cannot happen to me'."

This year's campaign has public and driver-pedestrian apathy as its dual target.

Stress on proper, safe use of streets and highways must begin with you, the individual, and with Christmas shopping crowds beginning to plug our thoroughfares there is no time like the present.

For this reason, the following letter, repeated in full, is particularly appropriate:

"I note what you say about the traffic violations and think it timely as well as an excellent idea (the writer says).

"I drove for many years, but I had to give it up because I was unable to bear the strain on my nerves.

"One of the greatest, and I might say one of the worst, mistakes is failing to stop when turning to the right on a red light. I have seen this occur repeatedly on the corner of Fort and Douglas, as well as at other places and have never seen an officer in sight.

"As to pedestrians, they are asking for trouble when they step off the curb and wait for the light to turn. Why will people do such things?

"The city could be so safe for all if only these simple rules were obeyed.

"Yours sincerely,

"Mrs. P. T. Rowe,

"4333 Gordon Head Road."

How about it?

'Cultivate Markets'

LONDON (CP)—The Outer Seven area's top official Tuesday urged Canadian exporters to cultivate markets in the new seven-nation trading community.

"Whatever happens in Europe, it will still be worthwhile to develop market outlets in the European Free Trade Area," Frank E. Figgures, EFTA's secretary-general, said in a luncheon address to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain.

The Outer Seven grouping was formed roughly a year ago by Britain, the Scandinavian countries, Austria, Switzerland and Portugal.

Splinter Role Socreds' Fate Says Liberal

The Social Credit party will never become a national force because it can't appeal to popular opinion, according to the man who's organizing the Liberals for the next federal election.

James Scott, the national Liberal organizer, said Socreds have lost sight of the original theories of Major William Douglas.

"This political philosophy has no attraction," he said, adding: "Their only philosophy in B.C. is to be government."

Mr. Scott said the rest of Canada would never be interested in Social Credit without new national policies.

"They have no strength in Eastern Canada, anyway," he said.

ON RED CHINA

U.S. to Explore Dief's Proposals

WASHINGTON (CP) — A state department official said Tuesday the United States would be willing to explore any concrete proposal Prime Minister Diefenbaker may make for reducing tensions between Communist China and the Western powers.

Diefenbaker, in a speech at Ottawa Thursday, said the huge population of Red China cannot be ignored and that "the world is too interlocked with its common dangers to exclude almost one-quarter of the numan race from the areas of major political settlement".

"We don't ignore the Chinese," the state department spokesman said. "We've probably had more direct negotiations with them than with any other power. But they even refuses to agree to a simple renunciation of force to achieve their aims."

The fruitless talks between the Chinese and Americans have been carried out at the ambassadorial level at Geneva and Warsaw. A major object of the United States is to get the release of 11 American prisoners on the Chinese mainland whom the Reds have refused to give up.

HOLD LITTLE HOPE

Diefenbaker's speech aroused interest in the state department and among advisers to President-Elect John Kennedy. Spokesmen for both groups indicated there isn't much hope of a change in the existing American-Chinese freeze.

The state department official said Canada and other NATO allies have been consulted from time to time on U.S. actions in connection with Red China. If Diefenbaker had any concrete proposals to make, they would be explored immediately.

The present view among Kennedy's advisers is that the Chinese Reds will not give up their claims or aggressive designs on the Nationalist stronghold of Formosa.

During the election campaign Kennedy said American troops would counterattack if the Reds forced their way into the Nationalist-held offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu as a prelude to a drive on Formosa.

Firms Support City Jaycees' Vote Drive

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce has already started work on its "get out and vote" campaign in preparation for the Dec. 8 municipal elections.

Some 35 large local business firms have agreed to devote part of their advertising space to urge residents to make use of their votes.

Jaycees plan a more concentrated effort on electors nearer voting day, but just what form this will take has not yet been decided.

Mayor Percy Scurrah has criticized Victorians for the apathy surrounding this year's elections and has stressed the need for them to wake up to the fact an election is being held.

"Our objective is to convince the people of Greater Victoria that their vote is something to be used whenever possible — not just when a contentious issue arises," John MacLeod, director of Jaycees' government and civic affairs committee, said today.

FIRST STEP IN REFERENDUM

De Gaulle to Visit Algeria

PARIS (Reuters)—President Charles de Gaulle will visit Algeria Dec. 9 to pave the way for a referendum on his self-determination policies for the revolt-torn North African territory.

The president's visit, announced after a cabinet meeting, is expected to last about five days. It is part of preparations for a referendum in France and Algeria in January on his plans for speeding an "Algerian Algeria."

Likely date of the referendum is Jan. 8, but this will not be finally decided until a cabinet meeting following a debate on the Algerian situation in the National Assembly which the government has set for Dec. 7 and 8.

De Gaulle faces strong opposition both at home and in Algeria on his self-determination plans, drawn up by him in an effort to end the Moslem nationalist insurrection.

B.C.'S OWN — B.C.'S BEST

HOME GARDEN — By HILDA BEASTALL

Taste Treats for Wintertime

It is doubtful whether gardeners in any other part of Canada can gather fresh vegetables at the end of November.

Hilda

We are indeed fortunate here, though we still like to grouch about the weather when it doesn't suit us.

This week, a gardener who is located in a sheltered high spot told of picking young scarlet runner beans; the week before, green peas were picked, and many of us have young carrots and beets still growing in open ground from mid July sowings.

Under glass cloches, lettuce is doing well from an August sowing, making lovely green rosettes for all the world like cabbage roses.

For use during winter, and hardy enough for our average weather, there are several other vegetables which newcomers to the coast may like to try next year. Planning time is just ahead, and a decision made now will ensure their inclusion in the seed purchases early in the new year.

Leeks may not be familiar to gardeners from the colder parts of Canada. They belong to the onion family, but have a sweeter, milder flavor. The edible parts include not only the actual bulbous rootstock, but the thickened white stem, and as much of the young green leaves as possible.

The leeks can be left in the ground for use as needed during winter—I have dug them out of snow and out of sticky clay, their flavor improving with winter conditions.

Parsnips, too can be left in the ground, and salsify. The latter resembles parsnips, but has a more delicate flavor. It certainly deserves a trial if the soil is of an open texture suitable for the growing of parsnips.

STEADY SUPPLY

The other main winter vegetables belong in the cabbage family. Winter cabbage have nice solid heads on them now, and Scotch kale is ready for use. Since a few young leaves are taken from half the plants at each picking, there will be a steady supply all winter.

Broccoli heads must be cut while young and before the "flowers" open, but after the centre head is cut, others develop on the side branches to prolong the season.

Brussels sprouts for Christmas and New Year's are the pride of many Victoria gardeners and provide yet another addition to the list of fresh winter vegetables which may be successfully grown in local gardens.

Heavy Snow, Gale Winds Lash Prairies

By The Canadian Press

Winter struck bitterly at parts of central Canada Tuesday as an intense storm centre moved through Ontario and headed for more easterly provinces with gale force winds and heavy snow.

Northern Ontario centres reported snow drifting to more than a foot in depth. In southern Ontario, the thermometer headed below the freezing mark for the first time this season.

There were few places in Canada that could boast mild weather.

DONATIONS UP 35%

Churches Benefit By Joint Appeal

A joint campaign by Protestant churches on southern Vancouver Island has increased donations by 35 per cent over last year and attracted many new supporters.

Anglican, United and Presbyterian churches banded together to buy promotional literature in bulk. The total amount raised amounted to more than $253,000.

However, the campaign is still short of its $358,900 objective.

Rev. H. Gordon Walker, who introduced the plan, says it showed churches often neglect to seek help from their own members and young people, eager to help, have difficulty finding the right niche.

Churches participating in the literature plan, with amounts raised and percentages, are shown below:

Anglican — St. Alban's, $17,355, up 30 per cent; St. Chad's, $5,500, up 150 per cent; St. Columba's, $4,900, up 6 per cent; St. David's-by-the-Sea, $6,450, up 50 per cent; St. Martin's-in-the-Field, $12,840, up 4 per cent; St. Matthias', $24,000, up 15 per cent; St. Peter's at Quamichan, $12,100, up 20 per cent.

United—St. Aidan's, $28,140, up 23 per cent; Belmont, $11,000, up 40 per cent; Esquimalt, no report; Garden City, $6,500, up 62.5 per cent; Wilkinson Road, $5,000, unchanged; Oak Bay, $31,800, up 24 per cent; St. Paul's at Sidney, $10,273, up 33 per cent; Gordon United at Langford, $14,923, up 75.7 per cent.

Presbyterian—St. Andrew's, $52,000, down 12 per cent; Gorge United, $11,000, up 37 per cent.

Bright, Long-Term Outlook For Pulp, Paper Industry

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Long-term outlook for pulp and paper looks even brighter as a result of a U.S. publishers' study which predicts a 30 per cent expansion in production of newsprint will be necessary over the next 10 years in order to keep up with demand.

Bell

This study bolsters the result of the executive opinion poll released last week by B.C. trade department, which predicted best prospects in the year ahead in the forest in- There seems to be no doubt that pulp and paper will continue in its role as Canada's top single money-making industry.

Announcement by Okanagan Helicopters Ltd. of plans to take over the Victoria-Vancouver route from TCA late next year should renew interest in the company.

The company would raise $3,000,000 to purchase equipment for the new run but it seems unlikely at this time that there would be any need to go to the public for the money. President Glen McPherson says he expects no difficulty in raising the money although provisions were made some time ago for a $1,000,000 6½ per cent first mortgage bond issue. It was authorized by shareholders but never issued.

Net income last year was $282,659 equal to 51 cents a share after preferred dividends of $26,690. Common stock is selling at the present time in the $2.10-$2.50 range.

Gross revenues and operating income for this year are expected to be somewhat higher, according to MacPherson. Last year Okanagan's operating revenue was $3,044,004 and operating income $340,536. This compared to 1958 figures of $3,188,382 and $361,848.

Okanagan operates 62 aircraft—43 of which are owned by the company—from bases stretching from the Yukon to Labrador and expects to log more flying hours this year than 1959's 25,000 hours. Winter work is running ahead of last year and bases have been established at Fort St. John and Prince Rupert. Work is being done for Trans-Mountain Pipe Line, Aluminum Company of Canada and Wheeler Airlines, to mention some of the larger contracts and radar posts on the Mid-Canada and DEW lines are being supplied by the company on a year/round basis.

Main company goal this year, MacPherson says, is to tidy up the balance sheet. The company has paid off a $100,000 bank loan this year and reduced the outstanding portion of an IDB loan by $100,000 to $80,000 and there is hope that the balance will be paid off by the end of the year.

One thing to remember about the Okanagan financial picture is that the company has chosen not to build a tax credit reserve. Instead full depreciation is claimed each year because of the rapid expansion of the company.

The venerable old Canadian washing machine firm of Beatty Bros. has dropped sadly in the profit picture reporting a profit this year of only three cents a share compared to 96 cents last year.

A report from the U.S. plastics industry says that the average 1961 model car will use 22 pounds of plastics which will replace 150 pounds of metal. This bad news for metals industries in general just as the growing trend toward aluminum engines in cars is bad news for the steel industry in particular.

James J. Behan, Vancouver, becomes first manager of the CNR's B.C. area Jan. 1 when the railway's reorganization plans take effect. At the same time Robert A. Wyman, Regina, will transfer to Vancouver for special duties and will take over Mr. Behan's post when he retires March 1 after 50 years' service with the railway.

Mr. Wyman, who rose to the rank of brigadier and led the 2nd Canadian Armored Brigade in the Normandy invasion, served as industrial agent at Vancouver after the war and then moved to Kelowna and Kamloops as assistant superintendent. At present he is superintendent at Regina.

Harry G. Wortman, who was the CNR's import-export specialist at Vancouver for 25 years and is now general freight agent at Winnipeg, returns to B.C. at the first of the year to take the post of assistant manager of the B.C. area with headquarters at Prince George.

THOMSON TO CLOSE GRAPHIC

LONDON (CP) — Publisher Roy Thomson, who has just added to his string of national newspapers in the United Kingdom, announced Tuesday night he is closing down one of his English journals.

The Sunday Graphic, a tabloid with a circulation of more than 800,000, must close before the end of January, Thomson said. He acquired the paper last year when he purchased the British Gemsley newspaper group.

His latest acquisition in the national newspaper field is the Belfast Telegraph, Northern Ireland's only evening newspaper.

This gave him ownership of national newspapers in Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales and a national Sunday newspaper in England.

The purchase price for the Telegraph was £2,000,000. Four weeklies are included in the deal.

Record Suez Traffic

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)—Ninety-four ships passed through the Suez Canal Tuesday, the largest number to use the canal in a single day since it was opened nearly 100 years ago. The record traffic was due to a 36-hour tieup when the 21,125-ton French tanker Berenice ran aground trying to avoid flaming oil accidentally ignited when another tanker sprang a leak.

Champs Continue Surge Up Ladder

BIG SWEDE, SAYS MAX, LIKES LIFE TOO MUCH

TORONTO (CP)—Max Schmeling, Germany's former world heavyweight boxing champion, says Ingemar Johansson of Sweden could be the greatest heavyweight champion in history if he took the sport seriously.

Schmeling, 55, here for a television appearance, said in an interview Tuesday Johansson was in perfect condition when he knocked out Floyd Patterson in their first fight. In the second bout, in which Johansson was knocked out, he didn't train hard enough.

Schmeling, looking trim and only 17 pounds over his 192-pound fighting weight, said he keeps fit by playing golf, tennis and soccer.

Trade Winds Blow Briskly At Meetings

LOUISVILLE (UPI)—The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates are "ready to trade," and so apparently are a number of other baseball men who discussed such names today as Ryne Duren, Joe Cunningham, Johnny Antonelli, Jim Piersall and Larry Sherry.

So far there hasn't been a single deal made at the annual baseball meetings but general manager Joe Brown of the Pirates set the machinery in motion today for a possible transaction by announcing "we didn't come here to sit back on our laurels."

First to take the Pirates at their word were the ambitious Baltimore Orioles, who made an immediate pitch for outfielder Roberto Clemente.

"I'd give a half million dollars for an outfielder like Clemente," confessed Baltimore boss Paul Richards.

There's only one hitch. Money won't get Clemente. But the Orioles might if they part with one of their young pitchers like Milt Pappas or Jack Fisher. They don't especially care to do that, though, so the deal might boil down to something like Gino Cimoli for Skinny Brown or Wes Stock.

Milwaukee Braves are the ones interested in Duren, the Yankee reliever who contributed so much to their downfall in the 1958 World Series.

The Braves are so anxious to bolster their bullpen that manager Chuck Dressen even is talking about the possibility of making Lew Burdette a reliever. Burdette won 19 games this year, principally as a starter.

EXPENDABLE

St. Louis has let it be known that Cunningham is available because Bill White is ticketed for the regular first base job next year.

San Francisco Giants, thwarted in efforts to trade Antonelli to New York Yankees for catcher Johnny Blanchard, appear to be close to a deal that would send the veteran lefthander to Cleveland Indians for infielder Johnny Temple and pitcher Dick Stigman.

Holding up the deal is Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane, widening the scope of the transaction to include Giants outfielder Willie Kirkland of Felipe Alou and Indians outfielder Tito Francona.

FREESE WANTED

In other trade talks: Cincinnati sought third baseman Gene Freese from the White Sox for Cal McLish but was turned down. Reds also are trying for Frank Malzone of the Red Sox. They're offering shortstop Roy McMillan and pitcher Joe Nuxhall. Billy Martin also is available.

Detroit Tigers said "no" to at least three proposals for second baseman Frank Bolling.

SETTING SIZZLING SNIPING PACE

CROWD WAS MOVING OFF FIELD

Police Chief's Film Has Answer for Halter

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police films taken at the Grey Cup game Saturday showed most of the spectators had moved off the Empire Stadium field by the time the gun was fired to end the game 41 seconds early.

Officials and reporters who viewed the film Tuesday agreed that the way the crowd was moving it could have been cleared of the playing area in a short time.

Police chief George Archer issued a statement defending the action of his police at the game between Ottawa and Edmonton, won by the east 16-6.

A police commission spokesman, commissioner D. M. Clarke, said in another statement: "We deplore the inaccurate and ill-considered remarks of football commissioner Sydney Halter."

The game was ended 41 seconds early on orders from Halter because of the crush on the field. Halter later said police behaved like wooden dummies.

The film taken by police and shown to a committee of police commissioners and Pacific National Exhibition officials and reporters showed spectators swarming onto the field after a youth ran out and stole the ball. It showed a police official conferring with referees and other policemen moving the crowd back to the end zone.

MOST WERE REMOVED

Most of the spectators had been moved behind the goal posts when the game-ending gun was fired, but the crossbar between the posts had been torn down.

Chief Archer said the firing of the gun to end the game was an "emotional reaction".

Mr. Clarke said the committee is completely in accord with the police chief's remarks and added that police and PNE officials will confer on the question of improved fencing and other factors affecting crowd control at the stadium.

The chief said stadium authorities did not consult police when they erected special seating for 4,000 persons on ground level, an additional security risk. The inspector had considered using dogs to control the crowd but decided against it because it could create a dangerous situation.

He said he had been informed of no incidents of personal injury or property damage at the game "excepting the destruction of a crossbar, which I regard as of little consequence."

Ron Likes Idea Of Good Salary

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Stewart, most valuable Big Four Football Union player this year, will meet Ottawa coach Frank Clair today to discuss where he'll play next year—or whether he'll play at all.

Stewart, in Toronto to receive a sports car award as the Grey Cup game's most outstanding player, said Tuesday his law studies will require him to attend school in Toronto next year. Playing for Ottawa "would seem impossible."

This would mean that either Toronto Argonauts or Hamilton Tiger-Cats would be logical choices if he is to continue in the game.

WILL GO ALONG

Earlier this year Rough Rider general manager George Terlep said the team would consider trading Stewart to Toronto rather than keep him out of football.

"I'll be glad to trade him—for Dick Shatto or Cookie Gilchrist," Clair said at the time.

Stewart said he might have to consider giving up the game for a year, but doesn't want to because "I've reached the position where I'm able to earn a pretty good football salary. . . ."

Filly With Future

NEW YORK (AP)—Bowl of Flowers, from the Brookmeade Stable in New York, was the unanimous choice of the Thoroughbred Racing Association's board of selectors today as champion two-year-old filly of 1960 in the United States. She won six of eight starts and was second twice, earning $198,706.

Sportsmanship, Unity Game's Major Result

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Tuesday night the annual Grey Cup Football game has done more to unite Canadians than any other event in his lifetime.

Speaking at a civic testimonial dinner to honor the national football champion Ottawa Rough Riders, Mr. Diefenbaker paid tribute to "this wonderful team that has brought honor to Ottawa."

To the defeated Edmonton Eskimos, he extended his warmest congratulations and said Jackie Parker's admission at the end of last Saturday's game that Esks were beaten by the better team was typical of the sportsmanship that surrounds the annual game.

Other guests included Opposition Leader Pearson, CCF leader Hazen Argue, Ottawa Mayor George Nelms, members of the Ottawa board of control and members of Ottawa council.

The dinner was originally planned to seat 1,600 but tickets were snapped up so quickly that another 1,000 were sold. To seat the overflow, an annex to the Coliseum was used to feed the extra 1,000.

Vancouver Trims Calgary Lead To Single Point

Calgary Stampeders are assured of staying on top in the Western Hockey League race at least until they tackle Victoria Cougars at Memorial Arena Friday night, but the Stamps should be able to see the writing on the wall.

They are going to have to do a lot of hustling to keep ahead of the surging Vancouver Canucks who are now tied for second place.

Canucks may have become somewhat complacent after winning their first five games of the season. Trying to live on their laurels didn't work, and the defending champions promptly lost five out of six.

BELISLE HELPS

Coach Art Chapman started looking for help and brought in winger Danny Belisle, who scored 31 goals for Vancouver last winter and started this season with Kitchener of the eastern pro loop.

Danny has played five games and the Canucks have won four of them.

Tuesday night at Vancouver, the Canucks clipped the Stamps, 6-4, and climbed into a tie with Edmonton, one point behind Calgary.

To make things brighter for Vancouver, Canucks have four games in hand over the Stamps and three over the Flyers. The edge may help since they embark this week on their first Prairie trip of the season, starting Friday at Edmonton.

TWO FOR WILKIE

Both are idle until then while Stamps play at Portland tonight and move to Victoria Friday.

Tuesday night, Belisle came up with his fifth goal since joining Canucks and Murray Wilkie, whom Vancouver was considering trading, scored two.

The others were scored by Larry Popein, Larry Keller and Orland Kurtenbach, Vancouver's leading scorer.

Calgary goalie came from league-leading scorer Ron Leopold, with two, Lou Jankowski and rookie John Kosianic.

Calgary lost high-scoring forward Norm Johnson late in the third period with an arm injury. Johnson ran into Vancouver defenceman Larry Cahan and fell heavily to the ice. Extent of his injury has not been announced.

Vancouver jumped to a 2-0 lead after the first period and increased it to 3-0 early in the second.

Calgary goalie Art Lariviere handled 30 shots while George Wood turned back 24 for Vancouver.

NEW GOALIE FOR COMETS?

Bad News Comes In Double Dose

WINNIPEG — Bad news came in a double dose Tuesday for Cesare Maniago, rookie goaltender with Spokane Comets of the Western Hockey League.

He first was fined by league president Al Leader for participating in a stick-swinging brawl and later learned his job with Comets is in jeopardy.

Maniago was fined $50 and Winnipeg's Al Nicholson $25 for their stick-swinging brawl Monday night in Winnipeg. The two were given match penalties which calls for an automatic fine of $25. Leader did not say why the fine was doubled for Maniago.

But the big blow for Maniago was the announcement that veteran minor league goaltender Gilles Boisvert ended a 10-week holdout Tuesday by joining Spokane.

LAST ONE TONIGHT

Boisvert, 27-year-old native of Trois Rivers, Que., joined the team in Winnipeg where the Comets close out a five-game road trip through the Prairies with a game against the Warriors tonight.

Coach Roy McBride said he will meet with his players today to decide whether the Detroit-owned goaltender will replace Maniago in the nets tonight.

Detroit, which has a partial working agreement with Spokane, assigned the little French-speaking goaltender to the Comets during pre-season training sessions. Boisvert balked at the move and went home.

When Boisvert, who also played with Sudbury of the Eastern Professional League and Edmonton of the WHL last season, refused to report to Spokane, Red Wings assigned Detroit-born Carl Wetzel to the Comets. Wetzel was replaced early in the schedule by Maniago, who failed to make the grade with Vancouver Canucks.

Puerto Rico Gets Berth

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The International League Monday formally approved the transfer of the Miami baseball franchise to San Juan, Puerto Rico, and is considering the addition of Caracas, Venezuela, as the eighth club in the circuit.

Owner Bill MacDonald, of Miami Marlins, received permission to move to San Juan. Toronto Maple Leafs will open the 1961 season there April 18.

There also was the possibility that Montreal Royals, owned by Los Angeles Dodgers, might be moved to Atlanta.

"We are seriously considering such a move," said a league official. "That won't be settled for a while yet, however. There are some in our league who favor Caracas as the eighth city because it is only 500 miles from San Juan."

PCL Franchise Hawaii-Bound?

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Pacific Coast League took an option Tuesday to buy the Sacramento franchise from its present owners for $55,000 with the idea that it probably would be transferred to Honolulu.

Dewey Soriano, league president, said the franchise would be offered to Maurice Yates and Harold Tate of Salt Lake City, who have indicated they hope to operate in Honolulu.

Silky's Comeback Plans Discarded

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Hopes for a Silky Sullivan comeback were dashed this week by a recurrent leg injury.

The big race horse, which gained fame with his tremendous stretch drives after lagging far back in the field, was scheduled to run next week at Golden Gate Fields. But he suffered a split in his right foreleg, the same injury that forced him to the sidelines 15 months ago, and his owner cancelled comeback plans.

New Chief for Teeps

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Rudy Pilous, owner-manager of St. Catharines Teepees of the Ontario Junior Hockey League announced that 39-year-old Phil Vitale of Toronto has been signed as coach of the defending Memorial Cup champions. He succeeds Max Kaminsky, who resigned last week because of poor health.

'FRENCH GREY CUP'

Pats Draw Lines For Trophy Clash

Most Canadian football addicts may consider that the 1960 season now belongs to history, but as far as members of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry are concerned, the "big game" is still to come.

The Pats are drawing up battle line for their annual "French Grey Cup" pigskin clash, slated Friday afternoon at Work Point Barracks.

Two inter-battalion teams will tangle for the "French Grey Cup," which derives its name from the identifying French grey color worn on PPCLI dress uniforms.

The annual battalion gridiron series was started in 1955, while the Pats were stationed in Germany. The trophy last year was won by Headquarters company.

Following the pattern of the Canadian final, Friday's game will be preceded by a parade, complete with floats, music and beauty queens. Leaving Work Point at 2 p.m., the parade will proceed along Lyall, Lampson, Bewdley and Anson Streets to the sports field. Game time is 2.30.

Prior to the kickoff, prizes for the best floats will be awarded by Lt.-Col. J. C. Allan, garrison commander. Pre-game festivities will be climaxed by the crowning of "Miss French Grey Cup" of 1960.

VIKING VIEWS

Date With Everett Important One for Vikings

By LES MILLIN

Victoria College students are looking forward to one last sport spectacle before Christmas examinations put a stop to athletic competitions for the remainder of the year. The big one is a basketball game Friday night between Vikings and invaders from Everett Junior College.

This game means a lot to college athletes.

For the first time, Vikings will play against an American college team. They will be up against tough competition on their own level—a team from a small college. They will be out to justify the big switch from playing in the local league, their custom in former years, to playing only exhibition matches.

If they win this match or keep the score close, they could increase spectator support for the rest of the season. This would mean money in the till for the Athletic Council, sometimes unable to give financial support to minor sports for lack of funds.

If they do well in this game, the Vikings will show that their early rating as a club with powerful potential is justified, and that they are capable of duplicating such feats as the Canadian championship they brought to the college some years ago.

So far the hoopsters are ahead, with three wins to two losses. The results of Friday's game will be an indication whether the collegians are likely to be a mediocre club, or a going concern.

Much of the Viking strategy is entrusted to Tom Wyatt, team captain, and most of the scoring is done by Darrell Lorimer, the Vikings' tall man. If this pair can do as well on Friday night as they have in the past, the college may upset the invaders.

The game will be played in the Gordon Head gymnasium on Finnerty Road.

Don't ask how it happened, but when the girls' grass hockey team trotted onto the field Tuesday, they found themselves playing the Vikings rugby XV.

Temporarily baffled by having to use sticks, the rugby huskies forged ahead to blank the girls 2-0, awarding themselves a home-made trophy at the end of the game. The match marks the end of activities for both teams for 1960.

Ice hockey players ended their 1960 play with a splash when they defeated a British Columbia Civil Servants team 7-4 on Monday night.

Mike Todd notched three goals for the collegians, while teammate Ross Grenier was close behind with two.

Good news came for the skaters with an Athletic Council announcement that they will start the new year on a firmer financial footing. Some of the revenue from Viking basketball games will go to the ice hockey team, which came onto the campus scene too late for a regular grant from the council.

Their ice capers ended for the year, the hockey team will come out of retirement on Friday night to help the rugby XV supply entertainment at halftime in the basketball game.

Rowing, the traditional sport of college gentlemen, has also decided to shut up shop until the new year. Faced with desertion by all hands in the face of Christmas exams, the club will put no boats in the water until hostilities cease.

Rowing machines, devices which allow oarsmen to practise their rowing on dry land, are still being sought by the club so that novice members of the crew will be able to learn to row without getting too wet.

Victoria College's gymnasium at Gordon Head, besides being the biggest gym in Victoria has the highest indoor bleachers in Victoria.

Installed last week, the new bleachers seat 300 spectators in the former army drill hall, which has become the centre of many college sports. The bleachers are part of a steady program of improvements to the gym, as was the hardwood floor put in at the beginning of the year.

Dick Munn and Bill (The Rock) Wakeham are eligible to chase the junior buttons, but here's a combination that could make it tough on any of the open competitors around.

Carrying the Uplands banner in the Victoria District Golf Committee battles, the youthful fairway stars get a second chance to claim the open buttons Sunday when they replay Dr. George Bigelow and Oak Bay pro Laurie Carroll.

That they tied the Oak Bay pairing last weekend speaks well for the new combination. Meeting Bigelow and Carroll on their home grounds is like going cougar hunting with paddles and ping-pong balls.

One down with two holes to play, the defenders drew even when Dr. Bigelow dropped a birdie on the par-five 17th. Carroll just missed pulling out a victory on the 18th when his birdie putt dropped in and then popped out of the cup.

Dr. Bigelow, who seemingly plays his best in poor weather, had an approximate medal of 67, two under par. Wakeham had a 68, while Carroll and Munn both carded 74s.

Al MacLeod, who previously had Wakeham as his partner in the junior button matches, retained his button when he teamed up with Dick Freeman to defeat Oak Bay's Billy Carlow and Alan Manson, 2 and 1.

MacLeod and Freeman now face Gorge Vale's Earl Francis and Vic Derman, also at Oak Bay.

B.C. golfers can look for some important changes in major tournaments if directors of the BCGA have their way.

Directors, meeting in Vancouver last week, will recommend to the annual general meeting that the B.C. Open be dropped next year unless a sponsor can be found. President John Carlow of Victoria said the Open has been a losing proposition the past two years.

The B.C. junior championship, previously a 36-hole event played over two days, may be extended to a three or four-day tournament over 72 holes. One of the reasons for the extension is that the Junior Masters meet, which in recent years has followed the B.C. junior, has been discontinued.

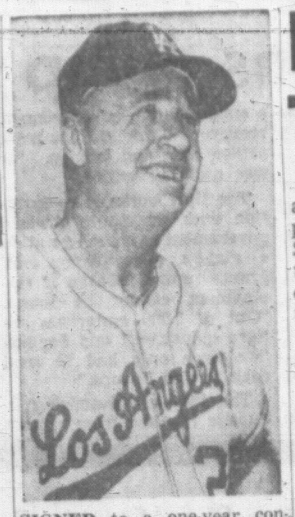
Dickinson Says Strain Too Much; Quits Boxla Post

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bill Dickinson of Vancouver has announced his intention to retire as president of the Inter-City Lacrosse League after two years in office.

Dickinson, remembered as one of the league's outstanding players in the 1940s, said he is resigning because, "It's too much of a strain."



SIGNED to a one-year contract for eighth straight season as pilot of Los Angeles Dodgers is Walt Alston, who led team to three National League pennants.

Upheaval Startles Race Body

NEW YORK (AP) — Thoroughbred Racing Associations Incorporated, a group which takes in most of the major United States horse-racing tracks, was shaken to its foundations today by the withdrawal of five track groups.

The upheaval is the culmination of a long-standing feud between the withdrawing groups and Spencer J. Drayton, tough executive vice-president of the TRA.

However, the TRA, in 19th annual convention here, issued a statement indicating that it would steer a clear road ahead, following its code of standards in spite of the withdrawal Monday of Garden State Park in New Jersey, Hialeah in Florida, and three Chicago tracks—Arlington and Washington Parks, and Balmoral which operates in meetings at Washington Park.

POLICING FORCE

The TRA was organized in 1942 and the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau followed in 1946. Drayton came into head the TRPB, the policing force of TRA tracks.

Drayton was the FBI agent-in-charge of Chicago who directed the capture of prohibition gangster Roger Touhy.

TRA directors interpreted the resignation to a difference in policy concerning the authority given to Drayton, also president of the TRPB.

The resignations reduced the TRA membership to 43 tracks, all of which contribute roughly $500,000 a year to maintain the racing organizations.

Penticton's Turn Now To Rattle Foundation

KELOWNA (CP)—Disaster looms directly in the path of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League as the stench of death hangs over its Penticton Vs entry.

Unless help is found before the end of the week the Vs will fold. Already the OSHL has lost Merritt Grand-Luckies, a team that joined the league only last fall.

From the opening game this season the circuit has been rocky. Each of the old guard, Kelowna Packers, Kamloops Chiefs, Vernon Canadians and now Penticton, have run into trouble. All have been on the brink of folding and so far have scraped through thanks to last-minute help.

But the Vs financial problems have shaken the league foundations completely. Penticton consistently outdraws other teams and during the summer spearheaded an intensive drive to rebuild sagging league spirits.

MEETING FAILS

A two-hour meeting Tuesday night in Penticton failed to come up with an answer to solve the Vs problems. But it was decided to have the executive meet with players tonight to obtain their views.

If the players wish to continue, an effort will be made to carry on. If not, the team will bow out after Friday's game in Penticton against Kamloops.

The club faces a $2,600 operating deficit.

The worst part of the situation, says coach Jack O'Reilly, is that nine players are without work and have little hope of getting any.

PLAYERS SHARE PROFITS

All clubs operate on a co-operative basis with players splitting the profits after bills are paid. Profits have been small everywhere.

Attendance has dwindled to about 500 fans a game during the last two seasons from a high of 2,500 five years ago. Various promotional stunts have failed to keep it high.

In contrast, the Western International League, in the neighboring mineral-rich Kootenay district of southeastern B.C., has shown signs of a rebirth.

The league started the season with teams in Trail, Rossland and Nelson. Nelson almost collapsed last month, but bounced back. Since then a fourth team, East Kootenay, with players from Kimberley and Cranbrook, has joined the league.

Except at Trail, attendance has not been good but most of the players are residents of the district and have permanent jobs.

Provincial Mitt Kings Feature Boxing Card

Top flight boxers from amateur ranks in B.C. and the United States step into the ring tonight at 8 in the first of the winter season's fight cards at Victoria Ballroom.

The 10-bout card will feature four main events.

Former Canadian army champion Lawrence [illegible] of the PPCLI will take on George Walker of Seattle in the 155-pound division.

In the 130-pound division, Victoria's Tony Lalich, another provincial title-holder, tussles with Bruce Baillie of the Chemainus Legion.

ROME LOSES TWO MILLION ON OLYMPICS

ROME (AP) — The Italian Olympic committee says it lost about $2,000,000 on the Rome games last summer, but added that it expects to make up the deficit from outside sources.

Financial figures place the cost of staging the games at $8,000,000, against ticket and radio-TV receipts of $6,700,000. Net receipts, after $800,000 in taxes were paid to the Italian government, were $5,900,000.

Officials said they expect to wipe out the deficit with receipts from world-wide showings of movies of the games, to be released in January, and from a percentage of Italy's weekly soccer betting pool.

Butter Plot Churned Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Efforts to push more butter down Canadian consumers' throats are being plotted by a seven-member committee just organized.

The butter Advisory Committee of Canada stands behind the official slogan: "It's always better with butter."

Its formation is due to the record storage figures totalling 134,251,000 pounds of the creamery product as of November 1, up more than 2,000,000 pounds on the same date a year earlier although production is down for the first 10 months of the year.

As the federal cabinet's chief butter watchman, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton has expressed hope that the butter advisory committee can succeed in making some inroads on the stocks, most of them held by the government under its system of price support by outright purchase.

The committee is headed by Toronto publicity man T. J. Wheeler. The federal government is putting up money for the program to extol the virtues of butter.

Chief target will be the city shopper, although the committee won't ignore country cousins either. Recipes designed to show off the merits of butter may appear with super-market butter displays and another tack will be tried

Liberal Gets 'The Works' At College

By LES MILLIN
College Correspondent

James Scott, national organizer of the Liberal Party, met with the traditionally spirited welcome when he addressed students of Victoria College during their lunchtime Tuesday.

He was cheered, jeered, and at one time yielded the platform to a student who harangued the crowd on the virtues of theoretical socialism. Pointed questions concerning the record of previous Liberal governments and the policies of any future governments were asked by students armed with history books and statistics.

Mr. Scott stressed that the Liberal party seeks to preserve the rights of the individual, and that "personality is of more importance than property."

NOISILY CONTESTED

When he told students that there was no class struggle in Canada, he was interrupted by student Adam Ustik, would-be organizer of a communist club on campus which failed for lack of membership, who noisily contested the point.

Ustik was invited to take the floor by Mr. Scott, and ascended the stage in a barrage of lunchbags and paper missiles.

After he had argued his theories of socialism and challenged Mr. Scott on a number of statements, he stepped down and Mr. Scott again took the floor to answer some of the questions.

Canadians Jump At S.A. Job Offer

LONDON (CP) — A private company that sponsors emigrants to South Africa today reported a "fabulous" response from an advertisement placed in a Toronto newspaper.

The chairman of the South African immigration organization, J. G. Foggitt, said he will fly to Canada later this week to explore the possibility of "setting up machinery there to deal with the applicants."

He said in an interview that a single-column advertisement brought 250 applications from skilled men and women. "It was quite incredible."

The firm works in co-operation with the South African government's immigration service, guaranteeing emigrants return passage if employment cannot be found. "Out of 2,000 emigrants we have sponsored," said Foggitt, "we have only had to send back two to Europe."

The idea of advertising in Canada resulted from reports of high unemployment there, he said. "We only want skilled workers and that's what our advertisement specified. We have full employment in South Africa."

He plans to fly to Ottawa Thursday or Friday for four or five days on "an entirely exploratory mission" to investigate the possibility of establishing an interviewing office.

"We would like to sponsor about 40 or 50 Canadians a month," he said.

"So far we know very little about what we will do in Canada," he said. "All we know is that we have had tremendous results from that one advertisement."

...THEN A BOY MOVED

LAMONT, Alta. (CP) — A Lamont school teacher told in a hushed voice Tuesday night how she watched in horror as a school bus carrying 41 students moved on to a level crossing near here into the path of a fast freight train, bearing down with its whistle sounding frantically but in vain. Sixteen students died.

Mrs. Lois Stefura, who teaches in the school where the victims were to have attended classes, was driving her own car behind the bus when the accident happened. Lamont is 45 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Mrs. Stefura said she was driving to school along a highway that parallels the CNR track into Lamont. She said she was doing about 60 miles an hour when she noticed the train behind her. The engineer began blowing his whistle some distance from the crossing.

In front of her the bus made a right turn to an access road leading over the track to the Lamont centralized school.

"I thought if he doesn't stop, the train will hit the bus. But I saw he stopped and I thought everything was all right.

"When I looked again the bus was pulling out on to the tracks.

"The train horn was blowing so loudly I thought everyone must hear it.

"The next instant everything seemed to fly up. Books and bodies. I thought everyone must be dead. Then a saw a boy move."

ALBERTA'S WORST TRAGEDY

Doctors Fight to Save Lives of Crash Pupils

BY PHIL ADLER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAMONT, Alta. (CP) — Doctors worked to save the lives of a half dozen severely injured high school students today as preparations were made to bury 16 teen-age companions killed Tuesday when their school bus was smashed to pieces by a fast-moving freight train.

The bus was carrying 41 students to Lamont High School from Chipman, 10 miles southeast of here. It was struck broadside as it crossed the Canadian National Railway tracks within sight of the high school.

Most of the victims—14 girls and two boys—were killed almost instantly as the diesel-hauled freight train dragged the twisted wreckage for a quarter of a mile.

Twenty-four students and bus driver Frank Budney, 31, were injured. John Winnick, 16, was the only one who escaped without injury. Three of his cousins died in the wreck.

At first doctors said the injuries of 15 were "critical to moderate." Later they said at least six were "holding their own" despite severe injuries.

BODIES UNRECOGNIZABLE

"The bodies were so tangled I couldn't recognize anyone. Yet I knew them all," said rescue worker Mike Konsoretti.

RCMP and CNR officials launched an inquiry into the accident, the worst road tragedy in Alberta history.

The temperature was several degrees below zero and the sky clear when Budney drove the bus up a short snow-covered grade to the railway tracks. He had just turned to the right off Highway 15, which runs almost parallel with the tracks.

Motorists who used the crossing after the accident found no land obstruction preventing a clear view of the track both east and west.

The 27-car westbound freight, travelling about 50 miles an hour, struck the right side of the bus, whose rear section was peeled away and deposited in a field along the front and rear wheels.

BODIES STREWN

The main body of the bus was bent around the leading diesel unit. It left a trail of clothing, books and bodies as it was carried to a screeching stop.

Some residents of this town of 600, 45 miles northeast of Edmonton, believed the bus driver was blinded by the rising sun. Hospital authorities did not permit an interview with him. They also declined to give his condition.

Two students—Keith Tompkins, 12, the youngest on the bus, and John Winnick—said they could not remember the bus stopping.

Relatives from Chipman, a mixed farming area settled largely by Ukrainian families, poured into Lamont to identify the dead and check the injured.

Winnick, a Grade X student, escaped with only skinned knees.

"I don't remember the bus stopping and I can't remember the driver opening the door when he came to the crossing," Winnick said.

He said the students were laughing and talking loudly and the frost-covered windows were rattling.

"I heard a loud bang. I must have been knocked out because the next thing I knew I was crawling out of the tail section of the bus.

"There were a lot of bodies, mostly girls, around the rear section of the bus. I found two girls face down in the snow and turned them over.

Keith Thompkins said from his hospital bed that he was lifted out of his shoes and overshoes and tossed into a snow-covered field. He had been sitting in the middle of the bus on the left side.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Spurgeon Moss, age 12, of Ackerman, Miss., for his question:

How do ants multiply?

The busy, wingless ants we see scurrying around are worker ants. And every one of these little insects is a princess, for her mother is a queen ant. As a rule there is only one queen ant in the nest and she lays all the eggs for the whole colony. Most of them will hatch into workers. A few of them will become drones and there also will be a few young queen ants. In some ant nests, great armies of eggs will hatch into fierce soldier ants.

There are at least 15,000 different types of ants in the world and they outnumber all the insects put together. All ants are rated as social insects because they live in well-run family colonies or societies. The colony or nest begins with a young, newly married queen. In some cases, the queen is very large and she brings with her a few workers.

The young queen is born and raised in the nest of a queen who is maybe 10 to 17 years old. She is a winged insect and when she is fully grown she leaves the nest and takes to the air. With her go a number of winged drone ants. On the very same day, other young queens and drones leave nearby nests and take to the air. This is the marriage flight of the young queens.

Each queen then drops to the ground and either bites off or rubs off her gauzy wings. The winged drones may try to return to the old nest, but the workers refuse to let them in. They are helpless creatures and soon perish for want of food and shelter. The young queen, however, finds a safe hiding place and rests for about a month. Then she begins to lay her eggs.

Queen Runs Nest Alone

At first, the queen has no help in the new nest. The first eggs hatch into larvae. The queen feeds these pale little grubs with her own saliva, which is all she has to give them. Soon the larvae spin themselves silken cocoons and become pupae. Inside, the grubs are changing into grown ants. The first batch of ants are small and poorly-fed workers. But these busy little princesses are all ready and eager to help their weary queen-mother. They start at once to enlarge the nest and prepare proper nurseries for eggs and more eggs.

The later batches of eggs are tended and well fed by the worker ants. These workers are females. They cannot lay eggs or produce baby ants. Only the queen ant can do this. Some ants produce sturdy, strong-jawed soldiers to guard the nest. These females are like the worker ants. Later in the season, a number of winged drones will be born into the nest and early in the summer, the queen will lay a few eggs that are destined to become young queens.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Bill Lucas, age 13, of Henryetta, Okla., for his question:

Why do they use a light year?

We measure rainfall in inches and fractions of inches. We measure the depth of a swimming pool in feet and we measure cloth in yards. But we would not measure the distance around the equator in yards, in feet or in inches. The figure would be too large. So for larger distances we use a larger measuring unit, the mile.

But a mile, or even a million miles, is no distance at all in the vast oceans of space. We are almost 93 million miles from the sun and the next nearest star is about 26 million, million miles away. We need a still greater measuring unit to estimate distances in the heavens. One of these units is the light year, the distance which light travels in one year. Other heavenly measuring rods are the parsec and the astronomical unit.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS

IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats . . . actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats . . . for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Britain Eyes Rich Common Market

(Bruce Hutchison, Editor of the Times, returned last weekend from a six-week fact-finding visit to the United Kingdom and Europe. Today he continues a series of articles on the effect that trade and economic policies now in the making there will have on Canada.)

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The public and the private obstacles to Britain's union with the rich common market of Europe appear to be negotiable and in the next few years may be negotiated, possibly too late.

In fact, the prospects of an agreement later on are so real that they have greatly alarmed the Canadian government, which fears that the Six and the Seven, if joined together, will damage the trade of this country.

The first obstacle to an economic marriage between the two trade blocs is political. Britain refuses to sign the Rome Treaty establishing the Common Market because this instrument envisages some kind of supranational state in Europe. This Britain will not join.

Hutchison

But Germany, economically the strongest and most prosperous state among the Six, has abandoned the hope of a confederated Europe, for a long time anyway.

That is clear from the statement of Dr. Ludwig Erhard, vice-chancellor and economic general manager of Germany, to this correspondent as already printed here.

Dream Destroyed

The union of the Six and the Seven, he said, would not lead "to the establishment of a new state of Europe in the sense of public law. We realize in the Six, where originally so many hopes had been harbored, that France is not inclined to surrender any part of her sovereignty."

This is a profound revelation of inner German policy and it represents a sharp shift in the power structure of Europe, as another dispatch will explain in detail.

It actually means that General de Gaulle, after an early gesture toward European political integration, has recoiled from it and, incidentally, destroyed the life's dream of Chancellor Adenauer.

The theory of complete political integration as the clear objective of the Common Market having been abandoned or at any rate postponed indefinitely, Britain can join the Six without surrender of her sovereignty so far as Germany is concerned.

There remains the problem of de Gaulle, the largest personal problem in Europe today.

To put it mildly, he does not ardently desire the adherence of Britain to the Common Market since Britain's presence, beside Germany, will dilute his power in Europe, his vision of a dominant France.

Complex Barrier

But de Gaulle can change his mind, as he has done frequently; France is being bled intolerably by the Algerian war and by a nuclear program probably also intolerable in cost; it requires the further economic integration of Europe; and, besides, de Gaulle will not be in office forever.

The second barrier to the marriage of the Six and the Seven is so complicated in detail that only a handful of men understand it, Mr. Fleming among them.

In simplest terms, if Britain joins the Common Market must it surrender its whole Imperial Preference system by which it imports goods, raw materials and food from the Commonwealth with little or no tariff on them?

And if this happens will not Commonwealth exporters like Canada lose much of their essential British market as Britain retreats behind the relatively high external tariff of the Six?

Mr. Fleming evidently thinks so, as his recent speeches show. On the other hand, Dr. Erhard has accepted the continuance of the Preference system. He says Britain can retain it while joining the Six—at least if it is confined to the present volume of British imports from the Commonwealth. Whether France will agree to this arrangement remains to be seen.

The third barrier, an extension of the second, is the difficulty of marrying a European system of high tariffs on farm stuffs with a British system which imports half its food with low or no tariffs and grows the other half with huge subsidies to its farmers.

At first sight that problem is insoluble, mainly because Britain cannot afford costly imported food under high Common Market tariffs. Given Dr. Erhard's pronouncement on the Preferences, however, the problem can be solved—but only if France agrees.

Here, as in so many other places, Britain encounters the enigmatic, baffling personality of de Gaulle, for the time being anyway. Still, the agricultural problem is regarded in London as eventually negotiable, though the negotiations will not be easy or quick.

Finally, the quiet opposition of the United States to the union of the Six and the Seven, for reasons explained in an earlier report, can be altered and probably will be altered under the Kennedy administration.

Fleming Alarmed

The prospect of a marriage of the Six and the Seven, not now but a few years later on, is so real that Mr. Fleming has sounded two separate alarms against it.

At London a few months ago he declared that Canada would not willingly surrender its Preferenees in the British market and shocked the British government by his vehemence. At Ste. Adele, Quebec, a few days ago he virtually threatened Britain with Canadian retaliation against such a surrender.

In words of deepest import beamed at London he said: "The ability of the Canadian government to maintain existing preferences in the Canadian market in favor of the United Kingdom would inevitably be affected by changes in the access of Canadian goods to the United Kingdom."

Mr. Fleming's alarm is understandable, given his philosophy, Canada's desperate foreign exchange position and the apparent facts. Given Germany's attitude, and given Britain's real position, the facts of economics and of naked power are not what they seem.

Kennedy Unworried

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy said Monday night he is not concerned with Republican challenges of the presidential election vote in a numboer of states.

"My information is the count has been accurate," he said from the steps of the Georgetown home of Dean Acheson, state secretary under the Truman administration.

Cadillac

A General Motors Value

Model illustrated: The Coupe de Ville

First of a thousand happy hours!

Forgive him if he takes the long way home today.

For the temptation is great when the day is fine—and the car is Cadillac—and the name on the title is yours.

The first thing he senses, as he glides out onto the boulevard, is comfort. The car is so generous in its interior dimensions that he can really stretch out and relax.

And what a wonderful outlook he has on the world about him! Wherever he looks, he finds himself surrounded by a panorama of vision.

Then, as the miles float by, the car's brilliance in motion begins to unfold.

Cadillac's improved power steering, he finds, has taken the last degree of effort out of handling. Its great new engine is a veritable symphony of controlled power and precision. And its new ride is smooth and quiet almost beyond belief.

So it goes—until he turns at last into that familiar driveway for the happiest of homecomings.

And the wonder of it is that, if he is like most owners, he'll enjoy more than a thousand such delightful hours before a single year has passed.

In fact, it is doubtful that, in all the world of possessions, there is another that provides its owner such lasting pleasure—in such constant measure—as a new Cadillac car.

Have you thought of someday adding a Cadillac to your happiness?

This is the perfect season—and an early order will assure you a full year with the current model.

Reason enough, we'd say, to visit your Cadillac dealer tomorrow.

CITY COUNCIL SCRAPS TOLEDO SHOPPING MALL

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Workmen today were dismantling Toledo's second experiment with downtown pedestrian malls, ending a 20-week experiment which cost $21,000.

The city council voted 6 to 3 two weeks ago to halt the test despite urging by some city officials that it be extended through the Christmas season.

The purpose of the experiments—the city spent $25,000 on a test in 1959—was to determine the feasibility of installing permanent malls in an over-all redevelopment of the downtown area.

The current trial ended when Downtown Toledo Associates, a group of downtown merchants, expressed fear that the malls on a three-block-long section of Adams Street might interfere with the Christmas trade.

ON BLANSHARD EXTENSION ISSUE

Gelling Claims Discourtesy

City public works committee was informed Tuesday that Greater Victoria School Board will oppose plans to push an extension of Blanshard Street through a playing field adjacent to S. J. Willis Junior High Scholl.

Board chairman W. C. Gelling, who led a school delegation to the meeting, said he was disturbed that City Hall had not notified the board of its intentions.

"It was neither very courteous nor good business," he said.

Ald. A. I. Curtis said no slight was intended. The plans were still in the preliminary study stage and the committee had not had anything concrete to outline to the board.

Trustee Richard Reeve said the proposed street extension would come so close to the school building itself that it could create a hazard. He suggested an alternate route for the extension should be planned.

The meeting ended amicably with the committtee assuring the board members that their objections would be considered.

Traffic engineer Norman Worsley recommended that lighting improvements rather than a painted crosswalk be installed on Douglas near Finlayson where a pedestrian recently suffered fatal injuries when struck by a car.

A coroner's jury recommended a mid-block crosswalk but Mr. Worsley said there already were two nearby. He added that there is danger that some painted crosswalks could prove to be death traps because they can give pedestrians "a false sense of security."

Christian Devotion Harmful to Hutterites

CALGARY (CP)—Hutterites are persecuted today because they take their Christianity seriously, a University of Alberta professor said Tuesday.

Dr. John A. Hostetler, assistant professor of sociology at Edmonton, told faculty members and students at the University of Alberta, Calgary, that Hutterites are the best example of a group holding religious views conflicting with those of the established religious institutions.

They wish only to continue their literal Christian form of life, he said.

The Hutterite practice of the "community of goods" has its origin in early Christianity. The social system requires complete conformity to this concept.

Where does the Volkswagen go in winter?

If a car was specially designed for Canada's rough winters, it would have to be a lot like the Volkswagen. For instance, the Volkswagen has a very high ground clearance — it picks its way through the deepest snowdrifts. And with the engine in the rear, a VW's power is directly over the back wheels. You get far better traction in snow and ice.

But going when it's snowing is only part of this amazing car's story. For example, there's no radiator problem because there is no radiator. Anti-freeze is gone for good. The air-cooled engine starts in a flash even on the coldest mornings.

All vital parts of the VW are well protected: a strong undershield keeps moisture, ice and rust away, thus protecting the car — and the owner's investment.

Some day soon, take a VW for an exciting drive in the snow. You will find that in winter, a Volkswagen goes anywhere you want it to.

EVERY MAN IN NAVY SEEMED READY TO GO 'DOWN UNDER'

Seventeen Victoria sailors, hand-picked by a demanding naval board, form the first large contingent to enter training for service in the RCN submarine which is to be based at Esquimalt next year. They are at the United States training school in New London, Conn., where their boat, HMCS Grilse, is fitting out. The men were chosen by a careful screening process from among scores of applicants—it seems every man in the navy wants submarine service. All have excellent general records, clean sheets in the conduct department, and have shown special aptitudes suited to the underwater service. They also survived rigid physical and mental examinations. The 17 will join Grilse when she commissions, probably next March, and bring her around to the Esquimalt base via the Panama Canal. Grilse is a converted Balao class submarine, which served as a picket in the continental defence setup. As a USN boat, she was known as USS Burrfish, and has been loaned to the RCN to serve as target in the deadly game of hide-and-seek played in training for anti-submarine warfare. At present, the Pacific Command depends on visiting U.S. subs for targets. Senior officers have stated that a "sub of our own" will greatly facilitate training for destroyers and frigates on this coast. In training at New London are: CPO Helmut E. Zerbin, 3565 Thistle; CPO Walter W. Arthurs, 891 Cloverdale; CPO Sidney D. Fullerton, 559 Baxter; CPO Edward V. Jones, 1630 Sheridan; PO Kenneth S. MacAdam, 986 Greenridge Crescent; PO Givelin Huzzey, 646 Galiano Crescent; PO William C. Slade, 580 Forward Drive; PO Robert W. Gray, 249 Prevost Street, Belmont Park; PO John Bowcott, 202 Meade Avenue; PO William T. Coldwell, 163 Virago Crescent; PO Douglas H. Gibbard, 4004 Century; LS Frederick C. VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1960—PAGE 17

MONTE ROBERTS

It came as a terrible shock to me—as it is bound to come as a terrible shock to you—to learn that British Columbia's Douglas fir trees ain't fitten to be Christmas trees.

The reason?

This analysis comes from a leading marketer of Christmas trees, and it makes my heart bleed.

Think of a young Douglas fir, fighting its way through the moss-and-needle-covered forest floor as a seedling, swaying in the breeze as a yearling, stretching itself toward the sky, a few years later, all of four or five feet tall.

Stretching, though, neither wisely nor well, because the fourth branch down from the top is shorter than the third branch down from the top, and possibly the top branch shoots upward at a 45 degree angle instead of the 30 degrees demanded by conformity.

It is indeed a shock to learn our young Douglas firs, Christmas tree size in height, are non-comformists and thus not fitten to be cut down, strung with baubles and beads, strangled with tinsel, and cremated in a backyard incinerator.

I had hoped—and I am sure you, too, had hoped—for better things for B.C.'s young Douglas fir trees.

Such as conforming to the specifications of the interior decorators who have decided the geometric dimensions of the ideal Christmas tree.

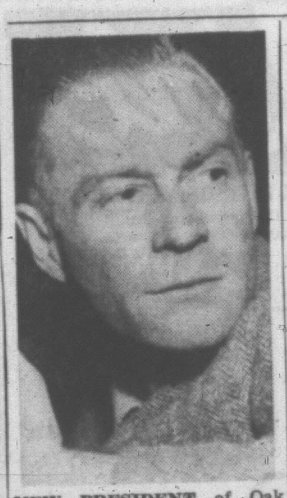
And shucking off the old-fashioned, out-moded pristine green for colors more chic and acceptable, such as silver, blue, orange, and pistacchio.

If your Douglas fir trees wish to have a future in the Christmas tree trade, the least they can do is stop reaching for the sun with eager arms, stop twisting their trunks to squeeze between their larger brothers in the search for a refreshing shower of rain, and concentrate on squishing down into a planned pyramid ideally suited to occupy the corner to the left of the television set.

It is time all youthful Douglas fir trees—like all youth everywhere—learned to conform.

Until that time arrives, Douglas fir trees must face the fact they ain't fitten to be Christmas trees, and I shall follow my usual practice of walking out into the woods somewhere nearby, find the scrawniest, skinniest, loosest-limbed, twisted-trunk character in sight, pick up my axe, wish the scrawny, skimpy, loose-limbed, twisted-trunk character a long life and a tall one, put my axe on my shoulder, and go home to a Merry Christmas.

Douglas fir trees ain't the only non-conformists around here.



NEW PRESIDENT of Oak Bay Progressive Conservative Association is W. M. Gage. He succeeds Clarence S. Goode, presented with an engraved desk set at the annual meeting Tuesday. The meeting also passed a resolution pledging help to Esquimalt-Saanich in the byelection there. Other officers elected: Norman Pittam and Mrs. D. C. MacArthur, vice-presidents; T. B. T. Hewett, treasurer and Brenda Taylor, secretary.

BRIDGE CLOSED AS WORKMEN LIFT TRACKS

Johnson Street bridge was closed to eastbound traffic today when city crews began removing the old street car tracks.

Inbound cars will be diverted over the Point Ellice bridge during the two-week project but westbound traffic will be allowed to use Johnson Street bridge throughout the period.

The unused rails were frequently criticized as a traffic hazard during wet weather.

Two Years For Burglary Of City Cafe

Frederick Morry, 21, was sentenced in city police court today to two years in B.C. Penitentiary for the burglary of a Government Street cafe last Thursday.

Twenty packages of cigarets were stolen after a front window pane was smashed and minutes later, Morry, his 24-year-old brother Ronald and 19-year-old Patricia Joseph were charged with breaking, entering and theft at Mai's Cafe, 2251 Government.

The girl was sentenced to jail for two months after she pleaded guilty Tuesday, and Ronald was committed for trial by a higher court when Magistrate William Ostler refused to try the accused on grounds he may have been biased.

In a report carried Tuesday, the Times mistakenly switched identity of the brothers.

Mr. Ostler told Frederick Morry, after hearing his criminal record: "Your previous convictions and sentences don't seem to have done you any good. Your life of crime . . . is regrettable."

Joint Ceremony For Retiring Phone Officials

Two long service B.C. telephone Co. employees will be honored at a joint retirement ceremony in the Union Club on Friday.

They are John A. Mackintosh, district commercial manager, and Miss Emily Warburton, district traffic chief, who both began their telephone careers here in 1919.

A native Victorian, Mr. Mackintosh joined the company as a clerk and subsequently was appointed salesman, district sales manager and assistant to the district manager. He was promoted to his present position in 1951.

His retirement is effective Thursday.

Miss Warburton comes from Cheshire, Eng. She joined the company as an operator in Victoria and became a supervisor in 1923. Three years later she was appointed chief operator and in 1949 was made district traffic chief in charge of nine exchanges on southern Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands.

She will retire officially on Jan. 1.

Chamber Calls Parley On Appeals Board

VLA CHIEF ASKS LEAVE TO SEEK NOMINATION

Reeve George Chatterton is expected to be a candidate for the Esquimalt-Saanich federal nomination.

It was learned today that Mr. Chatterton has applied for leave of absence from his federal civil service job to contest the byelection. The answer is expected this week.

Mr. Chatterton is director of the Veterans' Land Act under the Department of Veterans' Affairs here. Federal civil servants are not allowed to participate in politics. The reeve has not denied seeking the nomination, but has pointed out repeatedly that he must not violate the civil service regulations.

Big Effort to End 'Parade of Hands'

Possibility of setting up a charitable appeals review board for Greater Victoria will be discussed at a meeting next Wednesday at 8 p.m. called by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the Chamber's boardroom.

Representatives of interested public organizations have been invited.

The Chamber announcement recalls that a Community Chest survey indicated that Victorians believe there are too many appeals—"a parade of hands"—and that some means of scrutinizing them for "worthiness, financial health and public need" would be welcomed.

The Chamber's proposal is that interested groups might consider it worthwhile to form a board to provide the public with both information and counsel on appeals.

Suggested as members of the proposed board are representatives of the Victoria Labor Council, the Chamber of Commerce, Community Welfare Council and councils of Greater Victoria municipalities. Consideration would also be given to enlarging the scope to include other bodies interested in the project.

Board meetings would be called when necessary to deal with applications and examine them in the light of standards set up by the board. Findings — but not the deliberations — would be made available to all members of the community.

The Chest's survey came up with three possible solutions: a United Appeal, which some organizations refuse to join; legislation in the form of muuicipal bylaws to control appeals, which brings in the aspect of compulsion and regulation; and a charitable appeals board.

The latter appeared to be the most practical and for several years now it has had a neucleus in the form of the Chamber of Commerce solicitations bureau.

Function of the board would be firstly, to study, review and make recommendations respecting all charitable appeals in Greater Victoria except those conducted by religious organizations, lodges, clubs, or any organization within its own membership.

Secondly, to established as far as possible the worthiness of each suggested appeal for the community in relation to community needs and resources.

TIMING

Thirdly, to make recommendations regarding the spacing, or timing, of campaigns to make sure they do not overlap nor occur to frequently.

The board would rely on public opinion rather than on legislation for acceptance of its recommendations. Its findings would be made public — whether it endorses an appeal or not.

But even if an appeal does not have the board's backing, members of the public will be free to make up their own minds whether they want to contribute or not.

"The public indicated it was interested in this and wanted something along these lines," a spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce said. "It is therefore up to the public if this works, or not."

GROOS EXPLANATION

'I Have Friends In All Parties'

Capt. David Groos, newly-nominated Liberal candidate for the federal Esquimalt-Saanich riding, today cleared up reports that he had previously taken out a membership card in the Progressive Conservative party.

He made it plain that in embarking on a career in public life he had studied all parties and was convinced that the Liberals offered the best future for Canada.

'GOOD FRIENDS'

Capt. Groos made this statement on the matter:

"I am glad this has come up now because it gives me a chance of saying that I think I have good friends in all parties.

"I did go to a provincial Conservative nominating convention with my wife at the request of one of my friends who was a candidate; he was not successful, however, in gaining the nomination.

RECEIVED CARD

"I do not regret going to the meeting at all, it was part of my political education.

"In order to go and vote for my friend at the meeting I did receive a card.

"I subsequently went to a Social Credit meeting and a Liberal meeting, still with a view to furthering my political enducation.

"I enjoyed them all.

"I think it should be understood that I have just left the navy, where no one has a right to take an active part in politics.

"I have always been interested in public affairs and it was only natural that after leaving the service I should study the policies of all parties.

"I have done so and have confirmed my belief that the Liberal party offers the best platform and the best men for Canada, though I respect those who belong to other parties and will welcome their support."

Former City Lumber Head Dead at 71

Well-known city sportsman and lumberman William Harris Munsie, 1008 Johnston Street, died suddenly Tuesday. He was 71.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Hayward's.

Mr. Munsie, born in Victoria, owned and operated the former Shawnigan Lake Lumber Co. Ltd. for 26 years when it comprised the retail outlet on Government and a mill at Shawnigan Lake.

He took it over in 1910 on the death of his father, William McG., who had established the firm.

Mr. Munsie managed the firm until 1936 when he retired and sold it to the former H. R. McMillan Exporting Co.

A Mason, Mr. Munsie also served several years as president of the B.C. Agricultural Association during the 1920s. He was a member of Hoo Hoo, the international lumbermen's fraternity.

During his retirement, Mr. Munsie was an active fishing and hunting enthusiast and dog fancier.

He married the former Caroline C. Halmann of Nebraska in 1913. She died in 1952.

Mr. Munsie is survived by:

Two sons, John W., Princeton, B.C., and C. Harris, Toronto; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Sails, Victoria; four sisters, Mrs. Laura Wilkerson and Mrs. E. J. Cameron, of Vancouver, and Mrs. W. S. Day and Mrs. Hugh Barrett, of Kelowna, and 14 grandchildren.

IT'S 'HYDROCONIC'

Powerful New Tug To Join City Fleet

A powerful new tug, with a unique hull design, will join the fleet of Island Tug and Barge Ltd., Victoria and Vancouver, early in January.

She is the 97-foot, British-built, steel-hulled diesel Island Mariner — the second of that name in the ITB fleet.

The tug has a specially designed hull described by the coined word "hydroconic," intended specifically to increase the towing power of the vessel.

She is powered by twin diesels rated to give her 1,200 shaft horsepower, but her owners expect her productive power will be greater because of the hull design.

She was built at Appledore, Devon, by P. K. Harris and Sons, two of whose engineers are aboard the tug on the Atlantic crossing.

PICK UP TOW

Island Mariner will stop at New York to pick up a barge to be towed through the Panama Canal to Vancouver.

The first tug to bear the Mariner name, the former Madge, was built in 1907, scrapped this year.

The new tug joins a fleet of 19 tugs (seven of them deep-sea) and more than 100 barges, scows and derricks.

At present two of the deep-sea tugs are far out in the Pacific. Sudbury II is West of Hawaii, bound for San Francisco with two tanker mid-sections fabricated in Japan. Cambrjan Salvor is headed in the opposite direction with two Liberty ships bound for the shipbreakers.

Capt. Harley Blagborne reported by radiophone Tuesday night that he had ridden out a gale that blew him from north to south through the Hawaiian Islands chain. He said a U.S. tug had been parted from her tow of two barges in the storm, and one of the barges is believed to have capsized.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Langford volunteer firemen will sponsor a piano accordion concert Friday night to help provide Christmas hampers to the needy.

The concert, at 7.30 in the fire hall, 716 Goldstream, will feature Greater Victoria amateurs and a silver collection will be taken.

Firemen volunteer to look after a number of families in the Langford district each year.

Mrs. Elizabeth Scadding, 42, of 1204 Clover, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with possible broken ribs after a three-car crash at Faithful and Howe today at 7.50 a.m.

Police said Mrs. Scadding's car was in collision with one driven by Ronald Charles Barry, 47 Howe, causing the latter to turn on its side and hit a parked car.

The woman, who also complained of a shoulder injury, was released after treatment.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you tell me how much life insurance is carried by Canadians? L.T.R.

A. More than $40 billion. If this seems high, consider the fact there are about 8,000,000 policy holders and last year alone $6 billion was purchased in life insurance.

Q. Has Oregon a state tree and if so what is it? A.P.

A. The Douglas fir.

SHOPPING GUIDE

By PENNY SAVER

Most women will agree that shopping for the menfolk of the family is not the easiest assignment—especially when the budget is limited! Here are a few suggestions that may help.

If the man in question is the type who loves to watch a football game or, for any reasons, spends a fair amount of time outdoors during the cold weather, how about one of the pocket hand warmers that are once more gaining popularity? Ones I've seen will fit into a pocket and are about the same size as a package of cigarets. They're simple to operate, working on lighter fuel. One filling will provide heat for 24 hours. There's no flame and the warmer is absolutely safe.

To eliminate smell of lighter fuel in pockets you simply add a few drops of toilet water when fueling. Warmers are in highly-polished nickel plate and come in velveteen bags. They sell at $1.65.

For a man that entertains a great deal try one of the wooden racks that contain four wooden bottle tops and corks. Tops are in the form of a Chelsea pensioner, beef eater and two busbied Guard officers. Sets are imported from England and sell for $2.50.

Men that love to smoke a pipe will really appreciate one from London, Eng. These are briars and come in 12 different shapes. Pipes are a product of a well-known British firm and are an exceptional buy at this price. They sell at $1.50 each.

Along with the pipe, give him one of the elegant table lighters that sell at $5 and have a 10-year guarantee. You'll appreciate this gift as much as he does! Chunky, oblong lighters are about 2½ inches in length and have an ornamental medallion on one side, highlighted with either mother of pearl or with colored stones and rhinestones. A little out of the ordinary, lighters operate by pushing medallion.

Pioneer Girls' Week

Central Baptist Church Pioneer Girls' Club, celebrated national pioneer girls' week by taking part in the evening church service and in holding a badge presentation and sample pioneer girls' meeting, last week. Parents and prayer partner pals were special guests.

The club was organized in 1941 and has a four-fold goal: To help girls grow and mature spiritually; to train them for Christian leadership; to help them develop well-rounded personalities by learning skills in home-making, crafts and sports and to win them to Christ. Program is carried out in weekly group meetings, special events, craft projects, summer camp and a pal-girl relationship.

Evangelical churches of 30 different denominations sponsor the clubs in their various churches and there are now 60,000 girls and nearly 2,000 clubs in Canada and the United States.

Most of our Christmas dishes have come to us from other countries; but this recipe for Christmas pie is unique. It's intriguingly different and yet it has a traditionally festive appearance.

Pie With Festive Holiday Theme

For most people, including mother—even though she's apt to be fagged out by all the preparations — Christmas is about the most exciting time of year. And Christmas dinner with its sumptuous array of good things to eat is certainly the feast of the year.

So, today we are going to give you a recipe for an interesting, quite different, festive dessert. Christmas pie is the name of the dish, but it is somewhat of a misnomer since it is as much a cake as a pie.

As the pie bakes, some of the mincemeat sauce runs through the batter. For an added decorative touch, sprinkle some sifted sugar icing around the edge of the pie and deck it with a sprig of holly:

CHRISTMAS PIE

Pie paste, 1 cup mincemeat, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, ⅛ cup orange juice, 1 cup once-sifted all-purpose flour or 1¼ cups once-sifted pastry flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon grated nutmeg, ⅓ cup shortening, ½ cup lightly-packed brown sugar, 1 egg, ⅓ cup milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Combine in a saucepan the mincemeat, orange rind and juice; bring to the boil then reduce heat and simmer 1 minute. Cool.

Preheat oven to 350 deg. F. (moderate).

Meantime, sift together twice the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg. Cream shortening; gradually blend in sugar. Add egg and beat it in well. Combine milk and vanilla. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture, part at a time, alternating with mil Turn into prepared pie she and spread evenly. Carefull spread warm mincemeat mi ture over batter. Bake in pr heated oven 45 to 50 minute Serve warm with a lemo brown sugar or brandy sauc Yield—6 to 8 servings.

DEAR ABBY

You Both Were Little 'Graceless'!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Recently, while dining at the home of friends, the host said "grace." I thought it was a beautiful gesture, although we have never observed it in our home.

The next time I entertained these people at dinner, I asked this guest to say "grace". He said, "It's your home—you do it." I was so upset I could hardly eat my dinner. Should he have answered me in that way, and what should I have done? GRACIOUS.

DEAR GRACIOUS: He shouldn't have answered you in that way, and you should have made up a simple "grace." Understandably, you were caught off guard, but "We thank Thee, Lord, for this food," would have saved the day.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and I need a bra, but my mother makes me wear my brother's undershirt. I am so ashamed I say I don't feel well to get out of taking gym. Now my gym teacher knows that something is wrong because I have missed so many gym classes. I can't tell her the reason I hate to take gym and my mother won't listen to me. Can you give me some advice?

sign me JUDY (not my real name)

DEAR "JUDY": Tell your gym teacher the truth. I'll bet she will be more understanding and helpful than you thought she'd be. When you are honest with teachers, they can perform "miracles".

DEAR ABBY: When a 17-year-old girl goes riding with an 18-year-old boy, and he is driving the car, how close should she sit to him?

WANTING TO NOW.

DEAR WANTING: Close enough to talk—but not close enough to be talked about.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Use Imagination in Life And in Clothes You Wear

Lowman

We get into such ruts! I was just thinking about how much zest and fun it would add to life if we would live a little more imaginatively, if we would express our individual tastes with less fear and timidity. We are apt to dress alike, to furnish and decorate our homes in much the same manner, to read the same books and do the same things.

Yet those women who are known for their "flair" use a secret ingredient which is available to everyone. According to opera star Patrice Munsel, this secret is imagination. Miss Munsel, known as a woman who has the ability to make the unique work for her, says:

"Imagination gives you an outlet for self-expression and highlights your personality. For instance, everyone has a plain and simple suit that is a joy to wear, but looks very much like everyone else's simple suit. I add a flattering, eye-catching hat, and voila, that outfit is mine alone."

In the area of clothing nothing excites Miss Munsel as much as hats. She owns every shape and kind from tailored cloches to plumed evening hats and uses them constantly as the personality touch of her costumes. I think that many women have forgotten that a hat can dramatize and personalize the simplest outfit. It also can add an extremely flattering touch with line and color. Patrice Munsel even has a reversible hat, a cloche that can be turned inside out—paisley for daytime, and on the reverse, white mink for evening.

This much-travelled, talented and attractive young woman has designed several wardrobes for herself. One is a resort wardrobe of 52 pieces, all of them red, pink or white cotton or organdy. By interchanging the different parts she can create outfits for every occasion and hour. For instance, one beachrobe, by reversing its side, can be worn as an evening skirt. AND all of this fits into one suitcase!

Patrice Munsel is equally imaginative in the decor of her home. She has taken unpainted furniture (or stripped the finish from old furniture) and applied decorative designs of her own fancy, or antiqued the older pieces with various spray paints (gold, white, grey, etc.) and then outlined the carved designs with an art brush to create shadow effects.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Hobbies" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 66. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Bazaar-Tea In Sooke Hall

Woman's Auxiliary to Holy Trinity Church, Sooke, is holding its annual bazaar and tea on Thursday in the Sooke Community Hall. The affair will be opened by the rector's wife, Mrs. A. W. R. Ashley, at 2.30 p.m. There will be stalls of sewing, home cooking, candy, white elephant and potholders. Afternoon tea will be served. A program will include Mrs. T. Sorenson, vocal selections, and dances by the Marge Lindley School of Dancing.

15% INCREASE FOR COWICHAN

717 Looking for Jobs

ISLAND DIGEST

(From Duncan Bureau)

Unemployment in the Cowichan district is up 15 per cent over the same period last year.

Figures released by the Unemployment Insurance Commission office show there are a total of 717 persons out of work, or 546 men and 171 women. A total of 622 persons sought work last year at this time.

Cutbacks in the plywood industry, return of loggers from camps up-Island and on the mainland, and layoff of workers at the Cowichan Lake mine of Cowichan Copper Co. have contributed to the jump in unemployed.

At present only one 45-man shift is working at the plywood veneer plant of B.C. Forest Products at Youbou. This soon will be cut back to 29.

PRICES CUT

Production at B.C. Forest Products Crofton pulp mill continues at a high level but the company has lowered prices on bleached and semi-bleached kraft from $160 and $140 to $150 and $130.

One bright spot in the district is the construction business where a number of projects are either on the drawing boards or underway, and expected to provide employment for a good number of men.

SHOPPING PLAZA

Ground is expected to be broken before the end of the year on a $250,000 shopping plaza, a $25,000 addition to Chemainus General Hospital is planned, and Cowichan School Board will call tenders next month for a junior high school and elementary school costing a total of $350,000.

Projects underway include a dormitory for Queen Margaret's School and a new $225,000 B.C. Telephone Co. automatic exchange building.

Winter works projects in both the municipality of North Cowichan and city of Duncan are also expected to provide employment.

Three Injured, Car Demolished

DUNCAN—Mrs. Albert E. H. Smith, Cowichan Lake Road, and her two grandchildren, Karen, 2, and Gregory, 3, were injured here Monday after the car in which they were driving collided with a heavy trailer-truck.

Mrs. Smith suffered head and leg abrasions. The children, who were riding in the back of the vehicle, sustained shock.

Snow Halts Logging Operations

COURTENAY — Heavy snow has halted all logging operations of Crown Zellerbach (Canada) Limited in this area.

The company's operations at Ladysmith, Nanaimo Lakes, Nitinat, and Bella Coola are scheduled to shut down Dec. 16.

FOR B.C. LIONS

He Hopes And Hopes And Hopes

(From Duncan Bureau)

What does the general manager of a football club do?

"He hopes," said Vancouver Lions manager Herb Capozzi at a post-Grey Cup dinner here Tuesday.

"I'm like a missionary. Every year I go around preaching the same thing — hope."

He told an audience at the Kinsmen-sponsored dinner that the B.C. Lions football club is a million dollar business.

"We spend $5,000 a year on adhesive tape, $10,000 to feed players at training camp, and $25,000 on transportation," he said.

'GREAT FANS'

Football enthusiasm in B.C. is "the highest of anywhere in Canada. Fans here are the greatest."

He said the Lions would be prepared to underwrite 50 per cent of the initial cost of a high school football league in Duncan and district.

Willie Fleming, altar-bound in California, was unable to attend the dinner, as was By Bailey. Capozzi introduced two of the Lions young Canadian stars, Bruce Claridge and Jim Carphin.

Candidates to Speak

MAYOR CALLED UNDEMOCRATIC

Alderman Quits Alberni Council

ALBERNI—Ald. Fred Bishop, member of the third generation of his family to serve the city, has announced he will not seek re-election to city council in December.

He did not blame year-long strife between Mayor Mabel Anderson and council for his decision, but in a prepared statement he charged the mayor with undemocratic actions.

'MAJORITY RULE'

He said:

"It is difficult to foresee an improvement in the conduct of council business unless there is a return to acceptance of majority rule and an end to improper use of sections of the Municipal Act.

"I am sure the council would support the mayor any time that a worthwhile proposal or leadership were shown. Instead, we have been faced with a negative attitude."

The best interests of the majority of citizens have been blocked, he said.

Ald. Bishop and Mayor Anderson have differed on numerous occasions, and many meetings have featured long arguments over provisions of the Municipal Act and their bearing on council conduct.

Grandson of the first mayor of Alberni, Ald. Bishop has served 10 years as an alderman.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

'Vancouver Sitting on Oil'

(Compiled from CP)

VANCOUVER—A small oil refinery operator wants to drill for oil in the heart of downtown Vancouver because, he claims, crude oil is seeping to the surface from under False Creek.

Valentine Mansell of Enterprise Oil Refiners said five barrels of oil a day emerge from the grounds of a steel company which backs into the creek.

The B.C. department of mines and petroleum resources recently had a sample analyzed and found it was bunker fuel, a refined oil used principally by ships, mixed with water, sand and dirt.

On that basis, the department rejected Mansell's application for a permit to explore Greater Vancouver in areas where the government still holds mineral rights.

HALL BURNED DOWN

NELSON — Investigation is being carried out in the cause of a fire which razed a temporary meeting hall for Sons of Freedom at Krestova Sunday. Arson is suspected. RCMP said several persons disrobed around the building. Main meeting hall burned to the ground last spring.

PROTECT INDUSTRY

VANCOUVER — The Vancouver local of the United Steel Workers of America has sent telegrams to Works Minister Walker and all Lower Mainland members of Parliament asking for legislation prohibiting the use of foreign-made steel on public works projects if the product is made domestically. The union announced it is concerned about steel for the multi-million dollar Columbia River project.

HIGHER SPEED URGED

VANCOUVER — Vancouver's rush-hour traffic congestion would be eased considerably by more police direction and a 35-mile-an-hour speed limit on main streets.

This is the opinion of city engineers, police and the B.C. Electric after a lengthy study of transit problems at the request of city council.

A special council committee presented the recommendations Tuesday. The report said raising of the speed limit would be of limited help in speeding bus service, because of loading stops, but would be desirable for other traffic.

MEETING POSTPONED

NELSON — Meeting of Minister of Lands and Forests Williston and the Nelson Chamber of Commerce Columbia Development Committee has been postponed. The meeting was tentatively scheduled for Dec. 9. The High Arrow Dam proposal will be the topic of the "confidential, private, round table discussion."

AROUND THE DIAL—To my mind, the world of politics, especially at a federal level, can be as interesting as any athletic contest you'd care to mention and it always comes to me as a surprise that the mass of citizens doesn't share my enthusiasm.

And they don't. One only has to remember Close Up's interview of the "man-on-the-street" to know how little was known about Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King 10 years after his death. One only has to pick up the phone and dial numbers at random, asking such questions as, Who is the prime minister of Canada? Who is the leader of the opposition and what is his party? Who is W. A. C. Bennett?

Oh, don't laugh. You'd be astonished by the answers.

However, I don't think that the CBC's two-part series, "People in Parties" will aid the cause of education very much, that is unless the second half is more inspiring than the first witnessed at 10.30 Monday night over Channels 6 and 2.

Chairman A. Davidson Dunton, respected president of Carleton University, Ottawa, was excellent. So was Prof. J. A. Irving of Victoria College, University of Toronto. Both of these men possessed the light, probing touch required to lift such seemingly dull subjects as party campaign funds, New Party check-off system versus the secret ballot and so on into the sunlight of intense interest and understanding.

Unfortunately, however, such guests as Richard Thrasher (PC Essex South, Ont.); George McIlraith (Lib. Ottawa W.) and Frank Howard (CCF, Skeena, B.C.) let down these men by imparting a deadly dullness to their explanations about personal campaign costs, how to make your start in politics, etc. Like so many Canadians, they appeared to freeze into a heavy-footed plodding once they knew they were facing live cameras and mikes.

One story about Prime Minister King and an electioneering blotter served to remind me of the ludicrous "ping pong ball" skit in the motion picture "Auntie Mame"—a veritable parody of a parody.

Next Monday Mr. Dunton will use the final half-hour of the series to seek an answer to the question of who is really running the country. Do the people control government, or does real political power rest elsewhere?

WHEN I WROTE Tuesday's column re the wonders of Grey Cup Day the game had yet to be played. Now I would like to add a P.S. It's still the best day Canada has on its calendar and the unfortunate jarring note at the end of the game should not detract from this fact. But it does seem on the record that there is a minority in Vancouver that must be curbed, not by the addition of new fences or moats but by the firm unyielding hand of authority.

And, finally: I hope everyone saw the "talking mailbox" business on Arthur Godfrey's high-flying Candid Camera show Sunday night. It was a gem . . . I firmly believe that Danny Thomas has the best family comedy on the screen . . . and I am worried about my Saturday night favorite, "The Roaring 20's" that is doing anything but well in the ratings. I suppose the hold of Matt Dillon, Chester and company still remains too strong for the opposition.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

Brother Of Spy Nabbed

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Robert Soble, a supervising psychiatrist at a big mental hospital, was arrested Tuesday as a member of a wartime band of Soviet spies headed by his brother, now imprisoned.

Dr. Soble, 60, uses that name although his legal name is "Soblen." He is a brother of Jack Soble, 57, who started a seven-year prison sentence in 1957 for espionage. Dr. Soble faces a possible death penalty if convicted.

The psychiatrist was held in $75,000 bail for a federal court hearing Dec. 20.

The government claimed Dr. Soble received monthly reports during the Second World War from local headquarters of the hush-hush Office of Strategic Services.

As Dr. Soble left the courtroom at Tuesday's bail hearing, he asked Judge William Herlands:

"May I say goodbye to the gentlemen?"

"Who?" Herlands inquired.

"The FBI gentlemen," Dr. Soble replied.

"Why?" Herlands asked.

"Well, they were nice enough," Dr. Soble said.

Herlands smiled and granted permission, whereupon Dr. Soble bowed low from the waist, waved genially to the men and said:

"Thank you very much, gentlemen."

Hamilton 'Fed Up' Over Bypass

After three years of trying to establish a satisfactory emergency ambulance service, city police commissioner W. J. Hamilton Tuesday said he resented being bypassed.

Mr. Hamilton showed his feelings when police commission was told no reply had come from city fire wardens committee on its suggestion that the police and fire departments share cost of maintaining an ambulance.

"I'm fed up," snapped Mr. Hamilton. "I've worked on this for three years and when we go to the fire wardens we get no reply.

'IGNORED'

"In the meantime, I'm completely ignored and it is put in another man's hands. If they want to paddle their own canoe, let them."

Mr. Hamilton said he had several ideas on the subject but would not reveal them in open meeting because it "just gives them another chance to pick my brains." He agreed to give his views in camera.

Commission was informed that an 8 per cent wage increase and a one-year agreement was sought by Local 918, International Union of Operating Engineers, which represents the building engineers employed at the police station.

Police Chief John Blackstock told commission that the overflow of unclaimed bicycles is causing a serious problem even before the periodic auction is held.

City council gave its permission for auctioning Dec. 10 at 10 a.m. the bicycles and tricycles that have been unclaimed for one year.

But Chief Blackstock said this would only clear away some 20 bikes, still leaving more than 100 jamming storage space at the station.

Commission decided to ask City Hall for relief by allowing storage of the bikes at Garbally Road works yard.

. . . HADDOCK TELLS HIS STORY

protest. The meeting was at the call of the chair and no minutes were being kept. The result was the meeting was called a "conference" the plan thus to give the Manager three months' probation and not hear the employees at all.

This was too much for me, because we had only heard half the story—the Manager's half and I asked the Manager in front of the Commissioners, if he had any objection to our hearing the employees. He had none.

My point was that six employees do not resign much-needed jobs in protest unless for serious cause.

However, my colleages still refused to take the initiative and call them in.

The staff, on good advice, sought legal counsel in order to persuade the Commission to hear their story. As it turned out the possibility of libel was involved and they very wisely sought counsel. This resulted in another hurry-up meeting, held in "conference" in the private office of one of the appointed advisers on the Commission.

Our Commissioners now agreed to meet our employees, but expected to lay down the rules by meeting them just one by one. Again I protested such kangaroo court procedure, and walked out in anger and disgust.

One of my colleagues followed me out and persuaded me to return, which I did, hopeful that once the Commission heard the employees' side of the affair they would surely do no less than see justice was done and refuse to accept the protest resignations, reinstate them in their jobs en bloc and carry on with the administration of the Arena office (a very complicated operation) and advertise for a new Manager.

A meeting was finally arranged to meet Mr. Pearlman and our staff (but not one by one) and I particularly urged our Chairman to invite Aldman Ramsay and Alderman Dowell to sit in as observers —this of course he did not do.

The statements of the employees and the results of the meeting, plus the admission of the manager, reflect sad discredit on arena management and commission alike.

After the employees and Mr. Pearlman left the meeting, the commission carried on until almost midnight.

We were at a stalemate. I still would not and could not in all conscience agree to the casting adrift of our employees, Mr. Noakes in particular, for doing what in my opinion, was only the right thing.

It was decided to adjourn till 9 a.m. Monday morning.

This was the meeting where I finally gave up and resigned after a motion was passed (my amendment was not seconded) to accept the manager's resignation not to be effective for three months, and put the arena employees to the indignity of reapplying for their jobs along with other applicants, and let them take their chances.

'Too Much for Me'

What a travesty of justice! This was too much for me so after approximately 13 minutes (so I am told), I resigned and walked out.

I was accused of calling my colleagues "a bunch of nuts." They insisted on recording this in the minutes, not that I mind because I believe a famous American general was quoted as saying approximately the same thing and to good effect.

My expression was of course in essence, directed to their judgment and decisions, nothing more, as I have nothing personal against my colleagues whom I consider honorable men with faulty judgment.

It was my intention, as noted in the press, to present my resignation to city council last Thursday with my reasons for such. I may not have been heard, I don't know, but I am confident there must be some level in civic affairs where the arena office staff can receive simple justice even if it is a citizen's court of indignant public opinion.

I have never professed to be a saint or paragon of virtue, or knight in shining armor—far from it, but the gross unfairness being meted out to these people who still haven't got their jobs back, and are losing their wages every day this carries on, offends every fibre of fairness I possess and I have felt rather lonely these last six weeks.

Quick Meeting

Before my planned appearance at city council Thursday, a quick meeting was called for on Wednesday for that evening. This included all the commission plus five city aldermen.

The chair was taken by the vice-chairman who in effect almost gave an ultimatum to the councillors that they had better express confidence in the commission or the commission would all resign.

I felt a little sorry for the council members as they had to choose between supporting two old friends and colleagues formerly on council and what they felt might be resulting chaos.

My fellow commissioners' main argument for keeping the Arena manager another three months is because he is also business manager (local affairs only) of the Cougar Hockey Club, and therefore Mr. Piggott of Saskatoon must be consulted.

'Incompetency'

The way the Arena manager has handled the season ticket holders' promotion and his refusal to engage Mrs. Wallis with consequent sag in the maximum promotion of this important factor in hockey ticket sales is indicative to me of further incompetency, and I submit that Mr. Piggott, the good businessman he is, would have very strong views on the plan my colleagues have of retaining the manager another three months, in fact any longer than necessary. A telephone call would, I am sure, confirm this very promptly.

After a long dragged-out discussion and on the request of those present I agreed to withhold my resignation on the assurance the employees would be treated fairly, which means to my mind, getting their jobs back.

In all fairness there was at least one commissioner who refused to include Mr. Noakes in this arrangement, and this commissioner apparently has the principal voice in the employment or re-employment of staff.

Not Surprised

I was greatly disappointed, but not surprised, but I felt I had gained a little ground at least in the agreement to take the girls back, and I certainly exhibited a willingness to cooperate with not only the commission, but those aldermen present and I felt that most surely the injustice to Mr. Noakes would be picked up by many hands stronger and possibly more competent than mine.

I feel the city council was very kind in expressing confidence in the commission, and I am sure they did this in the hope we would be able to settle our own affairs. However, I feel their confidence has been sadly misplaced.

They are impressed with the profit picture of the Arena over the years and attribute most of the credit for this to the manager.

I cannot accept this, as there is no "one man show" of this nature in my opinion.

Higher Profits

I am also not satisfied, but that the profits could not have been a great deal higher had a little more good will of "give and take" been established with regular users and prospective clients of the arena, but the unhappy point, even so, is that important members of our staff have not had a salary increase in eight years, and the increment of our manager is equivalent over the average of almost 20 per cent of our total profits.

I cannot understand how we collected such a loyal and efficient staff. I think they are better than we deserve, for had these employees been associated with a labor union, they would never have received such treatment, in this instance. I am sitting with management and I am ashamed.

I can say this in conclusion that once this is cleaned up, and I shall not give in until it is, I hope never to involve in civic matters again, other than that which concerns my own business.

Not Worth It

I think I am beginning to see the light. It's not worth it.

Some of the points that have so aroused me other than the poor treatment of our staff by the commission:

1. The instructions by the arena manager to the staff that if any one of them allows a commissioner into the arena he would be fired.

2. A statement made to his staff by the manager, that he the manager, has never been dictated to by a commission and he "doesn't intend to have this start now."

3. His disobedience in not granting increases in salaries to our staff when instructed to do so by the commission last March.

4. His disobedience in keeping his family on staff for two to three weeks, possibly longer, after instructions to discharge them.

5. For the above reasons alone, exclusive of the other more unethical aspects of management, nothing but prompt and immediate severance is called for.

6. And, finally, the completely unsound plan of keeping a manager who is leaving and engaging a new man without the support of our experienced office manager, Mr. Noakes. As a taxpayer, I object.

In conclusion, I may have made some bad friends in certain quarters in the city. If so, then I am very sorry! But if one is to choose between being liked and being respected, then I must choose the latter, because if I had not stood firm on this issue I could not respect myself.

commission had been willing to sacrffice Mr. Noakes to save face.

"Nothing could be further from the truth.

"Let us review the situation. Certain employees have resigned their positions without requesting a prior hearing by the commission. None of these people had been censured; not one was dismissed.

HINDERED

"The commission has been greatly hindered in performing its duty to the public by this sudden exodus of the arena staff at the peak of the season.

"It must be clear to all thoughtful citizens that the rehiring of former employees must be considered with scrupulous fairness to all concerned."

Mr. Nelles said he had studied the issue and talked to most of the persons concerned.

"The present ugly situation was caused by the commission leaving far too many decisions to Mr. Dukowski," he said. He said the commission was made of honorable men who donated their time.

"But aside from these qualifications, it is hard to see why some of them were appointed by city council and it is probably right to say that council must also share the blame.

MISMANAGEMENT

"Typical of the mismanagement that has gone on is the conflict of interests faced by Mr. Dukowski in working actively for the Cougars and the Ice Capades as well as for the Arena itself.

Mr. Nelles said the commission apparently condoned this situation if not actually encouraging it.

ASSET SQUANDERED

"This may have improved Mr. Dukowski's take-home pay and it may have been a great help to the two private enterprises mentioned but it also squandered a city asset. By leaving all the show business to one man, unsupervised, I feel that the stage was set for what has happened."

He said the commission should have asked council for additional men on the board or else they should have enlarged the employee staff.

"The arena situation has reached an explosive point. It can only be cured by council appointing somebody to clear it up."

Mr. Nelles said there was no need for an expensive investigation, just an improvement in personnel methods.

"The arena is a living, breathing asset and needs careful nursing through its trouble, not an autopsy," he said.

AGONY COMPOUNDED

"That Mr. Dukowski is irreplaceable is a bankrupt notion. That he must stay on the job for another three months simply compounds the agony.

"I am sure that the arena can be set back on its feet quite quickly and become at last the outstanding city property that taxpayers were promised.

"This will happen when council faces up to its job. If I am elected on Dec. 8, this will be my first objective."

Mr. Toone said the manner in which the commission had handled the issue had reached "a ridiculous stage."

He felt council should not normally interfere with the commission.

"But once it was known something was wrong, city council should have demanded a full report on the matter to clear it up.

"This is the people's business. They have a right to know the problem and to have the matter cleared up in a businesslike fashion.

"I believe Mr. Haddock is right in the stand he has taken and the commission should reinstate the employees now or state why not. I venture that if the employees had been members of a trade union organization this matter would not have been dragged around as it has."

Mr. Toone said the whole situation pointed up the need of closer liaison between the commission and council "and the need for labor members on such commissions and boards"

"However, the important thing right now is to get the arena business back on the track. This means reinstatement of the employees and a full report to city council. That does not include the manager, whose resignation I understand has been accepted."

OPPOSITION WILL HELP

Opposition parties have agreed to "facilitate" parliamentary consideration of the bill, but they may blast the government for stalling the strike of some 111,000 non-operating rail workers without settling the wage dispute.

The Liberals have contended the government should enforce a solution on the basis of a 14-cent hourly increase awarded by a conciliation board, a plan the railways say would cost them $34,000,000 a year at the end of the proposed two-year contract.

CCF Leader Argue has called for an inferim subsidy to the railways so they could meet the wage bill.

Meanwhile, the railways are lifting a national embargo on shipments of livestock, poultry and perishable goods.

Laos Rebels On the March

VIENTIANE (Reuters) — Thousands of pro-Western rebel forces today tried to march on this administrative capital of Laos and overthrow neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma.

The premier disclosed at a press conference Gen. Phoumi Nosavan's rebel forces, armed with tanks, launched a two-prong offensive from the south Tuesday.

AA (Oscar Class) A (Don't Miss) BB (Worthwhile) B (For Rainy Days) C (To put in time)

(BB PLUS) "GATES OF PARIS" (Plaza)—In spite of Rene Clair's excellent direction, the first-rate acting and life-like black and white photography, "Gates of Paris" Gallic blend of comedy and stark drama proved a little too much for my Anglo-Saxon soul.

At the close of the film's 103 minutes' running time, I was not quite sure what I had witnessed.

The story concerns Pierre Brasseur, a drunken oaf, whose only true friend is artist George Brassen, who lives in a back-alley home of tumbledown meanness. One day fugitive murderer Henri Vidal invades their privacy and forces them at gunpoint to hide him in the cellar.

Slowly a change sets into the oafish Brasseur's soul. Here is someone he can help, someone who needs him. He gives up his drink and nurses the killer back to life. He even tries to understand when, later, Vidal would make love to Brasseur's girl friend, cute, comfortably packaged Dany Carrel.

But the picture's highlights are derived more from director Clair's cunning eye for life. Possibly the best single sequence of the entire film comes during a radio newscast about the progress of the hunt for Vidal. There in the background the children can be seen playing in the streets, copying the killer whom they idolize.

As is usual with these French films—this was released approximately two years ago—the characterizations and details are the main support of the plot. Nothing is overlooked that will add to the "feel" for life.

"Gates of Paris" ends its run tonight.

Students Gain From Summer Sessions

VANCOUVER (CP)—Youngsters who attended summer school classes in a Vancouver experiment showed tremendous gains in subjects studied, the school board reports.

In Grades 3 to 6 the average pupil gained about four months in reading and five months in arithmetic after four weeks of study. Grade 7 and 8 pupils who studied five weeks were nine months ahead in reading and arithmetic while in a five-week reading course for high school students the average gain was 14 months.

A spokesman said biggest reason for success of the classes was that students were given concentrated coaching in weak subjects. Enrolment totalled 2,107.

'Reluctant Peer' Case To Committee

LONDON (Reuters) — The case of the reluctant peer was referred Tuesday to a non-partisan committee of the House of Commons.

The committee was instructed to study a petition by Anthony Wedgwood Benn, a Labor MP, who after the death of his viscount father two weeks ago, found himself faced with a blue-blood role in the House of Lords.

The death of Benn's father automatically disqualified him from sitting and voting in the House of Commons.

Benn's petition said he had executed an instrument of renunciation of the viscountcy and that the House of Commons Disqualification Act of 1957 conferred a statutory right on legislators to refuse to accept places which would disqualify them from sitting in the House of Commons.

RED-VOTING WAITER CAN'T BE DISMISSED

HANAU, Germany (AP)—A labor court has ruled that the U.S. army cannot fire a German waiter because he voted Communist 14 years ago. Heinrich Larwig was fired after admitting to a U.S. counter-intelligence agent following a lie detector test that he had voted for the Communists in a state election in 1946.

IF MEMOIRS TRUE

Lawyer May Quit Eichmann Case

BONN, Germany (UPI)—German attorney, Robert Servatius, said today he may drop the defence of Adolf Eichmann if he determines that the memoirs printed in U.S. magazine are genuinely those of the ex-Nazi.

Servatius recently returned to West Germany from Israel where he conferred with Eichmann who is being held for trial in connection with the mass execution of 6,000,000 Jews by the Nazis in the Second World War.

If the memoirs, currently appearing in Life magazine, are true, Servatius told United Press international, any defence of Eichmann "would be a waste of time."

Eichmann, according to the memoirs, said he had no regret for what he did and even if 10,000,000 Jews had been killed he would have viewed this merely as the destruction of an enemy.

"My hair stood on end when I read this," Servatius said.

Servatius said he would ask Eichmann's brother, Robert, who lives in Linz, Austria, if the memoirs are indeed genuine.

If so, he said, "I will give up the defence on the spot."

Eichmann, as specialist for "Jewish Affairs" under Adolf Hitler, is reputed to have established the campaign of extermination of Jews.

He escaped after the Second World War but Israeli agents found him in Argentina and spirited him out of the country to Israel where he has been held in a secret jail while the government prepares the case against him.

Good Week For Live City Shows

This week's live entertainment schedule in Victoria offers two choral concerts, a play and a fine arts festival.

At 8.15 tonight at Holyrood House, the Barclay Singers will present a Scottish concert. Guest artists are Eunice Dockree, contralto; John Dunbar, baritone; Judy Kirby and Anita May London, sopranos; accordionist Ronnie Chisholm, and Adeline Duncan Highland dancers.

Mrs. Vera Barclay conducts the ensemble with James Saunders at the piano.

Starting at the same time in First United Church Fellowship Hall, Arion Male Voice Choir with Peggy Walton Packard as guest artist will be heard in concert. The choir is under the conductorship of Frank Tupman.

THREE NIGHTS

The comedy, "Lover's Leap," is set for a three-night run at St. Luke's Parish Hall, starting Thursday at 8.15.

St. Luke's Players plan to enter the production in the 1961 Dominion Drama Festival. In the cast are Evanne Murray, Barbara Grant, Bernie Wachter, John Drean and Francois Cederquest.

STUDENTS PERFORM

At Victoria High School Friday and Saturday, students will present choral, vocal and instrumental, solo, band, orchestra and dramatic numbers in a "Festival of Fine Arts."

In addition there will be an exhibition of paintings from Mrs. Frances Cameron's art classes to be seen in the hall and Room 205 before the 8 p.m. concert time and during intermission.

Radioactivity Drops

LONDON (Reuters) — The British Atomic Energy Authority today reported the concentration of radioactivity in the air and rain dropped significantly from its peak in 1959. The report was based on samples gathered by the RAF.

MONTREAL CHIEF QUITS

MONTREAL (UPI)—Police Director J. Albert Langlois today turned in his resignation in the face of mounting criticism of police handling of a crime wave.

His resignation, apparently under pressure from Mayor Jean Drapeau's administration, was turned in at a time when the city is experiencing one of Canada's worst crime waves. Mayor Drapeau flew to Europe last week and arranged to hire a Scotland Yard expert and a former director of the Paris police prefecture to reorganize the force.

'A Travesty of Justice' Charged by Commissioner

LONDON TRAIN ROBBERS BAG TREMENDOUS HAUL

LONDON (Reuters) — Train robbers are believed to have netted thousands of pounds when they raided a train bound for London from the south coast Tuesday night.

The gang bound and gagged a guard when the train halted at a light—believed to have been short-circuited by accomplices to make it red—and flung out mailbags on the track.

Police were investigating the possibility the raiders might have been the same three masked men who overpowered the guard of another south coast express train in August and got away with £9,000 and again stole thousands of pounds on the same run in September.

'FAVORS COMPANIES'

Rail Union Blasts Gov't On Strike Ban

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief railway union spokesman Frank H. Hall charged today that the government has taken the side of the railways in outlawing a nation-wide railway strike until May 15.

"The legislation would be less one-sided if provision had been made for some interim wage increase," Mr. Hall told a press conference.

"Will a strike next May or June, if such a course has to be followed, be more palatable to the government then than now?"

But he left the question of a possible May 16 railway work stoppage up in the air until the non-operating unions' negotiating team has met.

Mr. Hall called the government's legislation—introduced in the Commons Tuesday night after last-ditch talks failed to avert next Saturday's strike threat—"a most extraordinary measure."

"Attempt to rationalize it as they may, the fact cannot be obscured that the government has taken sides in the dispute between the railways and the unions—on the side of the railways."

SEES LOYALTY HURT

The effect of the legislation "will be to undermine the loyalty of the employees and their confidence" in the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act, which permits a strike after negotiating and conciliation fails to achieve a settlement.

"The railway operation continuation act, if enacted, will bring a legacy and disillusionment and bitterness which may never be eradicated," he said.

"It is obvious that if the railways felt confident that they would be salvaged when the chips were down, they didn't need to make a wage offer or any concession whatever."

With time running out before the Saturday deadline for the work stoppage, Labor Minister Starr introduced in the Commons a tight, seven-clause act to shunt the railway crisis ahead to May 15. Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the legislation will "prevent" the strike.

The government brought the legislation before Parliament less than four hours after last-ditch emergency negotiations between railway and union leaders collapsed without any agreement on the multi-million-dollar wage dispute.

The legislation, "an act to provide for the continuation of

Per onist Revolts Crushed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Peronist revolts flared today in the industrial city of Rosario and in two oil towns in northern Argentina, but the government declared all three were crushed.

Retired army officers who had served under ousted dictator Juan D. Peron and a band of armed civilians tried to storm an army barracks at Rosario, northwest of Buenos Aires.

An army communique said they were repulsed after killing three of the Rosario garrison and fled, leaving behind one of their dead, a retired colonel who served as aide to one of Peron's military chiefs. Other accounts put the casualties at 10 dead and 50 wounded.

The communique said 33 persons were arrested.

Shortly after the four-hour skirmish at Rosario, supporters of Peron struck at the oil field towns of Tartagal and Vespucio, in remote northern Argentina near the Bolivian frontier.

Government sources said the rebels took over the airport and a police station at Tartagal, but army troops had no trouble recapturing the positions.

At Vespucio, 20 miles south of Tartagal, the rebels were said to have occupied oil installations and offices of the state oil monopoly, but government circles said the insurgents were put down and the situation was in hand throughout the country.

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) —The army tightened its grip on Caracas today with a purge of police units in the worker's districts rocked by street rioting earlier this week.

(See page 13)

LAMONT, Alta. (CP) — Death toll in the collision here Tuesday of a school bus and a freight train rose to 17 early today with the death in hospital of a 17-year-old girl who suffered severe brain injuries.

She was Bernadette Hayduck, 17, of Chipman.

Fifteen were killed outright, another died previously in hospital.

In a repared statement, Dr. Morley Young, administrator of the Archer Memorial Hospital, said 17 of the 25 students injured in the crash were "definitely better."

Six of these suffered only minor injuries and would be released from hospital today or Thursday. Seven remained in serious condition. Some were described as "on the brink of death."

The school bus, smashed to pieces by a fast-moving freight train, was carrying 41 students to Lamont High School from Chipman, 10 miles southeast, when it was struck broadside as it crossed the Canadian National Railways' tracks within sight of the school.

A SENTIMENTAL 86 TODAY

HIGH AND HUMBLE REMEMBER

Churchill's Birthday Hailed Around World

LONDON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill confounded his doctors today by getting up to celebrate his 86th birthday—a sentimental event that was being hailed around the world.

Announcing that his famous patient was rising from his invalid's bed, Lord Moran, one of Churchill's doctors, told reporters:

"He's getting on very well. He's getting up for lunch, but whether he stays up for the rest of the day depends on how he feels."

It was only 15 days ago that Britain's wartime leader tripped over a rug in his bedroom and fractured a small bone in his back.

JUNK MAN CALLS

Friends and admirers, the high and the humble from all over the earth sent greetings and gifts to the 86-year-old statesman.

Hyde Park Gate, the quiet little dead-end street on which he lives, was jammed with traffic.

They came from Queen Elizabeth, prime ministers, foreign rulers, potentates, old friends, little children — and even junk man Chris Shephard, who drove his horse and cart to Churchill's door to offer good wishes.

First callers at his home were three neighbors, a girl of 11, her seven-year-old sister and a boy of five. The girls gave a bunch of violets to Churchill's maid and the boy handed over a greeting card.

Over his customary breakfast-in-bed he was able to dip into an avalanche of cables and mail — including the unfailing affectionate message from Queen Elizabeth and the warm greetings of his old friend, President Eisenhower.

Crowned by a "horn of plenty," the cake virtually is Churchill's life in a panorama of icing. Almost every symbol connected with his distinguished career flows out of the enormous horn in pink and white icing. Prominent, of course, is a gigantic cigar — even to a glowing end and realistic gold band.

Haddock Tells His Story On Arena Fight

. . . 'take them all back'

Victoria's smoldering Arena-management debate erupted once more today with a blistering, 1,600-word statement by Commissioner Courtney Haddock, charging his fellow commissioners with "completely shocking and grossly unfair" treatment of six recently-resigned employees.

The six, headed by office manager Kenneth Noakes, quit their jobs six weeks ago in protest over conduct of Arena affairs by manager Joe Dukowski, who subsequently submitted his resignation to the commission.

Mr. Haddock, who tendered his resignation last Wednesday and then asked that it be withheld on the assurance that "the separated six" would be treated fairly, made it clear in his statement today that this meant the re-hiring of Noakes and five others.

His statement today, however, did not constitute a resignation.

"Once this is cleaned up," he declared — "and I shall not give in until it is—I hope never to be involved in civic matters again, other than those which concern my own business."

(Mr. Haddock, a director of Woodward's Stores, is also president of the Royal Jubilee Hospital Board.)

'Had No Choice But to Resign'

For the first time publicly, Mr. Haddock indicated that Dukowski had resigned because "he had no other choice," and criticized the commission for not making the resignation effective immediately, with appropriate severance pay.

"I find myself at complete odds with my fellow commissioners," Mr. Haddock stated. "(They) are, I feel, doing a grave injustice to our employees and especially to Mr. Ken Noakes, the office manager, with 11 years of good and faithful service and extremely long hours of work."

He described the "severe reprimand" to Dukowski previously announced by commission chairman Frank Mulliner, as "sheer nonsense."

After reviewing the history of emergency meetings, he said that the "gross unfairness" being meted out to the employees "offends every fibre of fairness I possess."

Mr. Haddock suggested further that, had the employees been members of a labor union, "they would never have received such treatment," and added: "I am sitting with management and I am ashamed."

Full Text of Haddock's Statement

November 28, 1960.

I feel it is now time to speak!

As an arena commissioner (incidentally, I did not seek the job), I feel one's duty is to see to the best interests of the arena, the net revenue, the customers, the physical plant, and as important as any, the welfare of our staff.

The treatment being given to six loyal and conscientious employees with years of service is, in my opinion, completely shocking and grossly unfair, to say the least.

The only sin committed by these employees is to bring to the attention of the commission, intolerable conditions of management.

I feel as one of the commissioners responsible to the city for the affairs of the arena, we should be extremely grateful to our staff for the course they have taken in bringing these to our attention. This was the only course they could take.

I have no wish to pile further coals on our arena manager. He has resigned and in my opinion rightly so, as under the circumstances he had no other choice, but I feel his resignation should be effective immediately, with three months' severance pay or more if necessary, to give an opportunity for his re-establishment elsewhere.

We should then reinstate our experienced employees who are most capable and able to carry on with a "tight ship" until a new manager is appointed.

Here I find myself at complete odds with my fellow commissioners, who are, I feel, doing grave injustice to our employees, and especially to Mr. Ken Noakes, the office manager, with 11 years of good and faithful service and extremely long hours of work.

Right from the beginning I have been urging my colleagues to call our employees in and at least listen to their problems — that, I think, is simple basic justice.

This they have stubbornly and consistently refused to do — why; I cannot for the life of me understand.

'I Had Only Heard Half the Story'

We held a meeting with the Manager for a report, after which the Commission's reaction was to accept his story en tot, cast our employees adrift without a hearing, and carry on after a severe (??) reprimand to the Manager.

This was sheer nonsense, for rather than the Chairman speaking in the strong emphatic terms required in such a situation, words were read by our City Manager in his characteristic quiet and courtly manner, which meant little or nothing to the recipient.

Here again I was forced to

Arena Row Election Issue?

Memorial Arena Commission today came under fire from two new sources as the controversy began shaping up into a possible civic election issue.

At the same time, commission member W. D. Osborn denied a report that he had said one of the six former arena employees would be sacrificed to save face for the commission.

The bombardment of the commission was opened by aldermanic candidates Charles Nelles and Alfred Toone.

Mr. Nelles blamed the commission for the "ugly situation" and said city council had to accept part of the responsibility.

NEED TROUBLE SHOOTER

He called for appointment of a special trouble shooter to take over the arena's administration until the situation is cleared up.

"BANKRUPT NOTION"

Mr. Nelles also charged it was a "bankrupt notion" to feel arena manager Joe Dukowski is irreplaceable. He said the three-month delay in Mr. Dukowski's resignation "compounds the agony."

Mr. Toone backed the stand of commissioner Courtney Haddock and called for immediate reinstatement of the six former employees.

STATEMENT DENIED

Mr. Osborn said a statement by former chief cashier Mrs. Pat Read that he had said office manager Kenneth Noakes would not be rehired to save face for the commission and that the others would be brought back only one at a time was not correct.

He denied that he had said Mr. Noakes would be sacrificed and "as I recall the conversation I said it had been my personal hope that all the employees could be taken back although not necessarily all together.

"I did not say they were going to be taken back one by one."

Mr. Osborn said his conversation with Mrs. Read had been lengthy and it appeared some of his statements had been joined together resulting in a misleading impression.

Earlier, Mr. Osborn said some persons who have spoken on Mr. Noakes' behalf "have hurt his cause and have made doubly difficult the duty of the commission in assessing the merits of his being rehired."

CLARIFIES STAND

In a prepared statement to The Times, he amplified his position.

"I wish to comment on the report concerning the arena in yesterday's Times," the statement said:

"I have heard personal pleas of certain ex-employees on behalf of Mr. Noakes and on the strength of it have agreed to a review of his position before the commission.

"My remarks, in agreeing to this review, have been construed as a statement that the

'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

USC Has Helped 6,000

Leaders of the next generation in India are growing up in homes sponsored by the Unitarian Service Committee, beneficiary of the Times' "Children of India" fund.

More than 6,000 youngsters have gone through the USC Natham Children's Home in the huge sub-continent. Employers are snapping them up because their training, literacy and sense of social responsibility make them stand out in a labor market which is drastically short of trained employees.

The sick, the lame, and the hungary of India also will benefit from the Times' fund.

Donations to the fund come from all walks of life, and the most generous are not necessarily the largest.

"Please accept the enclosed small donation for the 'Children of India'," he wrote. "May your drive for funds meet with the success it deserves."

From Kathy Green, at Lake Cowichan, came a letter stating "I am enclosing one dollar for the fund to help the children of India," but in the same envelope came another donation and another letter, obviously written by an adult for a younger brother.

It read: "Here is 10 cents that I would like to give to help the children of India."

Contributions in cash or cheque form may be mailed or delivered in person to the Times offices at 1215 Broad Street or 2631 Douglas Street. Receipts will be given.

EVERY MAN IN NAVY SEEMED READY TO GO 'DOWN UNDER'

Seventeen Victoria sailors, hand-picked by a demanding naval board, form the first large contingent to enter training for service in the RCN submarine which is to be based at Esquimalt next year. They are at the United States training school in New London, Conn., where their boat, HMCS Grilse, is fitting out. The men were chosen by a careful screening process from among scores of applicants—it seems every man in the navy wants submarine service. All have excellent general records, clean sheets in the conduct department, and have shown special aptitudes suited to the underwater service. They also survived rigid physical and mental examinations. The 17 will join Grilse when she commissions, probably next March, and bring her around to the Esquimalt base via the Panama Canal. Grilse is a converted Balao class submarine, which served as a picket in the continental defence setup. As a USN boat, she was known as USS Burrfish, and has been loaned to the RCN to serve as target in the deadly game of hide-and-seek played in training for anti-submarine warfare. At present, the Pacific Command depends on visiting U.S. subs for targets. Senior officers have stated that a "sub of our own" will greatly facilitate training for destroyers and frigates on this coast. In training at New London are: CPO Helmut E. Zerbin, 3565 Thistle; CPO Walter W. Arthurs, 891 Cloverdale; CPO Sidney D. Fullerton, 559 Baxter; CPO Edward V. Jones, 1630 Sheridan; PO Kenneth S. MacAdam, 986 Greenridge Crescent; PO Givelin Huzzey, 646 Galiano Crescent; PO William C. Slade, 580 Forward Drive; PO Robert W. Gray, 249 Prevost Street, Belmont Park; PO John Bowcott, 202 Meade Avenue; PO William T. Coldwell, 163 Virago Crescent; PO Douglas H. Gibbard, 4004 Century; LS Frederick C. White, 135 Bushby; LS Robert W. MacPhee, 1226 Lockley; LS Clynton N. Pringle, 587 Tait; LS Donald L. Brown, 250 Baillie; LS Fred J. Button, 401 Davida, and LS William E. Greenfield.

MONTE ROBERTS

It came as a terrible shock to me—as it is bound to come as a terrible shock to you—to learn that British Columbia's Douglas fir trees ain't fitten to be Christmas trees.

The reason?

This analysis comes from a leading marketer of Christmas trees, and it makes my heart bleed.

Think of a young Douglas fir, fighting its way through the moss-and-needle-covered forest floor as a seedling, swaying in the breeze as a yearling, stretching itself toward the sky, a few years later, all of four or five feet tall.

Stretching, though, neither wisely nor well, because the fourth branch down from the top is shorter than the third branch down from the top, and possibly the top branch shoots upward at a 45 degree angle instead of the 30 degrees demanded by conformity.

It is indeed a shock to learn our young Douglas firs, Christmas tree size in height, are non-comformists and thus not fitten to be cut down, strung with baubles and beads, strangled with tinsel, and cremated in a backyard incinerator.

I had hoped—and I am sure you, too, had hoped—for better things for B.C.'s young Douglas fir trees.

Such as conforming to the specifications of the interior decorators who have decided the geometric dimensions of the ideal Christmas tree.

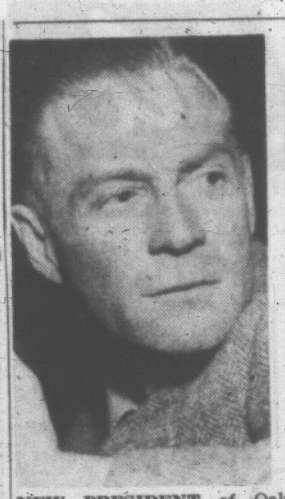
And shucking off the old-fashioned, out-moded pristine green for colors more chic and acceptable, such as silver, blue, orange, and pistacchio.

If your Douglas fir trees wish to have a future in the Christmas tree trade, the least they can do is stop reaching for the sun with eager arms, stop twisting their trunks to squeeze between their larger brothers in the search for a refreshing shower of rain, and concentrate on squishing down into a planned pyramid ideally suited to occupy the corner to the left of the television set.

It is time all youthful Douglas fir trees—like all youth everywhere—learned to conform.

Until that time arrives, Douglas fir trees must face the fact they ain't fitten to be Christmas trees, and I shall follow my usual practice of walking out into the woods somewhere nearby, find the scrawniest, skinniest, loosest-limbed, twisted-trunk character in sight, pick up my axe, wish the scrawny, skinny, loose,limbed, twisted-trunk character a long life and a tall one, put my axe on my shoulder, and go home to a Merry Christmas.

Douglas fir trees ain't the only non-conformists around here.



NEW PRESIDENT of Oak Bay Progressive Conservative Association is W. M. Gage. He succeeds Clarence S. Goode, presented with an engraved desk set at the annual meeting Tuesday. The meeting also passed a resolution pledging help to Esquimalt-Saanich in the byelection there. Other officers elected: Norman Pittam and Mrs. D. C. MacArthur, vice-presidents; T. B. T. Hewett, treasurer and Brenda Taylor, secretary.

BRIDGE CLOSED AS WORKMEN LIFT TRACKS

Johnson Street bridge was closed to eastbound traffic today when city crews began removing the old street car tracks.

Inbound cars will be diverted over the Point Ellice bridge during the two-week project but westbound traffic will be allowed to use Johnson Street bridge throughout the period.

The unused rails were frequently criticized as a traffic hazard during wet weather.

Two Years For Burglary Of City Cafe

Frederick Morry, 21, was sentenced in city police court today to two years in B.C. Penitentiary for the burglary of a Government Street cafe last Thursday.

Two packages of cigarets were taken after a front window pane was smashed and minutes later, Morry, his 21-year-old brother Ronald and 19-year-old Patricia Joseph were charged with breaking, entering and theft at Mai's Cafe, 2251 Government.

The girl was sentenced to jail for two months after she pleaded guilty Tuesday, and Ronald was committed for trial by a higher court when Magistrate William Ostler refused to try the accused on grounds he may have been biased.

In a report carried Tuesday, the Times mistakenly switched identity of the brothers.

Mr. Ostler told Frederick Morry, after hearing his criminal record: "Your previous convictions and sentences don't seem to have done you any good. Your life of crime ... is regrettable."

Cosmopolitan Club: 6.45 p.m. Colonial Inn.

Joint Ceremony For Retiring Phone Officials

Two long service B.C. telephone Co. employees will be honored at a joint retirement ceremony in the Union Club on Friday.

They are John A. Mackintosh, district commercial manager, and Miss Emily Warburton, district traffic chief, who both began their telephone careers here in 1919.

A native Victoria, Mr. Mackintosh joined the company as a clerk and subsequently was appointed salesman, district sales manager and assistant to the district manager. He was promoted to his present position in 1951.

His retirement is effective Thursday.

Miss Warburton comes from Cheshire, Eng. She joined the company as an operator in Victoria and became a supervisor in 1923. Three years later she was appointed chief operator and in 1949 was made district traffic chief in charge of nine exchanges on southern Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands.

She will retire officially on Jan. 1.

Chamber Calls Parley On Appeals Board

VLA CHIEF ASKS LEAVE TO SEEK NOMINATION

Reeve George Chatterton is expected to be a candidate for the Esquimalt-Saanich federal nomination.

It was learned today that Mr. Chatterton has applied for leave of absence from his federal civil service job to contest the byelection. The answer is expected this week.

Mr. Chatterton is director of the Veterans' Land Act under the Department of Veterans' Affairs here. Federal civil servants are not allowed to participate in politics. The reeve has not denied seeking the nomination, but has pointed out repeatedly that he must not violate the civil service regulations.

Big Effort to End 'Parade of Hands'

Possibility of setting up a charitable appeals review board for Greater Victoria will be discussed at a meeting next Wednesday at 8 p.m. called by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in the Chamber's boardroom.

Representatives of interested public organizations have been invited.

The Chamber announcement recalls that a Community Chest survey indicated that Victorians believe there are too many appeals—"a parade of hands"—and that some means of scrutinizing them for "worthiness, financial health and public need" would be welcomed.

The Chamber's proposal is that interested groups might consider it worthwhile to form a board to provide the public with both information and counsel on appeals.

Suggested as members of the proposed board are representatives of the Victoria Labor Council, the Chamber of Commerce, Community Welfare Council and councils of Greater Victoria municipalities. Consideration would also be given to enlarging the scope to include other bodies interested in the project.

Board meetings would be called when necessary to deal with applications and examine them in the light of standards set up by the board. Findings — but not the deliberations — would be made available to all members of the community.

The Chest's survey came up with three possible solutions: a United Appeal, which some organizations refuse to join; legislation in the form of municipal bylaws to control appeals, which brings in the aspect of compulsion and regulation; and a charitable appeals board.

The latter appeared to be the most practical and for several years now it has had a nucleus in the form of the Chamber of Commerce solicitations bureau.

Function of the board would be firstly, to study, review and make recommendations respecting all charitable appeals in Greater Victoria except those conducted by religious organizations, lodges, clubs, or any organization within its own membership.

Secondly, to established as far as possible the worthiness of each suggested appeal for the community in relation to community needs and resources.

TIMING

Thirdly, to make recommendations regarding the spacing, or timing, of campaigns to make sure they do not overlap nor occur to frequently.

The board would rely on public opinion rather than on legislation for acceptance of its recommendations. Its findings would be made public — whether it endorses an appeal or not.

But even if an appeal does not have the board's backing, members of the public will be free to make up their own minds whether they want to contribute or not.

"The public indicated it was interested in this and wanted something along these lines," a spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce said. "It is therefore up to the public if this works, or not."

GROOS EXPLANATION

'I Have Friends In All Parties'

Capt. David Groos, newly-nominated Liberal candidate for the federal Esquimalt-Saanich riding, today cleared up reports that he had previously taken out a membership card in the Progressive Conservative party.

He made it plain that in embarking on a career in public life he had studied all parties and was convinced that the Liberals offered the best future for Canada.

'GOOD FRIENDS'

Capt. Groos made this statement on the matter:

"I am glad this has come up now because it gives me a chance of saying that I think I have good friends in all parties.

"I did go to a provincial Conservative nominating convention with my wife at the request of one of my friends who was a candidate; he was not successful, however, in gaining the nomination.

RECEIVED CARD

"I do not regret going to the meeting at all, it was part of my political education.

"In order to go and vote for my friend at the meeting I did receive a card.

"I subsequently went to a Social Credit meeting and a Liberal meeting, still with a view to furthering my political enducation.

"I enjoyed them all.

"I think it should be understood that I have just left the navy, where no one has a right to take an active part in politics.

"I have always been interested in public affairs and it was only natural that after leaving the service I should study the policies of all parties.

"I have done so and have confirmed my belief that the Liberal party offers the best platform and the best men for Canada, though I respect those who belong to other parties and will welcome their support."

Former City Lumber Head Dead at 71

Well-known city sportsman and lumberman William Harris Munsie, 1008 Johnston Street, died suddenly Tuesday. He was 71.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Hayward's.

Mr. Munsie, born in Victoria, owned and operated the former Shawnigan Lake Lumber Co. Ltd. for 26 years when it comprised the retail outlet on Government and a mill at Shawnigan Lake.

He took it over in 1910 on the death of his father, William McG., who had established the firm.

Mr. Munsie managed the firm until 1936 when he retired and sold it to the former H. R. McMillan Exporting Co.

A Mason, Mr. Munsie also served several years as president of the B.C. Agricultural Association during the 1920s. He was a member of Hoo Hoo, the international lumbermen's fraternity.

During his retirement, Mr. Munsie was an active fishing and hunting enthusiast and dog fancier.

He married the former Caroline C. Halmann of Nebraska in 1913. She died in 1952.

Mr. Munsie is survived by: Two sons, John W., Princeton, B.C., and C. Harris, Toronto; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Sails, Victoria; four sisters, Mrs. Laura Wilkerson and Mrs. E. J. Cameron, of Vancouver, and Mrs. W. S. Day and Mrs. Hugh Barrett, of Kelowna, and 14 grandchildren.

IT'S 'HYDROCONIC'

Powerful New Tug To Join City Fleet

A powerful new tug, with a unique hull design, will join the fleet of Island Tug and Barge Ltd., Victoria and Vancouver, early in January.

She is the 97-foot, British-built, steel-hulled diesel Island Mariner — the second of that name in the ITB fleet.

The tug has a specially designed hull described by the coined word "hydroconic," intended specifically to increase the towing power of the vessel.

She is powered by twin diesels rated to give her 1,200 shaft horsepower, but her owners expect her productive power will be greater because of the hull design.

She was built at Appledore, Devon, by P. K. Harris and Sons, two of whose engineers are aboard the tug on the Atlantic crossing.

PICK UP TOW

Island Mariner will stop at New York to pick up a barge to be towed through the Panama Canal to Vancouver.

The first tug to bear the Mariner name, the former Madge, was built in 1907, scrapped this year.

The new tug joins a fleet of 19 tugs (seven of them deep-sea) and more than 100 barges, scows and derricks.

At present two of the deep-sea tugs are far out in the Pacific. Sudbury II is West of Hawaii, bound for San Francisco with two tanker mid-sections fabricated in Japan. Cambrian Salvor is headed in the opposite direction with two Liberty ships bound for the shipbreakers.

Capt. Harley Blagborne reported by radiophone Tuesday night that he had ridden out a gale that blew him from north to south through the Hawaiian Islands chain. He said a U.S. tug had been parted from her tow of two barges in the storm, and one of the barges is believed to have capsized.

SHOPPING GUIDE

By PENNY SAVER

Most women will agree that shopping for the menfolk of the family is not the easiest assignment—especially when the budget is limited! Here are a few suggestions that may help.

If the man in question is the type who loves to watch a football game or, for any reasons, spends a fair amount of time outdoors during the cold weather, how about one of the pocket hand warmers that are once more gaining popularity? Ones I've seen will fit into a pocket and are about the same size as a package of cigarets. They're simple to operate, working on lighter fuel. One filling will provide heat for 24 hours. There's no flame and the warmer is absolutely safe.

To eliminate smell of lighter fuel in pockets you simply add a few drops of toilet water when fueling. Warmers are in highly-polished nickel plate and come in velveteen bags. They sell at $1.65.

For a man that entertains a great deal try one of the wooden racks that contain four wooden bottle tops and corks. Tops are in the form of a Chelsea pensioner, beef eater and two busbied Guard officers. Sets are imported from England and sell for $2.50.

Men that love to smoke a pipe will really appreciate one from London, Eng. These are briars and come in 12 different shapes. Pipes are a product of a well-known British firm and are an exceptional buy at this price. They sell at $1.50 each.

Along with the pipe, give him one of the elegant table lighters that sell at $5 and have a 10-year guarantee. You'll appreciate this gift as much as he does! Chunky, oblong lighters are about 2½ inches in length and have an ornamental medallion on one side, highlighted with either mother of pearl or with colored stones and rhinestones. A little out of the ordinary, lighters operate by pushing medallion.

Pioneer Girls' Week

Central Baptist Church Pioneer Girls' Club, celebrated national pioneer girls' week by taking part in the evening church service and in holding a badge presentation and sample pioneer girls' meeting, last week. Parents and prayer partner pals were special guests.

The club was organized in 1941 and has a four-fold goal: To help girls grow and mature spiritually; to train them for Christian leadership; to help them develop well-rounded personalities by learning skills in home-making, crafts and sports and to win them to Christ. Program is carried out in weekly group meetings, special events, craft projects, summer camp and a pal-girl relationship.

Evangelical churches of 30 different denominations sponsor the clubs in their various churches and there are now 60,000 girls and nearly 2,000 clubs in Canada and the United States.

Most of our Christmas dishes have come to us from other countries; but this recipe for Christmas pie is unique. It's intriguingly different and yet it has a traditionally festive appearance.

Pie With Festive Holiday Theme

For most people, including mother—even though she's apt to be fagged out by all the preparations — Christmas is about the most exciting time of year. And Christmas dinner with its sumptuous array of good things to eat is certainly the feast of the year.

So, today we are going to give you a recipe for an interesting, quite different, festive dessert. Christmas pie is the name o. the dish, but it is somewhat of a misnomer since it is as much a cake as a pie.

As the pie bakes, some of the mincemeat sauce runs through the batter. For an added decorative touch, sprinkle some sifted sugar icing around the edge of the pie and deck it with a sprig of holly.

CHRISTMAS PIE

Pie paste, 1 cup mincemeat, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, ½ cup orange juice, 1 cup once-sifted all-purpose flour or 1¼ cups once-sifted pastry flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon grated nutmeg, ⅓ cup shortening, ½ cup lightly-packed brown sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Combine in a saucepan the mincemeat, orange rind and juice; bring to the boil then reduce heat and simmer 1 minute. Cool.

Preheat oven to 350 deg. F. (moderate).

Meantime, sift together twice the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg. Cream shortening; gradually blend in sugar. Add egg and beat it in well. Combine milk and vanilla. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture, part at a time, alternating with milk. Turn into prepared pie shell and spread evenly. Carefully spread warm mincemeat mixture over batter. Bake in preheated oven 45 to 50 minutes. Serve warm with a lemon, brown sugar or brandy sauce. Yield—6 to 8 servings.

. . . HAADOCK TELLS HIS STORY

protest. The meeting was at the call of the chair and no minutes were being kept. The result was the meeting was called a "conference," the plan thus to give the Manager three months' probation and not hear the employees at all.

This was too much for me, because we had only heard half the story—the Manager's half and I asked the Manager in front of the Commissioners, if he had any objection to our hearing the employees. He had none.

My point was that six employees do not resign much-needed jobs in protest unless for serious cause.

However, my colleages still refused to take the initiative and call them in.

The staff, on good advice, sought legal counsel in order to persuade the Commission to hear their story. As it turned out the possibility of libel was involved and they very wisely sought counsel. This resulted in another hurry-up meeting, held in "conference" in the private office of one of the appointed advisers on the Commission.

Our Commissioners now agreed to meet our employees, but expected to lay down the rules by meeting them just one by one. Again I protested such kangaroo court procedure, and walked out in anger and disgust.

One of my colleagues followed me out and persuaded me to return, which I did, hopeful that once the Commission heard the employees' side of the affair they would surely do no less than see justice was done and refuse to accept the protest resignations, reinstate them in their jobs en bloc and carry on with the administration of the Arena office (a very complicated operation) and advertise for a new Manager.

A meeting was finally arranged to meet Mr. Pearlman and our staff (but not one by one) and I particularly urged our Chairman to invite Aldman Ramsay and Alderman Dowell to sit in as observers —this of course he did not do.

The statements of the employees and the results of the meeting, plus the admission of the manager, reflect sad discredit on arena management and commission alike.

After the employees and Mr. Pearlman left the meeting, the commission carried on until almost midnight.

We were at a stalemate. I still would not and could not in all conscience agree to the casting adrift of our employees, Mr. Noakes in particular, for doing what in my opinion, was only the right thing.

It was decided to adjourn till 9 a.m. Monday morning.

This was the meeting where I finally gave up and resigned after a motion was passed (my amendment was not seconded) to accept the manager's resignation not to be effective for three months, and put the arena employees to the indignity of reapplying for their jobs along with other applicants, and let them take their chances.

'Too Much for Me'

What a travesty of justice!

This was too much for me so after approximately 13 minutes (so I am told), I resigned and walked out.

I was accused of calling my colleagues "a bunch of nuts." They insisted on recording this in the minutes, not that I mind because I believe a famous American general was quoted as saying approximately the same thing and to good effect.

My expression was of course in essence, directed to their judgment and decisions, nothing more, as I have nothing personal against my colleagues whom I consider honorable men with faulty judgment.

It was my intention, as noted in the press, to present my resignation to city council last Thursday with my reasons for such. I may not have been heard, I don't know, but I am confident there must be some level in civic affairs where the arena office staff can receive simple justice even if it is a citizen's court of indignant public opinion.

I have never professed to be a saint or paragon of virtue, or knight in shining armor—far from it, but the gross unfairness being meted out to these people who still haven't got their jobs back, and are losing their wages every day this carries on, offends every fibre of fairness I possess and I have felt rather lonely these last six weeks.

Quick Meeting

Before my planned appearance at city council Thursday, a quick meeting was called for on Wednesday for that evening. This included all the commission plus five city aldermen.

The chair was taken by the vice-chairman who in effect almost gave an ultimatum to the councillors that they had better express confidence in the commission or the commission would all resign.

I felt a little sorry for the council members as they had to choose between supporting two old friends and colleagues formerly on council and what they felt might be resulting chaos.

My fellow commissioners main argument for keeping the Arena manager another three months is because he is also business manager (local affairs only) of the Cougar Hockey Club, and therefore Mr. Piggott of Saskatoon must be consulted.

'Incompetency'

The way the Arena manager has handled the season ticket holders' promotion and his refusal to engage Mrs. Wallis with consequent sag in the maximum promotion of this important factor in hockey ticket sales is indicative to me of further incompetency, and I submit that Mr. Piggott, the good businessman he is, would have very strong views on the plan my colleagues have of retaining the manager another three months, in fact any longer than necessary. A telephone call would, I am sure, confirm this very promptly.

After a long dragged-out discussion and on the request of those present I agreed to withhold my resignation on the assurance the employees would be treated fairly, which means to my mind, getting their jobs back.

In all fairness there was at least one commissioner who refused to include Mr. Noakes in this arrangement, and this commissioner apparently has the principal voice in the employment or re-employment of staff.

Not Surprised

I was greatly disappointed, but not surprised, but I felt I had gained a little ground at least in the agreement to take the girls back, and I certainly exhibited a willingness to cooperate with not only the commission, but those aldermen present and I felt that most surely the injustice to Mr. Noakes would be picked up by many hands stronger and possibly more competent than mine.

I feel the city council was very kind in expressing confidence in the commission, and I am sure they did this in the hope we would be able to settle our own affairs. However, I feel their confidence has been sadly misplaced.

They are impressed with the profit picture of the Arena over the years and attribute most of the credit for this to the manager.

I cannot accept this, as there is no "one man show" of this nature in my opinion.

Higher Profits

I am also not satisfied, but that the profits could not have been a great deal higher had a little more good will of "give and take" been established with regular users and prospective clients of the arena, but the unhappy point, even so, is that important members of our staff have not had a salary increase in eight years, and the increment of our manager is equivalent over the average of almost 20 per cent of our total profits.

I cannot understand how we collected such a loyal and efficient staff. I think they are better than we deserve, for had these employees been associated with a labor union, they would never have received such treatment, in this instance. I am sitting with management and I am ashamed.

I can say this in conclusion that once this is cleaned up, and I shall not give in until it is, I hope never to involve in civic matters again, other than that which concerns my own business.

Not Worth It

I think I am beginning to see the light. It's not worth it.

Some of the points that have so aroused me other than the poor treatment of our staff by the commission:

1. The instructions by the arena manager to the staff that if any one of them allows a commissioner into the arena he would be fired.

2. A statement made to his staff by the manager, that he the manager, has never been dictated to by a commission and he "doesn't intend to have this start now."

3. His disobedience in not granting increases in salaries to our staff when instructed to do so by the commission last March.

4. His disobedience in keeping his family on staff for two to three weeks, possibly longer, after instructions to discharge them.

5. For the above reasons alone, exclusive of the other more unethical aspects of management, nothing but prompt and immediate severance is called for.

6. And, finally, the completely unsound plan of keeping a manager who is leaving and engaging a new man without the support of our experienced office manager, Mr. Noakes. As a taxpayer, I object.

In conclusion, I may have made some bad friends in certain quarters in the city. If so, then I am very sorry. But if one is to choose between being liked and being respected, then I must choose the latter, because if I had not stood firm on this issue I could not respect myself.

commission had been willing to sacrifice Mr. Noakes to save face.

"Nothing could be further from the truth.

"Let us review the situation. Certain employees have resigned their positions without requesting a prior hearing by the commission. None of these people had been censured; not one was dismissed.

HINDERED

"The commission has been greatly hindered in performing its duty to the public by this sudden exodus of the arena staff at the peak of the season.

"It must be clear to all thoughtful citizens that the rehiring of former employees must be considered with scrupulous fairness to all concerned."

Mr. Nelles said he had studied the issue and talked to most of the persons concerned.

"The present ugly situation was caused by the commission leaving far too many decisions to Mr. Dukowski," he said. He said the commission was made of honorable men who donated their time.

"But aside from these qualifications, it is hard to see why some of them were appointed by city council and it is probably right to say that council must also share the blame.

MISMANAGEMENT

"Typical of the mismanagement that has gone on is the conflict of interests faced by Mr. Dukowski in working actively for the Cougars and the Ice Capades as well as for the Arena itself.

Mr. Nelles said the commission apparently condoned this situation if not actually encouraging it.

ASSET SQUANDERED

"This may have improved Mr. Dukowski's take-home pay and it may have been a great help to the two private enterprises mentioned but it also squandered a city asset. By leaving all the show business to one man, unsupervised, I feel that the stage was set for what has happened."

He said the commission should have asked council for additional men on the board or else they should have enlarged the employee staff.

"The arena situation has reached an explosive point. It can only be cured by council appointing somebody to clear it up."

Mr. Nelles said there was no need for an expensive investigation, just an improvement in personnel methods.

"The arena is a living, breathing asset and needs careful nursing through its trouble, not an autopsy," he said.

AGONY COMPOUNDED

"That Mr. Dukowski is irreplaceable is a bankrupt notion. That he must stay on the job for another three months simply compounds the agony.

"I am sure that the arena can be set back on its feet quite quickly and become at last the outstanding city property that taxpayers were promised.

"This will happen when council faces up to its job. If I am elected on Dec. 8, this will be my first objective."

Mr. Toone said the manner in which the commission had handled the issue had reached "a ridiculous stage."

He felt council should not normally interfere with the commission.

"But once it was known something was wrong, city council should have demanded a full report on the matter to clear it up.

"This is the people's business. They have a right to know the problem and to have the matter cleared up in a businesslike fashion.

"I believe Mr. Haddock is right in the stand he has taken and the commission should reinstate the employees now or state why not. I venture that if the employees had been members of a trade union organization this matter would not have been dragged around as it has."

Mr. Toone said the whole situation pointed up the need of closer liaison between the commission and council "and the need for labor members on such commissions and boards"

"However, the important thing right now is to get the arena business back on the track. This means reinstatement of the employees and a full report to city council. That does not include the manager, whose resignation I understand has been accepted."

OPPOSITION WILL HELP

Opposition parties have agreed to "facilitate" parliamentary consideration of the bill, but they may blast the government for stalling the strike of some 111,000 non-operating rail workers without settling the wage dispute.

The Liberals have contended the government should enforce a solution on the basis of a 14-cent hourly increase awarded by a conciliation board, a plan the railways say would cost them $34,000,000 a year at the end of the proposed two-year contract.

CCF Leader Argue has called for an interim subsidy to the railways so they could meet the wage bill.

Meanwhile, the railways are lifting a national embargo on shipments of livestock, poultry and perishable goods.

Liberals Seek to Block Rail Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals today sought to block in the Commons the government's bill to prevent a nation-wide railway strike, saying it smacks of "a compulsory and discriminatory wage freeze for railway employees."

Liberal Leader Pearson proposed an amendment to the government legislation that would halt Commons consideration of it at the second-reading stage-approval in principle.

U.S. Twin Satellite Shot Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A U.S. attempt to fire a pair of "big and little brother" navigational aid satellites into an orbit around earth failed today, the air force said.

Maroons Tie Moscow Spartak, 3-3

MOSCOW (AP)—Chatham Maroons tied Moscow's Spartak hockey team 3-3 in a hard, fast game at the Sports Palace here today. The arena was jammed with 12,000 shouting fans and hundreds waited in vain outside for tickets.

Rail Union Blasts Gov't On Strike Ban

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief railway union spokesman Frank H. Hall charged today that the government has taken the side of the railways in outlawing a nation-wide railway strike until May 15.

"The legislation would be less one-sided if provision had been made for some interim wage increase," Mr. Hall told a press conference.

"Will a strike next May or June, if such a course has to be followed, be more palatable to the government then than now?"

But he left the question of a possible May 16 railway work stoppage up in the air until the non-operating unions' negotiating team has met.

Mr. Hall called the government's legislation—introduced in the Commons Tuesday night after last-ditch talks failed to avert next Saturday's strike threat—"a most extraordinary measure."

"Attempt to rationalize it as they may, the fact cannot be obscured that the government has taken sides in the dispute between the railways and the unions—on the side of the railways."

SEES LOYALTY HURT

The effect of the legislation "will be to undermine the loyalty of the employees and their confidence" in the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act, which permits a strike after negotiating and conciliation fails to achieve a settlement.

"The railway operation continuation act, if enacted, will bring a legacy of disillusionment and bitterness which may never be eradicated," he said.

"It is obvious that if the railways felt confident that they would be salvaged when the chips were down, they didn't need to make a wage offer or any concession whatever."

(See page 13)

LAMONT, Alta. (CP) — Death toll in the collision here Tuesday of a school bus and a freight train rose to 17 early today with the death in hospital of a 17-year-old girl who suffered severe brain injuries.

She was Bernadette Hayduck, 17, of Chipman.

Fifteen were killed outright, another died previously in hospital.

In a repared statement, Dr. Morley Young, administrator of the Archer Memorial Hospital, said 17 of the 25 students injured in the crash were "definitely better."

Six of these suffered only minor injuries and would be released from hospital today or Thursday. Seven remained in serious condition. Some were described as "on the brink of death."

The school bus, smashed to pieces by a fast-moving freight train, was carrying 41 students to Lamont High School from Chipman, 10 miles southeast, when it was struck broadside as it crossed the Canadian National Railways' tracks within sight of the school.

A SENTIMENTAL 86 TODAY

HIGH AND HUMBLE REMEMBER

Churchill's Birthday Hailed Around World

LONDON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill confounded his doctors today by getting up to celebrate his 86th birthday—a sentimental event that was being hailed around the world.

Announcing that his famous patient was rising from his invalid's bed, Lord Moran, one of Churchill's doctors, told reporters:

"He's getting on very well. He's getting up for lunch, but whether he stays up for the rest of the day depends on how he feels."

It was only 15 days ago that Britain's wartime leader tripped over a rug in his bedroom and fractured a small bone in his back.

JUNK MAN CALLS

Friends and admirers, the high and the humble from all over the earth sent greetings and gifts to the 86-year-old statesman.

Hyde Park Gate, the quiet little dead-end street on which he lives, was jammed with traffic.

They came from Queen Elizabeth, prime ministers, foreign rulers, potentates, old friends, little children — and even junk man Chris Shephard, who drove his horse and cart to Churchill's door to offer good wishes.

First callers at his home were three neighbors, a girl of 11, her seven-year-old sister and a boy of five. The girls gave a bunch of violets to Churchill's maid and the boy handed over a greeting card.

Over his customary breakfast-in-bed he was able to dip into an avalanche of cables and mail — including the unfailing affectionate message from Queen Elizabeth and the warm greetings of his old friend, President Eisenhower.

Crowned by a "horn of plenty," the cake virtually is Churchill's life in a panorama of icing. Almost every symbol connected with his distinguished career flows out of the enormous horn in pink and white icing. Prominent, of course, is a gigantic cigar — even to a glowing end and realistic gold band.

Peronist Revolts Crushed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Peronist revolts flared today in the industrial city of Rosario and in two oil towns in northern Argentina, but the government declared all three were crushed.

Retired army officers who had served under ousted dictator Juan D. Peron and a band of armed civilians tried to storm an army barracks at Rosario, northwest of Buenos Aires.

An army communique said they were repulsed after killing three of the Rosario garrison and fled, leaving behind one of their dead, a retired colonel who served as aide o one of Peron's military chiefs. Other accounts put the casualties at 10 dead and 50 wounded.

The communique said 33 persons were arrested.

Treatment Of Employees 'Shocking'

Victoria's smoldering Arena-management debate erupted once more today with a blistering, 1,600-word statement by Commissioner Courtney Haddock, charging his fellow commissioners with "completely shocking and grossly unfair" treatment of six recently-resigned employees.

The six, headed by office manager Kenneth Noakes, quit their jobs six weeks ago in protest over conduct of Arena affairs by manager Joe Dukowski, who subsequently submitted his resignation to the commission.

Mr. Haddock, who tendered his resignation last Wednesday and then asked that it be withheld on the assurance that "the separated six" would be treated fairly, made it clear in his statement today that this meant the re-hiring of Noakes and five others.

His statement today, however, did not constitute a resignation.

"Once this is cleaned up," he declared — "and I shall not give in until it is—I hope never to be involved in civic matters again, other than those which concern my own business."

(Mr. Haddock, a director of Woodward's Stores, is also president of the Royal Jubilee Hospital Board.)

'Had No Choice But to Resign'

For the first time publicly, Mr. Haddock indicated that Dukowski had resigned because "he had no other choice," and criticized the commission for not making the resignation effective immediately, with appropriate severance pay.

"I find myself at complete odds with my fellow commissioners," Mr. Haddock stated. "(They) are, I feel, doing a grave injustice to our employees and especially to Mr. Ken Noakes, the office manager, with 11 years of good and faithful service and extremely long hours of work."

He described the "severe reprimand" to Dukowski previously announced by commission chairman Frank Mulliner, as "sheer nonsense."

After reviewing the history of emergency meetings, he said that the "gross unfairness" being meted out to the employees "offends every fibre of fairness I possess."

Mr. Haddock suggested further that, had the employees been members of a labor union, "they would never have received such treatment," and added: "I am sitting with management and I am ashamed."

Full Text of Haddock's Statement

November 28, 1960.

I feel it is now time to speak!

As an arena commissioner (incidentally, I did not seek the job), I feel one's duty is to see to the best interests of the arena, the net revenue, the customers, the physical plant, and as important as any, the welfare of our staff.

The treatment being given to six loyal and conscientious employees with years of service is, in my opinion, completely shocking and grossly unfair, to say the least.

The only sin committed by these employees is to bring to the attention of the commission, intolerable conditions of management.

I feel as one of the commissioners responsible to the city for the affairs of the arena, we should be extremely grateful to our staff for the course they have taken in bringing these to our attention. This was the only course they could take.

I have no wish to pile further coals on our arena manager. He has resigned and in my opinion rightly so, as under the circumstances he had no other choice, but I feel his resignation should be effective immediately, with three months' severance pay or more if necessary, to give an opportunity for his re-establishment elsewhere.

We should then reinstate our experienced employees who are most capable and able to carry on with a "tight ship" until a new manager is appointed.

Here I find myself at complete odds with my fellow commissioners, who are, I feel, doing grave injustice to our employees, and especially to Mr. Ken Noakes, the office manager, with 11 years of good and faithful service and extremely long hours of work.

Right from the beginning I have been urging my colleagues to call our employees in and at least listen to their problems — that, I think, is simple basic justice.

This they have stubbornly and consistently refused to do — why, I cannot for the life of me understand.

'I Had Only Heard Half the Story'

We held a meeting with the Manager for a report, after which the Commission's reaction was to accept his story en tot, cast our employees adrift without a hearing, and carry on after a severe (??) reprimand to the Manager.

This was sheer nonsense, for rather than the Chairman speaking in the strong emphatic terms required in such a situation, words were read by our City Manager in his characteristic quiet and courtly manner, which meant little or nothing to the recipient.

Here again I was forced to

Arena Row Election Issue?

Memorial Arena Commission today came under fire from two new sources as the controversy began shaping up into a possible civic election issue.

At the same time, commission member W. D. Osborn denied a report that he had said one of the six former arena employees would be sacrificed to save face for the commission.

The bombardment of the commission was opened by aldermanic candidates Charles Nelles and Alfred Toone.

Mr. Nelles blamed the commission for the "ugly situation" and said city council had to accept part of the responsibility.

NEED TROUBLE SHOOTER

He called for appointment of a special trouble shooter to take over the arena's administration until the situation is cleared up.

Mr. Nelles also charged it was a "bankrupt notion" to feel arena manager Joe Dukowski is irreplaceable. He said the three-month delay in Mr. Dukowski's resignation "compounds the agony."

Mr. Toone backed the stand of commissioner Courtney Haddock and called for immediate reinstatement of the six former employees.

STATEMENT DENIED

Mr. Osborn said a statement by former chief cashier Mrs. Pat Read that he had said office manager Kenneth Noakes would not be rehired to save face for the commission and that the others would be brought back only one at a time was not correct.

He denied that he had said Mr. Noakes would be sacrificed and "as I recall the conversation I said it had been my personal hope that all the employees could be taken back although not necessarily all together.

MISLEADING

"I did not say they were going to be taken back one by one."

Mr. Osborn said his conversation with Mrs. Read had been lengthy and it appeared some of his statements had been joined together resulting in a misleading impression.

Earlier, Mr. Osborn said

'CHILDREN OF INDIA'

USC Has Helped 6,000

Leaders of the next generation in India are growing up in homes sponsored by the Unitarian Service Committee, beneficiary of the Times' "Children of India" fund.

More than 6,000 youngsters have gone through the USC Natham Children's Home in the huge sub-continent. Employers are snapping them up because their training, literacy and sense of social responsibility make them stand out in a labor market which is drastically short of trained employees.

The sick, the lame, and the hungary of India also will benefit from the Times' fund.

Donations to the fund come from all walks of life, and the most generous are not necessarily the largest.

"Please accept the enclosed small donation for the 'Children of India'," he wrote. "May your drive for funds meet with the success it deserves."

PRETORIA (Reuters) — The South African government today closed five districts of Pondoland—scene of eight months of hut-burnings and murders by irate tribesmen — to visitors without special entry permits.

(From Duncan Bureau)

Unemployment in the Cowichan district is up 15 per cent over the same period last year.

Figures released by the Unemployment Insurance Commission office show there are a total of 717 persons out of work, or 546 men and 171 women. A total of 622 persons sought work last year at this time.

Cutbacks in the plywood industry, return of loggers from camps up-Island and on the mainland, and layoff of workers at the Cowichan Lake mine of Cowichan Copper Co. have contributed to the jump in unemployed.

At present only one 45-man shift is working at the plywood veneer plant of B.C. Forest Products at Youbou. This soon will be cut back to 29.

PRICES CUT

Production at B.C. Forest Products Crofton pulp mill continues at a high level but the company has lowered prices on bleached and semi-bleached kraft from $160 and $140 to $150 and $130.

One bright spot in the district is the construction business where a number of projects are either on the drawing boards or underway, and expected to provide employment for a good number of men.

SHOPPING PLAZA

Ground is expected to be broken before the end of the year on a $250,000 shopping plaza, a $25,000 addition to Chemainus General Hospital is planned, and Cowichan School Board will call tenders next month for a junior high school and elementary school costing a total of $350,000.

Projects underway include a dormitory for Queen Margaret's School and a new $225,000 B.C. Telephone Co. automatic exchange building.

Winter works projects in both the municipality of North Cowichan and city of Duncan are also expected to provide employment.

Candidates to Speak

Central Saanich Ratepayers' Association will sponsor a meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at Mount Newton High School, when all nine candidates for Central Saanich reeveship and council will speak.

SASKATCHEWAN Attorney-General Robert Walker today directed Regina lawyer Dr. M. C. Shumiatcher, above, to face trial before judge and jury on 11 counts of counselling perjury in connection with a Saskatchewan securities commission inquiry.

MAYOR CALLED UNDEMOCRATIC

Alderman Quits Alberni Council

ALBERNI—Ald. Fred Bishop, member of the third generation of his family to serve the city, has announced he will not seek re-election to city council in December.

He did not blame year-long strife between Mayor Mabel Anderson and council for his decision, but in a prepared statement he charged the mayor with undemocratic actions.

'MAJORITY RULE'

He said:

"It is difficult to foresee an improvement in the conduct of council business unless there is a return to acceptance of majority rule and an end to improper use of sections of the Municipal Act.

"I am sure the council would support the mayor any time that a worthwhile proposal or leadership were shown. Instead, we have been faced with a negative attitude."

The best interests of the majority of citizens have been blocked, he said.

Ald. Bishop and Mayor Anderson have differed on numerous occasions, and many meetings have featured long arguments over provisions of the Municipal Act and their bearing on council conduct.

Grandson of the first mayor of Alberni, Ald. Bishop has served 10 years as an alderman.

'Vancouver Sitting on Oil'

(Compiled from CP)

VANCOUVER—A small oil refinery operator wants to drill for oil in the heart of downtown Vancouver because, he claims, crude oil is seeping to the surface from under False Creek.

Valentine Mansell of Enterprise Oil Refiners said five barrels of oil a day emerge from the grounds of a steel company which backs into the creek.

The B.C. department of mines and petroleum resources recently had a sample analyzed and found it was bunker fuel, a refined oil used principally by ships, mixed with water, sand and dirt.

On that basis, the department rejected Mansell's application for a permit to explore Greater Vancouver in areas where the government still holds mineral rights.

HALL BURNED DOWN

NELSON — Investigation is being carried out in the cause of a fire which razed a temporary meeting hall for Sons of Freedom at Krestova Sunday. Arson is suspected. RCMP said several persons disrobed around the building. Main meeting hall burned to the ground last spring.

PROTECT INDUSTRY

VANCOUVER — The Vancouver local of the United Steel Workers of America has sent telegrams to Works Minister Walker and all Lower Mainland members of Parliament asking for legislation prohibiting the use of foreign-made steel on public works projects if the product is made domestically. The union announced it is concerned about steel for the multi-million dollar Columbia River project.

HIGHER SPEED URGED

VANCOUVER — Vancouver's rush-hour traffic congestion would be eased considerably by more police direction and a 35-mile-an-hour speed limit on main streets.

This is the opinion of city engineers, police and the B.C. Electric after a lengthy study of transit problems at the request of city council.

A special council committee presented the recommendations Tuesday. The report said raising of the speed limit would be of limited help in speeding bus service, because of loading stops, but would be desirable for other traffic.

MEETING POSTPONED

NELSON — Meeting of Minister of Lands and Forests Williston and the Nelson Chamber of Commerce Columbia Development Committee has been postponed. The meeting was tentatively scheduled for Dec. 9. The High Arrow Dam proposal will be the topic of the "confidential, private, round table discussion."

. . . HADDOCK TELLS HIS STORY

protest. The meeting was at the call of the chair and no minutes were being kept. The result was the meeting was called a "conference," the plan thus to give the Manager three months' probation and not hear the employees at all.

This was too much for me, because we had only heard half the story—the Manager's half and I asked the Manager in front of the Commissioners, if he had any objection to our hearing the employees. He had none.

My point was that six employees do not resign much-needed jobs in protest unless for serious cause.

However, my colleagues still refused to take the initiative and call them in.

The staff, on good advice, sought legal counsel in order to persuade the Commission to hear their story. As it turned out the possibility of libel was involved and they very wisely sought counsel. This resulted in another hurry-up meeting, held in "conference" in the private office of one of the appointed advisers on the Commission.

Our Commissioners now agreed to meet our employees, but expected to lay down the rules by meeting them just one by one. Again I protested such kangaroo court procedure, and walked out in anger and disgust.

One of my colleagues followed me out and persuaded me to return, which I did, hopeful that once the Commission heard the employees' side of the affair they would surely do no less than see justice was done and refuse to accept the protest resignations, reinstate them in their jobs en bloc and carry on with the administration of the Arena office (a very complicated operation) and advertise for a new Manager.

A meeting was finally arranged to meet Mr. Pearlman and our staff (but not one by one) and I particularly urged our Chairman to invite Alderman Ramsay and Alderman Dowell to sit in as observers —this of course he did not do.

The statements of the employees and the results of the meeting, plus the admission of the manager, reflect sad discredit on arena management and commission alike.

After the employees and Mr. Pearlman left the meeting, the commission carried on until almost midnight.

We were at a stalemate. I still would not and could not in all conscience agree to the casting adrift of our employees, Mr. Noakes in particular, for doing what in my opinion, was only the right thing.

It was decided to adjourn till 9 a.m. Monday morning.

This was the meeting where I finally gave up and resigned after a motion was passed (my amendment was not seconded) to accept the manager's resignation not to be effective for three months, and put the arena employees to the indignity of reapplying for their jobs along with other applicants, and let them take their chances.

'Too Much for Me'

What a travesty of justice! This was too much for me so after approximately 13 minutes (so I am told), I resigned and walked out.

I was accused of calling my colleagues "a bunch of nuts." They insisted on recording this in the minutes, not that I mind because I believe a famous American general was quoted as saying approximately the same thing and to good effect.

My expression was of course in essence, directed to their judgment and decisions, nothing more, as I have nothing personal against my colleagues whom I consider honorable men with faulty judgment.

It was my intention, as noted in the press, to present my resignation to city council last Thursday with my reasons for such. I may not have been heard, I don't know, but I am confident there must be some level in civic affairs where the arena office staff can receive simple justice even if it is a citizen's court of indignant public opinion.

I have never professed to be a saint or paragon of virtue, or knight in shining armor—far from it, but the gross unfairness being meted out to these people who still haven't got their jobs back, and are losing their wages every day this carries on, offends every fibre of fairness I possess and I have felt rather lonely these last six weeks.

Quick Meeting

Before my planned appearance at city council Thursday, a quick meeting was called for on Wednesday for that evening. This included all the commission plus five city aldermen.

The chair was taken by the vice-chairman who in effect almost gave an ultimatum to the councillors that they had better express confidence in the commission or the commission would all resign.

I felt a little sorry for the council members as they had to choose between supporting two old friends and colleagues formerly on council and what they felt might be resulting chaos.

My fellow commissioners' main argument for keeping the Arena manager another three months is because he is also business manager (local affairs only) of the Cougar Hockey Club, and therefore Mr. Piggott of Saskatoon must be consulted.

'Incompetency'

The way the Arena manager has handled the season ticket holders' promotion and his refusal to engage Mrs. Wallis with consequent sag in the maximum promotion of this important factor in hockey ticket sales is indicative to me of further incompetency, and I submit that Mr. Piggott, the good businessman he is, would have very strong views on the plan my colleagues have of retaining the manager another three months, in fact any longer than necessary. A telephone call would, I am sure, confirm this very promptly.

After a long dragged-out discussion and on the request of those present I agreed to withhold my resignation on the assurance the employees would be treated fairly, which means to my mind, getting their jobs back.

In all fairness there was at least one commissioner who refused to include Mr. Noakes in this arrangement, and this commissioner apparently has the principal voice in the employment or re-employment of staff.

Not Surprised

I was greatly disappointed, but not surprised, but I felt I had gained a little ground at least in the agreement to take the girls back, and I certainly exhibited a willingness to cooperate with not only the commission, but those aldermen present and I felt that most surely the injustice to Mr. Noakes would be picked up by many hands stronger and possibly more competent than mine.

I feel the city council was very kind in expressing confidence in the commission, and I am sure they did this in the hope we would be able to settle our own affairs. However, I feel their confidence has been sadly misplaced.

They are impressed with the profit picture of the Arena over the years and attribute most of the credit for this to the manager.

I cannot accept this, as there is no "one man show" of this nature in my opinion.

Higher Profits

I am also not satisfied, but that the profits could not have been a great deal higher had a little more good will of "give and take" been established with regular users and prospective clients of the arena, but the unhappy point, even so, is that important members of our staff have not had a salary increase in eight years, and the increment of our manager is equivalent over the average of almost 20 per cent of our total profits.

I cannot understand how we collected such a loyal and efficient staff. I think they are better than we deserve, for had these employees been associated with a labor union, they would never have received such treatment, in this instance. I am sitting with management and I am ashamed.

I can say this in conclusion that once this is cleaned up, and I shall not give in until it is, I hope never to involve in civic matters again, other than that which concerns my own business.

Not Worth It

I think I am beginning to see the light. It's not worth it.

Some of the points that have so aroused me other than the poor treatment of our staff by the commission:

1. The instructions by the arena manager to the staff that if any one of them allows a commissioner into the arena he would be fired.

2. A statement made to his staff by the manager, that he the manager, has never been dictated to by a commission and he "doesn't intend to have this start now."

3. His disobedience in not granting increases in salaries to our staff when instructed to do so by the commission last March.

4. His disobedience in keeping his family on staff for two to three weeks, possibly longer, after instructions to discharge them.

5. For the above reasons alone, exclusive of the other more unethical aspects of management, nothing but prompt and immediate severance is called for.

6. And, finally, the completely unsound plan of keeping a manager who is leaving and engaging a new man without the support of our experienced office manager, Mr. Noakes. As a taxpayer, I object.

In conclusion, I may have made some bad friends in certain quarters in the city. If so, then I am very sorry. But if one is to choose between being liked and being respected, then I must choose the latter, because if I had not stood firm on this issue I could not respect myself.

. . . ARENA

some persons who have spoken on Mr. Noakes' behalf "have hurt his cause and have made doubly difficult the duty of the commission in assessing the merits of his being rehired."

CLARIFIES STAND

In a prepared statement to The Times, he amplified his position.

"I wish to comment on the report concerning the arena in yesterday's Times," the statement said:

"I have heard personal pleas of certain ex-employees on behalf of Mr. Noakes and on the strength of it have agreed to a review of his position before the commission.

"My remarks, in agreeing to this review, have been construed as a statement that the commission had been willing to sacrifice Mr. Noakes to save face.

"Nothing could be further from the truth.

"Let us review the situation. Certain employees have resigned their positions without requesting a prior hearing by the commission. None of these people had been censured; not one was dismissed.

HINDERED

"The commission has been greatly hindered in performing its duty to the public by this sudden exodus of the arena staff at the peak of the season.

"It must be clear to all thoughtful citizens that the rehiring of former employees must be considered with scrupulous fairness to all concerned."

Mr. Nelles said he had studied the issue and talked to most of the persons concerned.

"The present ugly situation was caused by the commission leaving far too many decisions to Mr. Dukowski," he said. He said the commission was made of honorable men who donated their time.

"But aside from these qualifications, it is hard to see why some of them were appointed by city council and it is probably right to say that council must also share the blame.

MISMANAGEMENT

"Typical of the mismanagement that has gone on is the conflict of interests faced by Mr. Dukowski in working actively for the Cougars and the Ice Capades as well as for the Arena itself.

Mr. Nelles said the commission apparently condoned this situation if not actually encouraging it.

"This may have improved Mr. Dukowski's take-home pay and it may have been a great help to the two private enterprises mentioned but it also squandered a city asset. By leaving all the show business to one man, unsupervised, I feel that the stage was set for what has happened."

He said the commission should have asked council for additional men on the board or else they should have enlarged the employee staff.

"The arena situation has reached an explosive point. It can only be cured by council appointing somebody to clear it up."

Mr. Nelles said there was no need for an expensive investigation, just an improvement in personnel methods.

"The arena is a living, breathing asset and needs careful nursing through its trouble, not an autopsy," he said.

AGONY COMPOUNDED

"That Mr. Dukowski is irreplaceable is a bankrupt notion. That he must stay on the job for another three months simply compounds the agony.

"I am sure that the arena can be set back on its feet quite quickly and become at last the outstanding city property that taxpayers were promised.

"This, will happen when council faces up to its job. If I am elected on Dec. 8, this will be my first objective."

Mr. Toone said the manner in which the commission had handled the issue had reached "a ridiculous stage."

He felt council should not normally interfere with the commission.

"But once it was known something was wrong, city council should have demanded a full report on the matter to clear it up.

"This is the people's business. They have a right to know the problem and to have the matter cleared up in a businesslike fashion.

"I believe Mr. Haddock is right in the stand he has taken and the commission should reinstate the employees now or state why not. I venture that if the employees had been members of a trade union organization this matter would not have been dragged around as it has."

Mr. Toone said the whole situation pointed up the need of closer liaison between the commission and council "and the need for labor members on such commissions and boards"

"However, the important thing right now is to get the arena business back on the track. This means reinstatement of the employees and a full report to city council. That does not include the manager, whose resignation I understand has been accepted."

LONDON TRAIN ROBBERS BAG TREMENDOUS HAUL

LONDON (Reuters) — Train robbers are believed to have netted thousands of pounds when they raided a train bound for London from the south coast Tuesday night.

The gang bound and gagged a guard when the train halted at a light—believed to have been short-circuited by accomplices to make it red—and flung out mailbags on the track.

Police were investigating the possibility the raiders might have been the same three masked men who overpowered the guard of another south coast express train in August and got away with £9,000 and again stole thousands of pounds on the same run in September.

Laos Rebels On the March

VIENTIANE (Reuters) — Thousands of pro-Western rebel forces today tried to march on this administrative capital of Laos and overthrow neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma.

The premier disclosed at a press conference Gen. Phoumi Nosavan's rebel forces, armed with tanks, launched a two-prong offensive from the south Tuesday.

Three Injured, Car Demolished

DUNCAN—Mrs. Albert E. H. Smith, Cowichan Lake Road, and her two grandchildren, Karen, 2, and Gregory, 3, were injured here Monday after the car in which they were driving collided with a heavy trailer-truck.

Mrs. Smith suffered head and leg abrasions. The children, who were riding in the back of the vehicle, sustained shock.

FOR B.C. LIONS

He Hopes And Hopes And Hopes

(From Duncan Bureau)

What does the general manager of a football club do?

"He hopes," said Vancouver Lions manager Herb Capozzi at a post-Grey Cup dinner here Tuesday.

"I'm like a missionary. Every year I go around preaching the same thing — hope."

He told an audience at the Kinsmen-sponsored dinner that the B.C. Lions football club is a million dollar business.

"We spend $5,000 a year on adhesive tape, $10,000 to feed players at training camp, and $25,000 on transportation," he said.

'GREAT FANS'

He said the Lions would be prepared to underwrite 50 per cent of the initial cost of a high school football league in Duncan and district.

Willie Fleming, altar-bound in California, was unable to attend the dinner, as was By Bailey. Capozzi introduced two of the Lions young Canadian stars, Bruce Claridge and Jim Carphin.

Snow Halts Logging Operations

COURTENAY — Heavy snow has halted all logging operations of Crown Zellerbach (Canada) Limited in this area.

The company's operations at Ladysmith, Nanaimo Lakes, Nitinat, and Bella Coola are scheduled to shut down Dec. 16.

fore the Saturday deadline for the work stoppage. Labor Minister Starr introduced in the Commons a tight, seven-clause act to shunt the railway crisis ahead to May 15. Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the legislation will "prevent" the strike.

The government brought the legislation before Parliament less than four hours after last-ditch emergency negotiations between railway and union leaders collapsed without any agreement on the multi-million-dollar wage dispute.

The legislation, "an act to provide for the continuation of the operation of the railways," received first reading automatically, with debate on second reading — approval in principle—held off to today.

OPPOSITION WILL HELP

Opposition parties have agreed to "facilitate" parliamentary consideration of the bill, but they may blast the government for stalling the strike of some 111,000 non-operating rail workers without settling the wage dispute.

The Liberals have contended the government should enforce a solution on the basis of a 14-cent hourly increase awarded by a conciliation board, a plan the railways say would cost them $34,000,000 a year at the end of the proposed two-year contract.

CCF Leader Argue has called for an interim subsidy to the railways so they could meet the wage bill.

Meanwhile, the railways are lifting a national embargo on shipments of livestock, poultry and perishable goods.
